NELSON ARMY.

The people of Evansburg were made sad when on Wednesday morning, May 26th, the tidings went out that Nelson Amey was dead, and a still heavier grief fell upon the home when it was learned that the late friend was born in the Township of Ernestown, Lennox and Addington, Dec. 3rd, 1848. He was united in marriage to Miss Agnes Bell, in the year 1873, and the widow that now mourns his loss.

For a number of years Mr. and Mrs. Amey resided on the old homestead, where the family, nine in number, were born and reared to manhood and womanhood. Here also lived their home being a happy one, and the children grew up under refining influences. A tiller of the soil, Mr. Amey was one of those sturdy men that have helped to build up our country. He was a man of a kindly disposition and won the good will of a large circle of friends, his character he was upright, shown, lasting integrity and loving righteousness, and was well to be remembered by long known him. The writer bears willing testimony to his generous nature, and his loving, tender spirit as husband and father.

His end came all too soon and suddenly. Pursuing his farm duties, one hot day he became stricken himself to that a blood vessel was ruptured, and despite all that medical skill could do he passed away after an interval of a few days, during which his spine pain was borne with a noble fortitude. Loving hands and willing ministers have laid his last resting place in the cemetery at Camden East. Life had for Mr. Amey many joys, death had no terrors, and we look to see him again in the land without a shadow. His wife and one son, Gurnell, and two daughters, Mrs. Mann and Mrs. Hall, mourn their best friend.—Rev. J. Roberts.

CATHERINE HAGERMAN.

Beloved wife of the late Abraham Hagerman, of Ernestown, passed peacefully away July 9th. She lived to enjoy life and see many of her former friends laid to rest, where now she rests at last among the number. Mrs. Hagerman reached the ripe old age of 88 years, 2 months and 4 days. Always lived in this community, she made many friends and won the respect of all. Deceased had been gradually failing for a couple of years, but was not taken seriously ill until the 1st of May. Her suffering by times were very trying, but she bore them patiently and was well cared for by her son and daughter-in-law where she had always lived previous to her husband's death. Twenty-one years ago Their family consists of six children, thirty grandchildren and fifteen great grandchildren, namely, Edward Mc. Leod Snider, Mrs. H. Dawes, Sarnia, Mrs. D. N. Sharp and Anthony on the homestead, where mother and father settled in early days, and lived until death came as a victim. She had many grandchildren and great-grandchildren, and enjoyed visiting with them until within three days of her death. Her grandchildren are Edward's two daughters and seven sons, Mrs. Hetta Snider, son and daughter, Mr. Ellen Dafoe, two daughters and son Mrs. Janet Sharp's three sons, Anthony's five sons and daughter. The great-grandchildren are L. Hagerman daughter, D. Snider son, E. Sharp son and daughter, A. Fraser, daughter, C. Redden, daughter Mrs. Field, son and daughter A. Hagerman, son, J. Kenny, son and daughter Mrs. Clark, son, J. Hagerman, daughter, and Mrs. Eccles, one son, aged sixteen, the eldest great-grandchild. Deceased's pallbearers were her six grandsons, this being her own request. Although an aged lady, her death cast a gloom over the entire community, and her funeral was largely attended, service being conducted by the Rev. W. Robinson, B.A.

Alone, with Jesus! oh how sweet
In health to worship at his feet,
But sweeter far when day is done
We droop and pine and wade away
To feel his arms around us close
And in his bosom find repose
We will meet in yonder mansion,
Where our wanderings all shall cease
There we'll meet our dear companions,
And be crowned with perfect peace

RE NOTION SEEDS.

The following letter will probably be of interest to all municipalities in the County:

Napanee, July 22d, 1909.

C. B. Hamble, Esq.,
Chairman County Roads and Bridges, Napanee.

Dear Sir,—I have considered the question submitted by you and refer you to Chapter 192, Ontario Statutes, 1906. The duties of overseers of highways in our municipality are that the provisions of Section 1, relating to noxious weeds, shall be carried out within their respective divisions, by cutting down or destroying or causing to be cut down or destroyed all plants liable to prevent the ripening of their seeds, all noxious weeds growing in the highways and road allowances within their respective divisions, such work to be performed as part of the ordinary Statute Labor, or to be paid for as a separate job by the Treasurer of the Municipality, as the Council of the Municipality may direct."

Yours truly,
W. G. WILSON.

TRINITY METHODIST CHURCH.

Next Sunday, July 25th, Mr. Leon Rice, Toronto, of New York City, will sing at both the morning and evening services at Trinity Methodist Church. In the morning he will sing "The Ninety and Nine" by Campbell. In the evening his selections will be "It with all your heart" by Mendelsohn's Elijah, "Come unto Me" by Coenen.

On the Monday evening following he will give a Sacred Song Recital in the church, accompanied by Mrs. Rice. Mr. Rice has been making a tour of the citizens of the United States, and comes very highly recommended, and if one may judge anything from the press reports, he has a full, resonant tenor voice such as captivates his audience. The St. Boun Republic says of him: "He has a voice of tremendous power, remarkable compass and great depth of feeling. He completely electrified his hearers." Winnipeg Press: "He created a most favorable impression on the 3,000 people who had gathered."

On Sunday and Monday we expect to be favored with such a tradition of sacred song as the people of Napanee have not listened to for some time. The admission to the Monday evening recital is a voluntary offering of not less than 10 cents. We trust that Mr. Rice will be received by a full house.

CANADA AN EXAMPLE.

English Speaker Envies Such a Happy Land—Problems Which Perplex England, Such as the Land Tax Question, Would Not be Tolerated for a Moment in the Dominion. Says Sir R. Perks.

Sir R. Perks, speaking on the land tax question, said that he had been lately in a happy country where problems which perplexed us were not brought under the consideration of the Legislature. When we are told sometimes to copy New Zealand or Germany, he thought we might with advantage turn our eyes to the growing, prosperous Dominion of Canada, where such land regulations as are now being proposed here would not be tolerated for a moment.

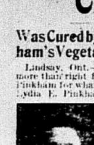
OPERATION HER ONLY CHANCE

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lindsay, Ont.—"I think it is no more than right for me to thank Mrs. Pinkham for what her kind advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. When I wrote to her last spring I was a very sick woman, suffering from female troubles. I had inflammation of the female organs, and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I refused to do. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now, after using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman. I most heartily recommend this medicine to all women who suffer with female troubles. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and think they are fine."—Mrs. FRANK ENGLEY, Lindsay, Ontario.



We cannot understand why women will take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, without first trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, bloody tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

MORE BEER DRUNK BUT LESS "SPIRITS."

Revenue Returns Show the Consumption in Canada.

According to a statement issued by the Inland Revenue Department the people of Canada are drinking less spirits than they used to, but at the same time the consumption of beer per capita is increasing. While the per capita consumption of spirits in 1906 was 861, it was only 805 in the last fiscal year. On the other hand, the consumption of beer, which for 1906 was 5.250 gallons per head in 1906, has last year to 5.348 gallons. The consumption of wine also shows a decrease from 091 in 1906 to 085 last year.

Tobacco continues to grow in popularity. In 1906 the consumption was 2.777 lbs. per head. Last year it was 2.940 lbs. The short fiscal year of 1906-7 holds the record for the consumption of tobacco. In that period it was 2.953 lbs. per head, and it fell to 2.855 when the depression struck the continent.

BLOW SOAP BUBBLES.

How Dutch School Children Broaden Their Chests.

Blowing soap bubbles is an exercise which has been adopted at a school in Haarlem, Holland, on the advice of a local practitioner, Dr. Oudtmar, in order to broaden the children's chests. This pleasant method in gymnastics as it is simple was thought of because of the difficulty in getting children to do ordinary breathing exercises thoroughly and regularly. On three days in the week all the children have placed before them a bowl of soapy water and a pipe. The windows are opened wide to admit as much fresh air through their lungs as possible, and arrangements are made so that no draughts blow on the children. Periodical competitions are arranged as to who can blow the biggest bubbles. Periodical measurements have proved the efficacy of the arrangement, increases being noted in each individual.

OBITUARY.

It is with much regret and sorrow that we report the death of Mrs. Rev. Lord, at Odessa, which occurred on the morning of July 9th, at a late who was much loved and highly respected in all who knew her. Her death came after but a short illness, and her departure was a great shock to her many friends, as but few knew of her ill health, and her death came down in her husband's arms. She has been a great sufferer, but all that skill and loving care could do to relieve her was done. She was a great reader, always choosing high class literature, and of a very great intellectual power, and to her mind the ordinary, which combined with a great memory, made her a most interesting friend and companion. She was a staunch church woman and a great worker for her church. For the last years of her life she had to give up much of the work she loved so well. The funeral service was conducted at the late home residence, by Rev. D. Pardy, assisted by Rev. C. J. Thompson, of Sills, and Rev. H. Symons, of Bath, all speaking of the high esteem in which she was held, and of the great intellectual power, and the loss of all denominations to her home. Mrs. C. H. Frith, of Newburgh, who was a beautiful singer, and a favorite and much loved lyrist, the last one being "Abide With Me." The floral tributes were numerous, and extended to her aged mother and sisters, Mrs. Kenny and Mrs. H. W. Wood, and brother Rev. and family at home.

YOUR HAT

May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes

A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.

Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.

When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

WARM WEATHER CREED.

Don't keep remarking incessantly what a hot day it is. The obvious is annoying.

Don't get yourself overheated by energetically fanning yourself.

Don't stop eating all solid foods and make your diet consist exclusively of ice cream and iced tea.

Don't lie down and declare that you are not able to work in such weather; keep at your job and forget the heat.

Dress as simply as possible; dispense with some of the trifles of dress, which are merely ornamental, and add so materially to weight and heat.

Self-control and self-poise aid greatly in keeping cool; practice them both.

Keep your house shut by day and open by night. Never forget the screens, for the annoyance of flies is maddening.

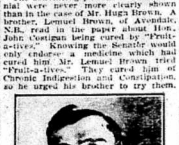
Remember that there are people crowded in a room in the tenement section of the city, and be grateful that you are not one of them.

A cold plunge bath when one is overheated, is as unhealthy and non-cooling as anything possible. The decided shock to the system is weakening, and a tepid bath is far more cooling and less severe.

BROTHER TOLD BROTHER

One Suffered for Fifteen Years, the Other for Thirteen.

The convincing powers of a testimonial were never more clearly shown than in the case of Mr. Hugh Brown. A brother, Leonard Brown, of Woodstock, N.B., read in the paper about Hon. John Costigan being cured by "Fruit-a-tives." Knowing the Senator would only endorse a medicine which had cured him, Mr. Leonard Brown tried "Fruit-a-tives." They cured him of Chronic Indigestion and Constipation, so he urged his brother to try them.



Hartland, N.B., Oct. 24th, 1907.
"Three doctors told me that I had Liver Disease and serious Stomach Trouble. My stomach was in such a bad way, I took their medicines for thirteen years and finally I gave up. My brother who was cured of terrible Indigestion by "Fruit-a-tives" after suffering for 15 years, recommended me to try these wonderful tablets. I bought half a dozen boxes and have just finished the sixth. I eat all kinds of hearty foods without distress and am greatly improved in every way. "Fruit-a-tives" also cured the Chronic Constipation which was so distressing to me."

(Signed) HUGH BROWN.

BARN PAINT

[illegible] Sherwin-Williams Commonwealth, 1bd.]
The Medical Hall Fred L. Hooper.

$28,000.00

To the amount of insurance written by the agents of the Lennox and Addington Mutual Fire Insurance Company in June, and passed upon by the Board of Directors, at their monthly meeting on July 1st, inst., despite the falsifying of an unscrupulous agent running up and down the side lines in his vain efforts to belittle the Lennox and Addington. Our Company is offering the best protection of any Fire Insurance Company doing business in these counties. Eleven hundred farmers (and they among the best in the land) banded together for the mutual protection of each other, paying no bonuses, or dividends to stockholders, but operated at actual cost. Study the Government reports which can be found on file at our head office in Napanee, and you will find that the Lennox and Addington is at the top. Are you one of them? If not, why not? Why send your money away to swell the purses of the already rich of the cities, to the detriment of our own County Town and surrounding country. Study the standing of these city companies before insuring. Some have very recently fallen, others are tottering.

ODESSA.

Our teachers should be quite proud of the success of the pupils who wrote on high school work and Entrance exams. The latter, who went to Newburgh, all passed. Surely that speaks well for both teachers and pupils.

A few games of baseball were played, the first being a "no fair game at all", for the reason that no doubt the best players were picked from three different places, and of course the poor Odessa boys came to grief. The second game was right, in which the Yarkerites came out much ahead, but never mind, Odessa, you may do better next time.

Some improvements are being made in the village. Messrs. Bennett and Bond have put in acetylene lights, and S. Sproule has his house newly painted.

Now is the time when everybody's friends are on the move, either coming or going. Master Fred Simcoe spent a few days with friends here and at Bishop Mills.

Rev. Reid and Mr. Tear paid an annual visit to the Anglican church here on Tuesday.

Mrs. Wycott received a bear of the sudden death of Mrs. Barney Wood, of this parish, on Sunday morning. Mrs. Wood was taken ill only a few days ago, but was taken with a sudden faintness, and in a very short time expired, aged about 70 years. She was much esteemed as sympathy as possible, could get them. The funeral services were conducted in the Anglican church by Rev. McTear, of Bath. A goodly number of neighbors and friends attended who was a lady of a quiet, unassuming disposition, a constant attendee to her church and was highly respected by her neighbors and friends.

NEWBURGH.

On Friday evening, 16th inst., Mrs. John Dunn, of this village, passed away, after a lingering illness lasting over several weeks. For many years after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Dunn lived in Newburgh. A few years ago Mr. Dunn purchased a farm in Camden, later removing to Centreville. Failing health compelled him to give up work, and last spring he moved to Newburgh. The late Mrs. Dunn was a kind and amiable woman, and was much beloved by those who knew her. She leaves besides her sorrowing husband four children to mourn her early demise. The funeral service was conducted in St. Luke's Church, Camden East, on Sunday, the 18th, by Rev. F. B. Woodcock, interment being made in Camden East cemetery.—Miss Ethel Mears, Toronto, is visiting Miss Mary Beeman.

The deceased lady, whose maiden name was Frances Augusta Morden, was fifty-two years and nine days old, and her sudden death was a terrible shock to the family and the whole community, where she was very highly esteemed and respected, and many were the sincere expressions of sorrow on every side, for to know was to esteem her. Her sunny, happy disposition, and her kindness of heart, always a comforting word, and a helping hand for those in distress or trouble, she made many friends who will greatly miss her, but the home, which was her greatest pleasure, and where she was an ideal wife and mother, the blow will be felt the keenest. SHOOTING AT SHANNONVILLE.

A shooting affray occurred Sunday evening in the village of Shannonville, which, fortunately, was not of a very serious nature. It appears that Mrs. William Ryan, of Shannonville, called at the residence of Mrs. Thomas Doult, a neighbor, and it is alleged, without saying a word, fired a shot at her from a revolver. The bullet penetrated Mrs. Doult's right hand, making a rather ugly wound. On Monday a preliminary investigation of the affair was held, which resulted that the accused was committed for trial at the December Assizes. Mrs. Ryan was subsequently liberated on bail.

The Two Vanrevels

By BOOTH TARKINGTON,
Author of "The Gentleman from Indiana" and "Monsieur Beaucaire"

Copyright, 1902, by A. S. Pettibone Co.

"Another man has taken your death on himself."

He reeled back against the wall. "O God!" he said. "Crailey?"

"Yes," she answered. "It's the poor vagabond that you loved so well."

Together they ran through the hall to the library. Crailey was lying on the long sofa, his eyes closed, his head like a piece of carven marble, the gay uniform in which he had tricked himself out so gallantly open at the throat and his white linen stained with a few little splotches of red.

Beside him knelt Miss Betty, holding her lace handkerchief upon his breast. She was as white as he and as motionless, so that as she knelt there, immovable, beside him, her arm, like whatever, across his breast, they might have been a sculptor's group. The handkerchief was stained a little, like the linen, and, like it, too, stained but a little. Near by on the floor stood a flask of brandy and a pitcher of water.

"You!" Miss Betty's face showed no change nor even a faint surprise as her eyes fell upon Tom Vanrevel, but her lips soundlessly framed the word, "You!"

Tom flung himself on his knees beside her.

"Crailey?" he cried in a sharp voice that had a terrible shake in it. "Crailey! Crailey, I want you to hear me!" He took one of the limp hands in his and began to chafe it, while Mrs. Tansberry grasped the other.

"There's still a movement in the pulse," she faltered.

"Still!" echoed Tom roughly. "You're mad! You made me think Crailey was dead! Do you think Crailey Gray is going to die? He couldn't, I tell you—he couldn't. You don't know him! Who's gone for the doctor?" He dashed some brandy upon his handkerchief and set it to the white lips.

"Mamie. She was here in the room with me when it happened."

"Happened! Happened!" he mocked her furiously. "Happened' is a beautiful word!"

"God forgive me!" sobbed Mrs. Tansberry. "I was sitting in the library, and Mamie had just come from you, when we heard Mr. Carewe shout from the cupola room, 'Stand away from my daughter, Vanrevel, and take this like a dog!' Only that, and Mamie and I ran to the window, and we saw through the dusk a man in uniform leap back from Miss Betty—they were in the little open space near the ledge. He called out something and waved his hand, but the shot came at the same time, and he fell. Even then I was sure, in spite of what Mamie had said, I was as sure as Robert Carewe was, that it was you. He came and took one look—and saw—and then Nelson brought the horses and made him mount and go. Mamie ran for the doctor, and Betty and I carried Crailey in. It was hard work."

Miss Betty's hand had fallen from Crailey's breast where Tom's took its place. She rose unsteadily to her feet and pushed back the hair from her forehead, shivering convulsively as she looked down at the motionless figure on the sofa.

"Crailey?" said Tom, in the same angry, shaking voice. "Crailey, you've got to rouse yourself! This won't do; you've got to be a man! Crailey!" He was trying to force the brandy through the tightly clinched teeth. "Crailey!"

"Crailey?" whispered Miss Betty, leaning heavily on the back of a chair. "Crailey?" She looked at Mrs. Tansberry with vague interrogation, but Mrs. Tansberry did not understand.

"Crailey!"

It was then that Crailey's eyelids fluttered and slowly opened and his wandering glance, dull at first, slowly grew clear and twinkling as it rested on the ashy, stricken face of his best friend.

"Tom," he said feebly, "it was worth the price to wear your clothes just once!"

And then at last Miss Betty saw and understood, for not the bravest gentleman whom every one except Robert Carewe held in esteem and affection, not her father's enemy, Vanrevel, lay before her with the death wound in his breast for her sake, but that other, Crailey Gray, the ne'er-do-weel and light of love—Crailey Gray, the poet and scapegrace, the well beloved town scamp.

He saw that she knew, and as his brightening eyes wandered up to her he smiled faintly. "Even a bad dog likes to have his day," he whispered.

CHAPTER XIX.

WILL CUMMINGS had abandoned the pen for the sword until such time as Santa Anna should cry for quarter, and had left the office in charge of an imported substitute, but late that night he came to his desk once more to write the story of the accident to Corporal Gray, and the tale that he wrote had been already put into writing by Tom Vanrevel as it fell from Crailey's lips after the doctor had come, so that none might doubt it. No one did doubt it. What reason had Mr. Carewe to injure Crailey Gray? Was five in Rouen knew the truth, for Nelson had gone with his master, and, except Kamle, the other servants of the Carewe house hold fled as one among the crowd in front of the Rouen House when the shot was fired.

So the story went over the town how Crailey had called to say goodby to Mrs. Tauberry; how Mr. Carewe happened to be examining his musket his father had carried in 1812 when the weapon was accidentally discharged, the ball entering Crailey's breast; how Mr. Carewe, stricken with remorse and horror over this frightful misfortune and suffering too severe anguish of mind to remain upon the scene of the tragedy, which his unconscious hand had made, had fled, attended by his servant, and how they had leaped aboard the evening boat as it was pushing out and were now on their way down the river.

And this was the story, too, that Tom told Fanchon, for it was he who brought her to Crailey. Through the long night she knelt at Crailey's side, his hand always pressed to her breast or cheek, her eyes always upward and her lips moving with her prayers, not for Crailey to be spared, but that the Father would take good care of him in heaven till she came. "I had already given him up," she said to Tom meekly in a small voice. "I knew it was to come, and perhaps this way is better than that—I thought it would be far away from me. Now I can be with him, and perhaps I shall have him a little longer, for he was to have gone away before noon."

The morning sun rose upon a fair world, gay with bird chatterings from the big trees of the Carewe place and pleasant with the odors of Miss Betty's garden, and Crailey, lying upon the bed of the man who had shot him, bearkened and smiled goodby to the summer he loved; and, when the day broke, asked that the bed be moved so that he might lie close by the window. It was Tom who had borne him to that room. "I have carried him before this," he said, waving the others aside.

Not long after sunrise, when the bed had been moved near the window, Crailey begged Fanchon to bring him a miniature of his mother which he had given her and urged her to go for it herself. He wanted no hands but hers to touch it, he said. And when she had gone he asked to be left alone with Tom.

"Give me your hand, Tom," he said faintly. "I'd like to keep hold of it a minute or so. I couldn't have said that yesterday, could I, without causing us both horrible embarrassment? But I fancy I can now because I'm done for. That's too bad, isn't it? I'm very young, after all. Do you remember what poor Andre Chenier said as he went up to be guillotined?—There were things in this head of mine.' But I have to tell you what's been the matter with me. It was just my being a bad sort of poet. I suppose that I've never loved any one, yet I've cared more deeply than other men for every lovely thing I ever saw, and there's so little that hasn't loveliness in it. I'd be ashamed not to have cared for the beauty in all the women I've made love to—but about this one—the most beautiful of all—I"—

"She will understand," said Tom quickly.

"She will—yes—she's wise and good. If Fanchon knew, there wouldn't be even a memory left to her, and I don't think she'd live. And, do you know, I believe I've done a favor for Miss Betty in getting myself shot. Carewe will never come back. Tom, was ever a man's knavery so exactly the architect of his own destruction as mine? And for what gain? Just the excitement of the comedy from day to day, for she was sure to despise me as soon as she knew, and the desire to hear her voice ray another kindly thing to me, and the everlasting perhaps in every woman, and this one the heart's desire of all the world! Ah, well! Tell me—I want to hear it from you—how many hours does the doctor say?"

"Hours, Crailey?" Tom's hand twitched pitifully in the elder's feeble grasp. "I know it's only a few."

"They're all fools, doctors!" exclaimed ed Vanrevel fiercely.

"No, no. And I know that nothing can be done. You all see to that, and you want me to go easily, or you wouldn't let me have my own way so much. It frightens me, I own up, to think that so soon I'll be wiser than the wisest in the world. Yet I always wanted to know. I've sought and I've sought—but now to go out alone on the search—it must be the search, for the Holy Grail—I"—

"Please don't talk," begged Tom in a broken whisper. "for mercy's sake, lad, it wears on you so."

Crailey laughed weakly. "Do you think I could die peacefully without talking a great deal? There's one thing I want, Tom—I want to see all of them once more, all the old friends that are going down the river at noon. What harm could it do? I want them to come by here on their way to the boat, with the band and the new flag. But I want the band to play cheerfully! Ask 'em to play 'Rosin the Bow,' will you? I've never believed in mournful music, and I don't want to see any of it now. It's the rankest impiety of all! And, besides, I want to see them as they'll be when they come marching home—they must look gay."

"Ah, don't, lad, don't!" Tom flung one arm about the other's shoulder, and Crailey was silent, but rested his head gently on his friend's head. In that attitude Fanchon found them when she came.

The volunteers gathered at the courthouse two hours before noon. They met each other dismally, speaking in undertones as they formed in line of four, while their dispirited faces showed that the heart was out of them. Not so with the crowds of country folk and townspeople who lined the streets to see the last of them, for these, when the band came marching down the street and took its place, set up a great cheering that grew louder as Jefferson Barreaud, the color bearer, carried the flag to the head of the procession. With the recruits marched the veterans of 1812 and the Indian wars, the one legged cobbler stumping along beside General Trumble, who looked very dejected and old. The lines stood in silence and responded to the cheering by quietly removing their hats, so that the people whispered that it was more like an Odd Fellows' Sunday funeral than the departure of enthusiastic patriots for the seat of war. General Trumble's was not the only sad face in the ranks. All were downcast and nervous, even those of the lads from the country, who had not known the comrade they were to leave behind.

Jefferson unfurled the flag. Marsh gave the word of command, the band began to play a quickstep, and the procession moved forward down the cheering lane of people, who waved little flags and handkerchiefs and threw their hats in the air as they shouted; but, contrary to expectation, the parade was not directly along Main street to the river. "Right wheel! March!" commanded Tappingham hoarsely, waving his sword, and Jefferson led the way into Carewe street.

"For God's sake, don't cry now!" and Tappingham with a large drop streaking down his own cheek turned severely upon Lieutenant Cummings. "That isn't what he wants. He wants to see us looking cheering and smiling. We can do it for him this once, I guess! I never saw him any other way."

"You look very smiling yourself!" snuffled Will.

"I will when we turn in at the gates," retorted the captain. "On my soul I swear I'll kill whoever's the idiot that doesn't! In line, there!" he stormed ferociously at a big recruit.

The lively strains of the band and the shouting of the people grew louder and louder in the room where Crailey lay. His eyes glistened as he heard, and he smiled, not the old smile of the worldly prelate, but merrily, like a child when music is heard. The room was darkened, save for the light of the one window which fell softly upon his head and breast and upon another fair head close to his, where Fanchon knelt. It the shadows at one end of the room were Miss Betty and Mrs. Tanberry and Mrs. Barreaud and the white hair-

"Here they come!"

SUFFER NO MORE. The most thoroughly successful remedy for all stomach disorders is Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which are among the best known and most reliable medicines to take, and are most efficacious in their action. Thousands of testimonials prove this.

Arthur—That was dear Miss Coppish who left the room when you spoke. Kate—Then you must remember me. Try bread as first.

A RECOGNIZED REGULATOR. To bring the system into healthful action is the beginning in the cure of pimples, as when this is done the blood is purified and the skin becomes clear and beautiful. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which are among the best known and most reliable medicines to take, and are most efficacious in their action. Thousands of testimonials prove this.

"Tommy, I'm sure at all pleased with the report your mother gave me of your conduct today." "I know you wouldn't be, as I told her so. But you made the report all right, anyhow. Just like a woman, ain't it, father?"

A GOOD MEDICINE possesses little value unless its merits are known. Ayer's Sarsaparilla has been before the public for sixty years, and the good name it now enjoys has been fairly won. Its cures are numerous and well authenticated. It has received the highest awards at the World's Fairs, and is recommended by leading physicians and druggists. It has carried its fame with it wherever it has gone, and in all sections of the country is well and favorably known. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier.

A certain father who is fond of putting his boys through natural history examinations is often surprised by accidental agility. He recently asked them to tell him what animal is satisfied with the least amount of food. "Mother-in-law," one of them shouted confidently. "It eats nothing but hubs."

Burns, pain, bruises, scalding and inflammation are quickly relieved by Zam-Buk. Worm Exterminator is pleasant, safe, and effectual. If your children have worms in stock, get him to use it for you.

Biggs—I understand that you encourage your son to practice on the cornet. Griggs—Yes, sir. He's only been playing two months, but to-day I bought the house next door to me for one-half of its value.

Is there anything more amusing than hearing your self-styled superior in knowledge talk learnedly? This gentle old soul is. Hollaway's Corn Cure will do it. Price 25 cents. Sold by all dealers.

"I'm going to have some photographs taken, John," said the wife of his bosom the other morning. "Have you any preference as to position?" "Well," resumed the husband of his wife, "if you were to pose before the camera while in the act of sewing a button on my trousers it would make a picture that I would contemplate with pleasurable emotion."

The transition from winter's cold to summer's heat frequently puts a strain upon the system that produces internal complications, always painful and often serious. A common form of disorder is dysentery, to which many are prone in the spring and summer. The very best medicine to use in subduing this painful trouble is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It is a standard remedy and everywhere

The preacher was eloquent, the congregation patient and the drowsure very long. A stranger entered and took a seat in a back pew. Presently he whispered to the man at his side, evidently one of the old members:

"How long has he been preaching?"

"Thirty or forty years. I think," answered the elderly man. "I don't know exactly."

"I'll stay then," said the stranger. "He must be nearly done."

A tickling or dry cough can be quickly loosened with Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. No opium, no chloroform, nothing unsafe or harsh. Sold by all dealers. 27c

NEWS NOTES.

The Canadian Rules team are to receive a great welcome on their arrival in Montreal.

Interesting reports are read at the annual convention of the Police Constables' Association at Niagara Falls.

Hope of finding Major Harrigan, of Port Arthur, who was lost in the woods, has practically been abandoned.

An attempt was made to blow up the office of Manager Merell at Barrie. Some damage was caused, but no one was injured.

Mr. Benjamin Price, of Rattleford, has been appointed to the Senate, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Senator Perley.

Impressed with the story of a clairvoyant that her son was murdered, Mrs. Francis Northey, of Montreal, has instituted a search in Lake Montford.

Martial law has been put in force throughout Spain.

Two men were killed by the explosion of a mortar during a fireworks display near Sandusky.

The Miners' Confederation of Great Britain has voted overwhelmingly in favor of a national strike.

Lester F. Barry and his wife, of Hamilton, were arrested in New York on a charge of attempted blackmail.

GOOD AT MULTIPLICATION.

The Countess Pierre de Coldiroli, at a dinner at the Colony Club in New York, sneered at the resolution recently adopted by the Woman's Club of Evanston, that women should learn boxing.

"These Evanston ladies," said the Italian novelist, "think that a boxing woman would get more respectful consideration at the hands of thieves, of flaneurs—or mashers, as you say—and of husbands. But that idea is all wrong. Women will never be a boxer. And the idea that a knowledge of pugilism would improve her condition is similar, in its absurdity, to an idea expressed recently by my little daughter.

"My little daughter is a friend to reading and a foe to ciphering. In natural history she succeeds, but in the simplest sums she fails. Looking up, the other day, from a work on the Australian fauna, she said to her governess wistfully:

"I wish I was a rabbit!"

"Why, my child?"

"Because this book says they multiply with extraw-nary rapidity."

One ear of Feed arrived. Cracked and Ground Corn, pure Grain, Moellie Corn and Oats. Also Timothy and Clover Seed. Lowest prices for cash. Call and examine this feed.

into money. Ordinary weeds grow around our countryside, noticed or perhaps disliked, that can be made profitable to the woman who will take a little trouble to learn some pin-money. In the June issue of The Ladies' Home Journal Dr. Emma E. Walker tells what useful weeds are, and what they are good for.

WOMEN AND THE STAGE.

David Belasco was in his best mood at a dinner preceding his vacation—his first vacation in 20 long years. In the course of a learned review of barefoot dancing, problem plays, and suchlike outcroppings of stage history, he smiled and said:

"It may be true, as some have claimed, that immoral plays are due to the immoral taste of woman. Yes, that may be true; but, gentlemen, did you ever watch at the theatre an elderly, staid, perhaps somewhat unprepossessing wife, brooding over a husband a little younger than herself? These wives, surely, are no supporters of the immoral stage spectacle. Such a wife sat in front of my theatres during the production of a drama. The heroine, a beautiful girl, said at a dramatic moment:

"Merciful heavens, I am undone!"

"The wife rose hurriedly.

"Come, Clarence," she murmured sternly. "We've had enough of this. I'm not going to have you drinkin' in any Salome dance or disrobin' act."

SMALE—DONOVAN.

At the Methodist church, Tamworth, on July 28th, at 11.30 a.m., the marriage was solemnized of Miss Gertrude Donovan, only daughter of Mr. Jas. Donovan, Tamworth, to Alvin M. Smale, Tamworth, former-ly of Highgate. The pastor, Rev. S. H. Dixon, performed the ceremony and Miss Nesbit, of Newburgh, also presided at the organ. The bride, who was gowned in cream silk voile with chiffon and duchess satin trimmings, wearing the conventional veil and orange blossoms, and carrying white carnations, was conducted to the altar by her father. Miss Eva Smale, attired in pale green voilenne with tan duchess satin trimmings and carrying pink carnations, attended the bride. Mr. Edward Huffman, cousin of the bride, performed the duties of best man. The church was prettily decorated by the ladies of the G. F. C., of which the bride is a member. After the ceremony a dainty dejeuner was partaken of at the home of the bride. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch and fob, to the bridesmaid a pearl crescent, and to the groomsman gold cuff links with monogram. The bridal part- left on the two o'clock train for Toronto, Niagara and other western points.

CENTREVILLE.

Owing to the fine weather of late, the oat crops are above the average. —Miss Edna Clancy, Napanee, was the guest of Miss Minnie Milligan, a few days last week.—On Saturday morning, at 6 o'clock, death again entered our midst and claimed one of our much respected elderly ladies, in the person of Mrs. Jas. Hinchey. Mrs. Jas. Hinchey was the daughter of Thomas Jamieson, who came to Canada three-quarters of a century ago. In 1859 she married Mr. Hinchey, and since then they have lived happily together in the township of Camden. In religion she was a Methodist. The last respects were paid the departed at the Methodist church, on Monday, at 10.30 a.m. The service was ably conducted by the Rev. J. M. Whyte. The husband, three daughters and one son survive to mourn the loss of a loving mother and companion. Mr. H. Sweet at J. B. Wesse's, on Sunday last.

A number attended the Wesley lawn social on Monday evening last.—Miss Jennie Long spent Sunday evening at home.—Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Croft and Mr. and Mrs. Cousins were the guests of Mr. Reuben Milligan, last week.—There will be a service conducted by Rev. Dixon, on Sunday afternoon to the Black Society.—By the way things are going around town we will need a police force on Saturday evening.—Bert. Lochhead spent an evening, renewing old acquaintances in town.—Berry picking is the order of the day.

F. M. GRIFFITH.

At Ottawa, on July 14th, F. M. Griffith passed to rest, after a short illness. Frank was an old Napanee boy, and will be remembered by the older residents of the town, as one of the successful dry goods merchants of Napanee. After receiving his education he learned the dry goods business with the late M. T. Rogers, and then embarked in the dry goods business for himself, which he carried on successfully for a number of years or until the death of his wife. He then removed to Ottawa, where he has resided continuously ever since. In early life he married Lizzie, daughter of the late G. H. Detlor, by whom he had one son, George W. Of a once large family the Detlors have all passed away. His second wife was a Miss McGregor, sister of the senior member of the well known dry goods firm, McGregor & Saunders. Six children were born to them. Two passed away a few years ago. The surviving children are Geo. W., Lottie, Frankie (nee Mrs. Smythe), James and Harry, all residing in Ottawa, except the latter, who resides in Toronto. Harry was absent in New Westminster, playing for the Minto Cup with the Toronto "Tecumseh" Lacrosse Club. He was wired and reached home before his father passed away. Mr. and Mrs. E. L. parents, his grandfather being a nephew of Philip Embury, of precious memory, the founder of Methodism in the new world. Besides his widow and family, two brothers, David and John, and one sister, Mrs. E. H. Dunbar, mourn the loss of a loved one. In religion, a Methodist, in politics a liberal. The remains were laid to rest in Beechwood cemetery. The floral offerings were magnificent, a pillow from the family, an anchor from a dear friend, pillow from a Montreal firm, a wreath from his office in Ottawa, another from officials in Ottawa, an anchor from the "Tecumseh" Lacrosse Club, Toronto, sprays and cut flowers from a host of friends. The grave was literally banked with flowers, testifying to his popularity. He carried a number of policies on his life.

Earth the lonely casket keeps,
But never shall thy memory fade;
Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger
Round the spot where thou art laid.

Mrs. Walker gave a splendid recitation in fine style. Our chairman, Mr. R. W. Longmore, was informed that he was the champion of these counties for telling stories. A few days left yet of

Paul's Great Sale

In order to reduce my large stock of Wall Paper, Hammocks, Croquet, Fine China, Dinner Setts, Fancy Goods and Baseball Goods before 5th July, I will continue my SPECIAL DISCOUNTS until that date.

The reasons are:—

I am going away from town for two months, and do not want to leave too much for the clerks to look after in my absence.

The room will be required for the new goods that will arrive soon.

Last, and perhaps best, "I want the money."

Accounts due me must be paid at once. Don't think because the amount is small it is not worth while bringing it in.

My books must be balanced. Thanking you all in advance,

A VERY KINDLY ACT.

A. L. Morden, K.C., who died the 3d day of August, 1895, among other prominent positions held by him in his life time, had the honor to be elected in 1884 Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario, and was the first and only Grand Master from Napanee or the immediate vicinity. He had for many years previous been an active member of Napanee Lodge No. 86 and Past Grand of that Lodge and their grand representative in the Grand Lodge, where he did important work as Chairman of Committees including the committee on Legislation and it was due largely to the interest taken by the late A. L. Morden that Napanee Lodge No. 86 has developed into such a strong lodge both financially and numerically.

On Tuesday night last, the Lodge was delighted to receive through the kindness of Mrs. Symington, sister of the late A. L. Morden, a magnificent medallion life size portrait of the deceased brother, which was enthusiastically received by the Lodge and placed in a conspicuous place of honor upon their walls, and will be long cherished as one of the historical relics placed in the Lodge.

The following resolution was passed, and a copy sent to Mrs. Symington:

Moved by G. F. Ruttan, P.G., seconded by G. B. Joy, P.G., "That whereas Mrs. T. W. Symington has donated to this Lodge a life size portrait of her late brother, A. L. Morden, and our Past Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario of the Independent Order of Oddfellows and the same has been received and unveiled in the Lodge.

"Be it resolved that this Lodge extend to Mrs. Symington its sincere thanks for her handsome present and assure her that the presence of the picture of our highly honored brother in our Lodge will ever be as incentive to the highest ideals of Oddfellowship and manhood and revered as that of one of the fathers of Napanee Lodge No. 86, and that a copy of this resolution be sent by the Secretary to Mrs. Symington."

Owing to a fire, which occurred about twenty-three years ago, Napanee Lodge, No. 86 lost its valued possessions including highly valued portraits of their chartered members and other prominent Oddfellows, and this generous gift of Mrs. Symington, it is hoped, will be a stimulant for collecting again within the precincts of the Lodge, a gallery of portraits of old members of 86, whom Oddfellows will always be anxious to honor.

Dr. Wagar, Dentist, will be at the Wooler House, Tamworth, on Wednesday, Aug. 4th. 31ap

Nothing in the way of a Cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The smallest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with safety even to the youngest babes. The tender leaves of a spicy mountain shrub, give Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative power. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy preparation. Sold by all dealers.

The death is announced of Dr. Wilbert McIntyre, M.P., for Strathcona, Alberta.

Find Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winchester, Ind. — "Four doctors told me that they could never make me regular, and that I would eventually have dropsy. I would bloat, and suffer from bearing-down pains, chills and chills, and I could not sleep nights. My mother wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice, and I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking one and one-half bottles of the Compound, I am all right again, and I recommend it to every suffering woman." — Mrs. MAY DEAL, Winchester, Ind.

Hundreds of such letters from girls and mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for them have been received by The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

Girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences and be restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands have been restored to health by its use.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, if you now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide an entirely new discovery, as the result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germs, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and promotes luxuriant growth. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

BATTLE OF THE BOYNE.

Drogheda, Ireland, July 12th, 1909.

To the Editor of The Beaver:

Dear Sir.—We are this day celebrating The Battle of the Boyne, on the very ground on which the battle was fought 219 years ago, and it may be of some interest to your readers to learn what the historic incidents connected therewith.

James II., second son of Charles I., the last of the Stuarts, was a most intolerant bigot, and his purpose was to establish an arbitrary monarchy and irresistible England to the Catholic fire. He endeavored to force upon both the established church and parliament the doctrine of divine right and passive obedience.

The situation in France was little better under Louis XIV. who, on October 18th, 1685, suddenly revoked the edict of Nantes, by which the Protestants had enjoyed exemption of toleration.

James had set at naught the Test Act in appointing Catholics to all offices, civil, secular, ecclesiastical and military, and his Declaration of Indulgence was the last straw that broke down the Tory loyalty and church submission, for the Whigs had predicted like results if he were allowed to succeed the throne, and had been in close correspondence with the Prince of Orange who had shown qualities of a great statesman.

In June, 1688, an invitation signed by several Lords and Bishops was sent to William, and in October he left the Hague with a small fleet of 50 men-of-war, 25 frigates, and a few hundred transports containing 10,000 soldiers and 4,000 cavalry under command of Schomberg. After landing at Torbay, November 5th, 1688, this motto being the "Protestant religion and a free parliament"), he marched to Exeter and Salisbury, where James had ordered his forces to concentrate, and when he joined them only to find great accession to the camp of the Prince and that many of his important officers had abandoned him and gone over to William. In less than five days he returned to London, without giving battle. He suddenly left London, the wife for a new parliament which he had previously made void, and on December 26

MY LUCKY DAY

Mr. Thomas Wylie (Box 384), Cobalt, says:—"It was the luckiest day of my life when I struck PSYCHINE, for I truly believe I shouldn't be alive now but for that.

"A neglected cold was the beginning of my trouble, and what we so often see in simple ailment, soon developed into a serious and dangerous condition. I got so low that it was scarcely possible for me to walk around, and I lost so much flesh that I looked like a skeleton. I was just about ready to 'hand in my checks,' though really 20 years of age. The medicine the doctor gave me made me worse and I got disgusted. Then I struck PSYCHINE.

"PSYCHINE did miracles for me. The first bottle gave me new life and cour ge, and in less than no time I began to put on flesh rapidly, and I felt I was on the high road to recovery. My appetite returned, and I ate like a hearty man the saying goes. My friends were surprised, and hardly knew me. In three months I was as strong and well as ever, and returned to work at the mill. I have not had a day's illness since. Nobody could wish for her health than I enjoy, and it is all owing to PSYCHINE. It should be in everybody's hands."

For Coughs, Colds, Loss of Appetite, Throat, Lung and Stomach Troubles, take Psychine. Drugg sts and Stores sell at 50c. and $1.00. Send to DR. T. A. SLOCUM, Limited, Psychine Chambers, Toronto, for a TRIAL FREE.

Our business is as good as ever, and we are only offering good value for your money. We are proud of our customer patronage. Is the amount of insurance written by the agents of the Lennox and Addington Mutual Fire Insurance Company in June, and passed upon by the Board of Directors, at their monthly meeting on July 3d, 1909, despite the falsifying of an unscrupulous agent running up and down the side lines in his vain efforts to belittle the Lennox and Addington. Our Company is offering the best protection of any Fire Insurance Company doing business in these counties. Eleven hundred farmers (and they among the best in the land) have clubbed together for mutual protection of each other, paying no bonuses, or dividends to stock-holders but operated at actual costs. Study the Government reports, which can be found on file at our head office in Napanee, and you will find that the Lennox and Addington is at the top. "Far off cows have big horns." Why send your money away to swell the profits of the already rich of the cities, to the detriment of our own County Town and surrounding country? A FLEET OF AIRSHIPS.

British Orders Dirigible Balloons and Aeroplanes.—Mr. Haldane's announcement in House of Commons.—Sub-committee of Imperial Defence Committee Advises Use of Rigid and Non-rigid Balloons.

The sub-committee of the Imperial Defence Committee appointed to consider matters of aviation has given a verdict in favor of rigid dirigible balloons for naval purposes and non-rigid balloons for the army. The aeroplane committee considers that these machines possibly may become valuable to the army, but says they must be able to ascend to a much greater height than yet has been achieved before they will be safe for reconnoitring purposes. War Secretary Haldane announced in the House of Commons that in consequence of this report the Admiralty had ordered a rigid dirigible of the largest type from the Vickers, and that the Government factory at Aldershot was busy with the construction of three non-rigid balloons and two aeroplanes for experimental purposes. Mr. Haldane said in addition:—"The remarkable events of recent days, M. Blériot's flight across the channel and the flights in America, all point to the fact that some time in the future the aeroplane will be capable of bringing about great results."

The Kind You Have Always Bought

IT'S BORN IN THEM.

Eugene Walter, at a dinner at the Ansonia, was accused of cowardice.

"Well," said Mr. Walter, "I am not a coward, but I don't believe that human nature is by any means angelic. We are all much alike. The best we can do is to curb our faults and favor our virtues."

"What faults should I curb?" a very pretty young lady asked.

"Well," said Mr. Walker, "I should think you'd have about the same faults to curb as a little girl I talked to yesterday. She's a charming little girl, and as we conversed alone in the drawing-room while waiting for her father and mother to come down, I said to her:

"'Have you got a sweetheart?'

She smiled and wriggled. 'Yeth,' she said softly.

"'Well,' said I, 'I'll give you a quarter if you'll tell me who he is.'

"'Thank you,' she answered, in a low voice, and I gave her the quarter.

A few minutes afterwards she said suddenly:

"'Now, if you'll give me another quarter, I'll tell you who my other sweetheart is.'"

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

Arcata, July, 1909.

Mr. Editor,—Just a few lines to let you know that I am still alive and well. Quite a number from here attended the picnic at Hazelbourg on the 24th of June. The attendance was good. Mr. Stewart Cousins, Ed. Ball, Hugh Ball and Mr. Barnes' ball team is the good time and speak well of the country. Crops in this vicinity are looking fine and as a rule are very good and vegetation has been wonderfully fast. There has been considerable sickness of late in this locality. Mr. Sterling, of Picton, Ont., is erecting a house on his farm on the 2nd Con. Dundas. Barley is highly spoken of in the country. He says it is beyond his expectation.—Stewart Cousins has just purchased a fine McCormick binder recently.—Ed. Ball and Fred. Foster have just returned from Toronto, where they were doing some repairing on Mr. Foster's premises. Extraordinary picking is all the go in Quite a number from here are taking in the picnic on the 22d, at Shelburne. With the usual specials of horse racing, baseball and foot racing, they expect a good time.

Wishing you all the compliments of the season, I will close for this time.

Yours truly,
STEWART COUSINS.

AUGUST BUSY MAN'S.

The August issue of Busy Man's Magazine is an educational number. The rapidly passing mid-summer vacation reminds parent and child, teacher and taught, that school days are again not far off. There are briefs, snappy special articles on the great subject of education, among them being "Life in Residential Schools," "Importance of the Pullman," "What Canada's Public Men Read," and "The Necessity of a Business Training." Other clever and interesting contributions are "When the Emperor Ruled in Canada," "The Rival Rain-Makers of the West," and "The Light Side of Finance." There are half-a-dozen catchy and captivating anecdotes. The August edition of Busy Man's is superbly illustrated from cover to cover and is undoubtedly the best warm weather issue yet produced.

No Beaver Next Week.

DIDN'T KNOW THE CITY.

But the Cub Reporter Could Tell Them Some Things About the West.

The new cub reporter, a silent lad, had come out of the west and slipped quietly into his place in the force, says a Pittsburg paper. His name was "Red," and he had a sorrel top. One day a few of the older reporters clustered in the city room. One told how he had walked up 24 stories in one of the city's highest skyscrapers. Another described a trip four stories beneath the pavement to the boilers. "Red" was listening. One turned to him.

"Ever seen the innards of a chop suey joint, Red?"

"No."

"Ever on top of the Farmers' Bank with the wind blowing a gale?"

"No."

"Ever walk across the Wabash suspension bridge?"

"No."

"Ever eat lobster a la creole?"

"No."

"Ever watch the golden streams of money pouring from the tubes in the basement of a department store?"

"No."

"You've seen considerable, 'Red.' Better hire a guide and see the town."

"Red" colored from the roots of his pompadour to his collar button.

"This is the first city I ever was in," said he. "But I've seen things. I saw a snowstorm on father's wheat cut west. Six thousand sheep were bunched in a corral. In two hours the snow was six feet deep on level and every one of those 6,000 sheep was smothered beneath it.

"Father offered $1,000 cash to any man who could run 100 feet through that storm and cut the wires so the sheep could get out. Not one went sure death to try it. I saw a cyclone pick up a church where 200 people were worshiping and whir, it off into the clouds, and not hurt one person. Then it bounded over a farmer's house and barn, and tore a swath through a nearby village and killed 100 people.

"I've stood on the edge of the Grand Canyon and looked down 10,000 feet. 30 times as high as your skyscrapers. I saw a herd of 5,800 cattle stampede and gallop over a precipice 150 feet high in a river, carrying six cowboys with them. I'm not boastin', boys. Now let us go to a chop suey joint."

Dandruff Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the scalp. There is only one way to cure dandruff, and that is by constitutional remedies. Dandruff is caused by a run-down condition of the system, lack of nourishment, and the hair roots starve. Hall's Catarrh Medicine will cure dandruff. It has been successful in curing thousands of cases of dandruff, and we have yet to find the case that it will not cure. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

THE AUGUST BOO AND OUT.

The holiday season is on and the Boo and Out Club is in full swing. Many of the members are away on their vacations, and the rest are looking forward to the time when they will be off. Some of the members have been heard to say that they are going to spend their vacations in the country, but we have our doubts. We think that they will spend the time in the city. Anyway, we hope they will have a good time, and we wish them success.

COW TESTING ASSOCIATIONS.

Every Little Makes a Mouthful.

In our new testing association the average per cow for the first week was 200 lbs. of milk and 7.8 lbs. of fat. The second week showed that the cows were milking heavier and testing richer, the average being 211 lbs. of milk and 8.1 lbs. of fat. The third week showed that the cows were still further improving, the average being 214 lbs. of milk and 8.3 lbs. of fat. The 12 cows gave in the second week 2,532 lbs. of milk and 97.2 lbs. of fat, and the third week 2,568 lbs. of milk and 99.6 lbs. of fat. The cows are not thoroughbreds, but are grades, and are worth $75 each. Would you like to have a herd of 20 cows that would average 200 lbs. of milk per day? Would you like to have a herd that would average 4,000 lbs. of milk per day? Would you like to have a herd that would average 160 lbs. of fat per month? Would you like to have a herd that would average 1,600 lbs. of fat per month for their owners

A FLEET OF AIRSHIPS.

British Orders Dirigible Balloons and Aeroplanes.—Mr. Haldane's Announcement in House of Commons —Sub-committee of Imperial Defence Committee Advises Use of Rigid and Non-rigid Balloons.

The sub-committee of the Imperial Defence Committee appointed to consider matters of aviation has given a verdict in favor of rigid dirigible balloons for naval purposes and non-rigid balloons for the army. The aeroplane committee considers that these machines possibly may become valuable to the army, but says they must be able to ascend to a much greater height than yet has been achieved before they will be safe for reconnoitering purposes." War Secretary Haldane announced in the House of Commons that in consequence of this report the Admiralty had ordered a rigid dirigible of the largest type from the Vickers, and that the Government factory at Aldershot was busy with the construction of three non-rigid balloons and two aeroplanes for experimental purposes. Mr. Haldane said in addition :—"The remarkable events of recent days, M. Blériot's flight across the channel and the flights in America, all point to the fact that some time in the future the aeroplane will be capable of bringing about great results."

IT'S BORN IN THEM.

Eugene Walter, at a dinner at the Ansonia, was accused of cynicism.

"Well," said Mr. Walter, "I am not a pessimist, but I don't believe that human nature is by any means angelic. We are all much alike. The best we can do is to curb our faults and to practise virtues."

"What faults should I curb?" a very pretty young lady asked.

"Well," said Mr. Walter, "I should think you'd have about the same faults to curb as a little girl I talked to yesterday. She's a charming little girl, and as we conversed alone in the drawing-room while waiting for her father and mother to come down, I said to her:

"'Have you got a sweetheart?'

"She smiled and wriggled. 'Yeth,' she said softly.

"'Well,' said I, 'I'll give you a quarter if you'll tell me who he is.'

"Tommy,' she answered, in a low voice, and I gave her the money.

A few minutes afterwards she said suddenly:

"'Now, if you'll give me another quarter, I'll tell you who my other sweetheart is.'

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

Areata, July, 1909.

Mr. Editor,—Just a few lines to let you know we haven't forgotten our eastern friends.—Quite a number from here attended the picnic at Hartsberg on the 1st of July. Among those who attended were Stewart Cousins, Ed. Bell, Hugh Dillon and Wm. Burns. All had a good time and spoke well of the country.—Crops in this vicinity look fine, although we had a late spring, and vegetation has been wonderfully fast. There has been a great quantity of rain in this locality.—Dr. Sterling, of Picton, Ont., is erecting a house on his farm west of here. The Doctor speaks highly of the country. He says it is beyond his expectation.—Stewart Cousins was the guest of Jas. McGregor, quite recently.—Ed. Bell and Fred. Foster have just returned from Scott, where they were doing some repairing on Mr. Foster's premises.—Strawberry picking is all the go.—Quite a number from here intend taking in the picnic on the 23rd at Gettysburg. With the usual sports of horse racing, baseball and foot racing, they expect a good time.

Wishing you all the compliments of the season, I will close for this time.

Yours truly,

STEWART COUSINS.

AUGUST BUSY MAN'S.

The August issue of Busy Man's Magazine is an educational number. The rapidly passing mid-summer vacation reminds parents and child, teacher and taught that school days are again not far off. There are bright, snappy special articles on the great subject of education, among them being "Life in Residential Schools," "Advantages of the Pullman," "What Canada's Big Boys Read," and "The Necessity of a Business Training." Other serious and interesting contributions are "An Appreciation of Canada," "The Blood Rain-Makers of Yukon," and "The Light Side of Finance." There are half-a-dozen catchy and captivating novelettes. The August edition of Busy Man's is superbly illustrated from cover to cover and is undoubtedly the best warm weather number yet published.

DIDN'T KNOW THE CITY.

But the Cub Reporter Could Tell Them Some Things About the West.

The new cub reporter, a silent lad, had come out of the west and slipped quietly into his place on the force, says a Pittsburg paper. His name was "Red," and he had a sorrel top. One day a few of the older reporters clustered in the city room. One told how he had walked up 23 stories in one of the city's highest skyscrapers. Another described a trip four stories beneath the pavement to the boilers. "Red" was listening. One turned to him. "Ever seen the innards of a chop suey joint, Red?"

"No."

"Ever on top of the Farmers' Bank with the wind blowing a gale?"

"No."

"Ever walk across the Wabash suspension bridge?"

"No."

"Ever eat lobster a la creole?"

"No."

"Ever watch the golden streams of molasses pouring from the tubes in the basement of a department store?"

"No."

"You've seen considerable, 'Red.' Better hire a guide and see the town."

"Red" colored from the roots of his pompadour to his collar button. "This is the first city I ever was in," he said. "But I've seen things. I saw a snowstorm on father's ranch out west. Six thousand sheep were bunched in a corral. In two hours the snow was six feet deep on the level and every one of those 6,000 sheep was smothered beneath it.

"Father offered $1,000 cash to any man who could run 100 feet through that storm and cut the wires so the sheep could get out. Not one went; sure death to try it. I saw a cyclone pick up a church where 200 people were worshiping and whirl it off into the clouds, and not hurt one person. Then it bounded over a farmer's house and barn, and tore a swath through a nearby village and killed 100 people.

"I've stood on the edge of the Grand Canyon and looked down 10,000 feet, 30 times as high as your skyscrapers. I saw a herd of 8,000 cattle stampede and gallop over a precipice 150 feet high in a river, where all cowboys with 'em I'm not boastin', boys. Now let us go to a chop suey joint."

Business Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THE AUGUST ROD AND GUN.

The holiday feeling pervading the air during the latter part of July, 1909, is well represented in the August number of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by Thos. Taylor at Woodstock, Ont. There is much in the August issue to interest the lover of the sea breeze on the Gaspe coast, the weather is told in a number of articles, and a fisherman's paradise is "Still Hunting With a Camera," while of especial interest to the lover of the rod and gun is "Shooting Wild Geese With a Rifle," by Dr. Sterling, of Picton, Ont., in which he repeats the table of contents, but of particular interest to the Bay of Quinte district will attention from all sportsmen and lovers of the gun. "Bass Fishing" is the story of a recent fall attempt at bay casting for the black bass of the Bay of Quinte, and Trapper Hazel-pel to all dog lovers and Mr. Bartlett's poem on the Water Spaniel, "Still Hunting," are treated through the Magazine in the important subject. The Canadian Kodak company every sportsman on his vacation trip, and a full line will be sent to those in his leisure time pass pleasantly.

COW TESTING ASSOCIATIONS.

Every Little Makes a Mickle.

In one cow testing association the average production of 126 cows was 520 lbs. milk and 20 lbs. fat, not very much below the average of eighty-four cows in another association close by, which was 600 lbs. milk and 24 lbs. fat. Both these associations are unusually small associations although the 126 cows gave in the month 66,045 lbs. milk and 2,347 lbs. fat, but the other lot of 126 cows gave only 65,548 lbs. milk and 2,516 lbs. fat, or allowing the month to be worth 25 cents per lb., actually a difference of $169.25 in favor of cows that are not thousands more of our dairy cows might be kept with profit, and a half per month for their owners? When the owners are perfectly satisfied that having tested each cow in the herd individually, which animals are profiting in a good profit, then the average yield and the total income can be largely increased.

Another contrast shows that 100 cows in one association gave but twenty-five pounds of fat less than 72 cows in another association 10 miles away; there were three 25 cows more to be milked, and to have capital invested in them, and more labor on the pastures eating good feed that the 72 cows were given, but the 25 cows had the advantage, for twenty-seven pounds less fat. Weighing and testing is the simplest and surest way of detecting those that are unprofitable.

The footprints of Dyspepsia have been directly traced to the Stomach nerves. Then these inside nerves fail, indigestion and stomach distress must follow. Remember this, druggists everywhere are supplying a prescription known as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. This Restorative is a Stomach, Heart and Kidney nerve tonic. Not a laxative. Heart palpitation or failing Kidneys follow. Don't dose the Stomach. Don't stimulate the Heart nor Kidneys. That is wrong. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Go to the nerves, not the organs that are calling for help. Within a few hours after starting the Restorative treatment, you will realize the relief. A test will tell. Sold by all druggists.

WORLD'S RECORD BUTTER COW

The milk of the Holstein cow bearing the name of world's record cow for butter by a representative of the Cornell University Experiment Station, Ithaca, N.Y., for the latter part of March, 1909, and by the Babcock test showed a yield in seven days of 28.48 lbs. of butter fat. As such records are commonly stated by the Holstein Association this yield of butter fat is equivalent to 35.56 lbs. of commercial butter at eighty per cent. fat.

This yield exceeds that of any other cow tested under the present official system in use at experiment stations, which are based on only true tests, and is a wonderful example of the capacity and development of cows of this breed for the production of dairy cattle. The previous cow owned by a Wisconsin breeder of New York state now claims the champion cow of the world, owned and developed in Syracuse, by Mr. H. A. Mover.

This cow exhibits to a great degree the characteristic vigor of the Holstein. Her last test was begun when she was six years, twenty-three days old, and terminated at 365 days. She was the champion four-year-old of 1907, testing 20.16 lbs. in 7 days and 118.22 lbs. in 30 days. As a five-year-old she tested 20.55 lbs. in 7 days and 126.68 lbs. in 30 days. F. L. Houghton, secretary of Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

SEVEN YEARS AN INVALID

Then She Took "Fruit-a-tives" And is Now Well.

Arnprior, Ont., Nov. 27, 1907.

I was an invalid for seven years from a fearful Womb Trouble. I had falling womb, with constant pain in the back and front of my body and all down my legs. There was a heavy discharge and this made me weak, emaciated, restless and miserable. Often I was obliged to be in bed for a month at a time. I was treated by several doctors, but their treatment did me no permanent good.

A few months ago, I was persuaded to try "Fruit-a-tives". I took several boxes, and from the outset of this treatment, I was better, the Constipation was cured, and the discharge lessened. I took, for the paleness, several bottles of the Iron Mixture recommended in the "Fruit-a-tives" book, but I feel that it was "Fruit-a-tives" alone that cured me.

(Mrs.) Elina Levesque.

Take Mrs. Levesque's advice. Take "Fruit-a-tives" and cure yourself. 50c a box. For $2.50; trial box 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

The Two Vanrevels

By BOOTH TARKINGTON.

Author of "Monsieur Beaucaire" and "Princess Dai."

Copyright, 1902, by Harper & Brothers.

"Ah, Jo!" said Tom Vanrevel. "Ah Jo, old boy!"

Then Tom and Betty and Mr. Shroud looked at the boy, and they looked at each other together as a sort, with one accord turned each other, and then they looked away still, by and by they heard a prolonged, hurrying clanging and the steamer's whistle blowing short and hoarse as it sped. And an hour later Will Cunningham came back alone, entered the room on tiptoe and silently sank into a chair near Mr. Shroud. "Jo has gone," he said to Tom. "Miss Betty: He was to remain in Rancho on another week and join his regiment there. Mr. Shroud and three opposed to notice his coming; none of them heard me at all with his face bowed in his hands and did not move.

Then Jo's hand on hour passed, with only a sound of footsteps on the gravel of the driveway now and then, and a faint distant sound of voices in the rear of the house, where people came to ask after Cralley. And when the door of the room where he lay was opened the low watchers started as at a loud explosion. It was Mrs. Barsoud and the old doctor, and they closed the door again softly and came in to the others. They had left Cralley alone with Rancho and Tom Vanrevel, the two who loved him best.

The warm day beyond the windows became like Sunday. No voices sounded from without in the noon hush, though occasionally a little group of people would gather across the street to eye the house curiously and nod and whisper. The strong, blue shadows of the veranda pillars stole more across the white floor of the porch in a lessening slant and finally lay all in a heap at the east stock in a corner of the library asthmatically coughed the hour of noon. In this jarring discordance there was something frightful to Miss Betty. She rose abruptly, and, impetuously waving back Mrs. Tanberry, who would have detained her—for there was in her face and manner the incipient wildness of control overstrained to the breaking point—she went hurriedly out of the room and out of the house to the old bench in the garden. There she sank down, her face hidden in her arms; there on the spot where she had first seen Cralley Gray.

From there, too, had risen the serenade of the man she had spurned and insulted, and there she had come to worship the stars when Cralley back her look to them, and now the strange young teacher was paying the bitter price for his foolories, and who could doubt that the price was a bitter one? To have the spirit so suddenly, cruelly riven from the sprightly body that was, but a few hours ago, had such a quiet obedient to every petty wish, could dance, run and leap; to be forced with such hideous precipitation to leave the warm breath of love and patronage for lonely change, merging with the shadow; to be flung from the exquisite and commonplace day of summertime into appalling adventure that should not have been his for years, and hurled into it by what hand—ah, bitter, bitter price for a harlequinade! And, alas, alas, for the brave harlequin!

A gentle touch fell upon her shoulder, and Miss Betty sprang to her feet and screamed. It was Nelson who stood before her, hat in hand, his head deeply bowed.

"Is he with you?" she cried, clutching at the bench for support.

"No'm," answered the old man humbly. "I reckon we all ain' goin' see dat man no mo'."

"Where is he?"

"On de way, honey; on de way."

"The way—to Rouen?" she gasped.

"No'm; be goin' cross de big water." He stretched out his hand and pointed solemnly to the east. "Ilim an' she we cotch de boat, an' yo' pa mek 'em taken de hosses on bode. Den we git off at Leeville, five mile' down de rivuh, an' yo' pa bol' de boat whiles I ride back alone an' git de nexs, an' what de nie la you all is tole, I'um ole Mist' Chen'eth, an' Mist' Chen'eth, he rid back wid me an' see yo' pa at Leeville, an' dey talk in de shed by de landin', an' yo' pa tell Mist' Chen'eth what 'rangements he goin' make wid de propesty. Den he git on de boat ag'in an' dey sto't her agoin', an' he ain' wave no goodby, ner say no mo' 'n'vide.

"Mist' Chen'eth rid back whens de light come, but he res' de hosses an' come back dere, 'cause I see de sign o' wor', an' I mighty sorry fer yo' pa, missy. He ain' comin' back no mo', honey, an' Mis Tanberry an' me an' Mamie we goin' take keer yo' pa. Yo' pa gone back dah to de F'enchmus, whuh he 'us a young man. He mighty sick, an' he sezin', honey; an' he ain' goin' git orvah dat, nelder. 'Pesh to me, missy, like he done had a vishun or he own soul when he come an' look down at dat young man layin' on de grass las' night."

The old fellow bent his back before her in a solemn bow, as a pagan retainer in allegiance to the heir, but more in deference to the sorrow written upon her and respecting its magnitude. With no words of comfort could he knew she wanted only to be alone, he moved away, with infirm steps and shaking head, toward the rear of the house.

Miss Betty threw herself upon the bench again, face downward in her arms, and for still the same long lay, in silence under the sunshine.

An hour had passed, and the sunlight grew more strongly to the west, when the stillness was broken by a sound, low and small at first, then rising forthfully, a long, quavering wail of extreme agony that clutched and shook the listener's heart. No one could have recognized the voice as Pancheon's, yet every one knew it was he. Betty lifted her head and that the soul of Cralley Gray had gone out upon the quest for the Holy Grail.

Pancheon's hands clinched convulsively round the arms of the bench, and he sat motionless, poised for an instant like a winged creature, with

Dear Friends,—There are a thousand and one items in and about our store that you can buy to better advantage from us than you can at home. —On Monday next, August 9th, a regatta will be held at Trenton, in which some of the fastest boats on Lake Ontario will compete. Speed boats from Watertown, Rochester, Sodus, Clayton, N.Y., Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston, Picton, Belleville, Bowmanville, Napanee, Deseronto, Brighton and other points, will be represented. Among the crafts expected to be the famous Seneca, the winner of the Canada cup in 1907. Thirty-five cups are up for prizes, valued at over $500.00.

—Mr. F. F. Miller, C.E., was present at the Town Council meeting on Monday evening, and the matter of a new bridge to replace the old covered bridge was discussed. He is of the opinion that a new one should be put up as soon as possible, and estimates the cost complete at between $3,000 and $3,500 for a steel superstructure with concrete abutments. He suggested an 18 ft. roadway with a 4 ft. walk on east side. It is probable that the bridge will be built this fall if some material assistance is obtained from the County Council.

—Mr. Perry Wagar met with a painful accident on Tuesday afternoon, while at work in Dafoe & Waller's sash and door factory. He was running the jointer, the piece of wood slipped and he lost the third finger on his left hand.

—The late rains have very much improved the prospects for a fair crop of grain in this section. Mr. Thos. A. Lewis has left a sample of oats at this office of the Horse Mane variety, measuring 5 feet 4 inches in height, and with very heavy heads.

—W. H. Hunter is completing an annex to his barns north of the town and when completed will make them the finest in this section. The building has a self-supporting roof called the hip design. The building is 144 by 32 feet, has a nine foot stone wall under it, the basement to be fitted up for stabling with cement floor and all other conveniences for wintering cattle. Mr. Hunter has one of the finest farms in this part and expects to have twelve thousand bushels of grain. Thirty acres of spring wheat is looking fine and will be ready for cutting in a couple of weeks.

—In the recent Model Entrance exams. 70 per cent of pupils from the County were successful. A number of these were not recommended by the principal. This is a very fine showing, as only 36 per cent. of those trying in Ontario were successful.

PRESENTATION AT VICTORIA ROAD.
A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mrs. R. A. Anderson on June 26th, when the entrance pupils and their parents assembled for the purpose of presenting Miss Chinneck with a purse of $10, while Miss Olive Vrooman read an address. Miss Chinneck was entirely taken by surprise, but in a few words expressed her gratitude to them for their kindness to her during the past year. Ice cream and cake were served and a most enjoyable evening was spent.—Lindsay Post, July 23d, 1909

A GRAND SUCCESS.
On Tuesday, August 3d, the C.M.B.A. ran their annual excursion to Massassaga Park and Belleville on the Str. Aletha. A good crowd were along, and all report having had an enjoyable time. At Massassaga sports of various kinds were held, for which many beautiful prizes were given. There was also a baseball match—married men vs. single men. This was the event of the day, and if some of the magazines of the big leagues had been there to see the game some of our prominent business men would now be doing business elsewhere, because some of them would certainly have signed. The single men won, but only after a gruelling contest, in which they were forced to use two pitchers. Score 6-4.

Then, Pittsburghgoad Frank Davies did the twirling for the young fellows with George Bell at the receiving end, while Mr. Benedicts Cameron Lee did the twirling and Dan Hogan the catching. The teams were :

F. Killorin,	Father O'Connor,
C. Harris,	E. Lee,
C. Meacher,	G. McKell,
C. Savage,	J. Hughes,
C. Fitzpatrick,	A. J. McGuire,
H. McNeil,	C. Mathewson,
C. Trimble,	D. J. Howse,
J. Meyers,	C. Fitzpatrick,
J. Marsh,	P. Gleeson.
D. Gleeson.

Mr. Hogan's base running and catching, Meacher's catch and the fielding of Mathewson, Howse, Lee and Fitzpatrick were the features of the game. J. McNeil was a good umpire, but never thought he ever were bold-faced at times. Killorin, Meacher, Gleeson, Fitzpatrick and Meyers were the heavy hitters; Killorin and Meacher with the ladies in particular. Mr. Mathewson, on behalf of the Branch, presented the winning team with a box of cigars.

OBITUARY.
The late Hugh G. Milling was born in Lennox County, and, when a small boy, moved with his father to the farm now occupied by his brother, Henry, on the Belleville Road. While still in his teens he came to Napanee to learn the blacksmith trade with Botting and Wales, making such a successful effort that in a short time he not only learned the trade, but had full control of the business. His fame as a horse-shoer spread until he sometimes had from six to eight men in his employ. It is conceded by those capable of an opinion today, that there never was a better blacksmith in Napanee and nearly every customer became a friend. Tiring of this, he went into the Campbell home for a short time, where he met with success and made many friends among the travelling public. After a short time he went to Stanford, in the Niagara district, where he owned a fine fruit farm, and his many friends in town and County still gratefully remember the delicious baskets of fruits he so generously sent. Being tired of this he moved to Toronto, where he owned a fine residence on Markham st. In the spring of 1905 he went west on a pleasure trip. Finding the country so enticing, he fell under the spell that overcomes so many, and bought a section, containing 640 acres, where he has been most successful, getting a prize for the cleanest and best crop in Saskatchewan. He was twice married. In 1863 he married Miss Martha Agnes Long, youngest daughter of George Long, who died two years afterwards, leaving an infant son, Harry. In 1866 he married his sister-in-law, Miss Anna M. Long, who had been a faithful mother to his little son. Besides his wife and son, he leaves an only sister, Mrs. R. H. Flourney, of Danville, California, and four brothers, Edward, of Empey Hill; John, of Fairview, Kingston Road; Robert, of Vancouver, B.C., and Henry, on the old homestead, Bellville Road. For years his health had been gradually failing, and since January he had been confined to his bed. He was cheerful and conscious up to a few days previous to his death.— His long illness was borne with patience and his bodily weakness served but to elevate his spiritual life, and draw him nearer to his maker. His kindly assistance will be remembered by many. He will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends. He passed away at his home, Indian Head, on Thursday, July 29th, and his end was peace.

NEW YACHT.
On Friday evening Napanee people turned out to look on and assist Dr. Simpson in taking to the river and launching his fine new yacht. The boat was taken on two wagons to the river and was very successfully launched at 2.30 a.m. The yacht is 43 ft. long, and will be a great addition to our Napanee fleet.

THE RARE BEAR.
Miss Geraldine Farrar, at a luncheon in her honor in Philadelphia, marveled at the parsimony the hotel manager's dislike of the dog.

"No one objects to a nice little dog about you," said, "but here they fear a dog as much as Pete Wilson feared—but that is a story, a bear story, and I will begin at the beginning. A party of fasterners went to bear hunting in California. Pete Wilson led the party, and day and night he boasted of his skill as a bear killer. They got no bear on the hunt, and Pete grieved terribly.

"This is good enough grub," he would say, as he pitched into a cold can of preserved meat, "but the finest meat in the world, in my opinion, is a bear steak, grilled to a turn over a log fire.

"Gimme bear", Pete growled, one day. "Gimme a good bear brile. I'm gettin' sick of this canned stuff."

"Look out!" cried a neighbor. "There's a bear right behind you, man !"

Pete gave one look. It was a bear, sure enough. He turned very pale, and bounded off into the woods.

"We thought you liked bear ?" they said sarcastically to him on his return.

"So I do," said Pete, "but that feller wasn't well enough done."

A SENSIBLE BREAKFAST.
The staple, or what the French call the "pièce de resistance," of a breakfast should consist of some form of meat, fish, egg or milk, or its equivalent in starch or sugar, like bread, toast or cakes, says Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Woman's Home Companion for August. These may be supplemented by fruits, cereals, grains or biscuits, with the proper modicum of fat in the shape of two or three pats of butter; sugar and the alkaline salts in the shape of some fruit or preserves or syrup upon cakes, and as necessary or appetizer in the form of tea, coffee or cocoa. The essentials of a good and healthful breakfast are not to be made the maintstay of the breakfast. Any accessories before or after, if they are admissable and useful, but they lack seriously in straining power, in proportion to their weight, bulk and power of satisfying the appetite.

DEATH OF MRS. GUY HUDGINS.
Drowned on her first wedding anniversary, July 29th, while bathing with her husband at Saskatoon, Sask., the remains of a winged watery grave, the body of Mrs. Guy Hudgins was taken from the bay at Saskatoon, Sask., just one hour and five minutes after the young woman had begun the battle for her life against the salt waves. Before the party went out to the picnic grounds in the afternoon, about 5.45 they went in swimming. They gradually worked their way towards the open bay. Mrs. Hudgins and Mrs. Thorpe were further than they knew. A big wave lifted them off their feet, they lost their footing and sank. They screamed for help, but those on shore mistook their cries of distress for shouts of merriment. William Scott, who was eating supper in his little home, heard the cries from the sandbar and knew at once that they were cries for help. He rescued Mrs. Thorpe, and when he landed found there was another woman in the water. He went out but could find nothing. Then the fishermen pitched a couple of oilskets together, fastened one end to the sand spit, and rowed out with the other around the spot where Mrs. Hudgins had sunk. They made the circle and drew the net, first and last, almost invisible in the folds of the web, a form clad in blue bathing costume rose above the water's surface ; the body had been found. Her husband arrived while she was being pulled out. He saw the crowd, the rescuers at work, heard the news and immediately threw off his hat and began pacing the beach. He was distracted and supported by friends. The doctor was on hand and everything was done to restore life, but there was no respiration, no pulse beat, no life in the body when the special car with Mrs. Hudgins arrived on Sunday morning, the husband started for Moosejaw, and home with the remains. He expected to arrive on the noon train Saturday, but comes, as expected, the funeral will be in Deseronto on Sunday at 2 o'clock.

DON'T PHYSIC YOURSELF

It is a Tonic you want! Physicing lowers the system and makes it more susceptible to disease. The winter months have been a great strain upon your vitality and unless you put the blood in good condition all manner of evils will overtake you. PSYCHINE is the greatest of Tonics and should be taken by every one at this season of the year. PSYCHINE assists the gastric juices and ferments in their digestion of the food, cleanses the mucous membrane of the Stomach, and has an invigorating and beneficial effect on the muscles and nerves. For catarrh of the Stomach, Ulceration or Weak Stomach, PSYCHINE, the use of PSYCHINE is strongly advisable.

PSYCHINE acting on the Stomach restores it to a healthy condition, then acts through the stomach upon all the vital organs, creates a good appetite, brings renewed vitality and strength to the entire system and enables it to throw off disease of every kind. It is the greatest health-giver known to medical science.

PSYCHINE
THE GREATEST OF TONICS FOR HEALTH AND STRENGTH

Send to-day a 2 cent stamp, Limited, Toronto, for a free sample bottle. All druggists sell or can get PSYCHINE for one dollar per bottle.

WASHING WITHOUT WATER
Is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.

Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water?

If you did what would you say of him?

It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of dandruff and to prevent baldness by feeding the germs which cause it with Cantharides, Vaseline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Growers.

Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasitic germ which feeds on the hair roots.

It is the original and only genuine scalp parasiticide manufactured.

Send 10c. for sample bottle Herpicide and 2c. for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Council Chamber,
Napanee, August 25th, 1908.

Council met in regular session; on Monday evening.

Members present — Councillors Gibbard, Alexander, Steacy, Barrows and Kimmerly.

In the absence of Mayor Simpson, Colin Gibbard was elected chairman.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

A communication was received from Mr. W. G. Wilson, County Clerk, notifying the Council that the equalized assessment of the Town had been placed at $1,080,000 and the County Rate at $3,200, the figures being the same as last year. Order filed.

Mr. F. J. Miller C.E., was present and said that he had examined the bridge on the Bridge Road and found it in very bad condition, and he would not advise the putting in of new abutments under the old superstructure, as it would endanger the lives of those walking under the bridge. He thought the old bridge should be taken down and a new one erected in its place.

Moved by Colin Barrows, seconded by Colin Alexander, that Mr. Miller be instructed to communicate with the Steel Bridge Company with a view to their coming to take the place of our present bridge.—Carried.

Moved by Colin Alexander, and seconded by Colin Steacy, that Mr. James H. Cooper be and is hereby authorized to raise the sidewalk in front of his property on the Market Square to a level with the floor of the mill, the same to be done under the supervision of the Street Committee.—Carried.

The Treasurer submitted the following statement for the month, which was presented, read and ordered filed:

WHAT BEAUTIFUL HAIR!

How often do we hear that exclamation of a certain woman's hair or a certain man's hair.

A prominent scientist and hair specialist emphatically states, and has proven, that any man or woman can have beautiful, lustrous hair, by using a famous prescription called Parisian Sage.

Parisian Sage is now made and sold in Canada. T. B. Wallace, the druggist, is the agent in Napanee, and the readers of The Beaver may buy from him for only 50 cents a large bottle.

T. B. Wallace knows that Parisian Sage will beautify the hair, cure dandruff and stop falling hair, and for that reason he sells it under a guarantee to cure or money back.

If you cannot obtain Parisian Sage where you live, you can get a bottle for 50 cents from Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont., express charges prepaid.

CHANGES AT PENITENTIARY.

New Buildings Will Provide Quarters for Officials.

The beginnings of useful changes in the penitentiary at Kingston are under way. Two stone buildings have been erected, one on either side of the main gate within the walls, for the warden, the deputy warden, the accountant and the storekeeper. The present office wing will be vacated, a women's prison built on the ground, probably with better isolation than is now afforded. The deputy warden will vacate his present rooms, also, and will be provided with a new house on the farm. The office wing will be turned into a dormitory wing. The enlarging of the cells has so reduced the accommodation that some of the prisoners have to be quartered in the isolation prison. The new wing will be an extension of the group running out from the dome, and will be as easily controlled as the others.

YARKER.

The Yarker Senior Ball Team was handed its first defeat of the season on Saturday, July 31st, by the Young Irishmen of Kingston. The score was 12-8, and the spectators had full value for their money, there was something doing all the time. On account of the rain the game did not begin till four o'clock. Kingston boys came out, confident of winning by a good margin, but they got rather uneasy when Yarker went ahead in the start. After that the visitors bunched hits and outs. Skinner, the local pitcher, was in the game all the time, striking out eight men, getting three for two bats and fielding his position without an error. Deare in centre field and Woodhouse on short stop, played good ball all the time. The boys are well pleased with the result and it is more appreciated as all the team are Yarker men. We have good material here and no outsiders need apply for positions. A game with Napanee is being looked forward to. The teams:—

TRAIN'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Steel Cables Prevented Montreal Train Falling into River.

Boston, Aug. 2d.—The strength of the two wire cables, which sustain the northern end of the swing bridge over the river Charles prevented several coaches of the train which left here at 8.30 yesterday for Montreal from falling into the river. In spending Sunday with friends. pass, one of the bars used to close it was broken, the result being that a gap about 2 feet wide was left between the two sections of the bridge. Receiving the signal that the way was clear, the engineer started Riley's started the train. Suddenly the train struck the cables, which had been deranged by the opening in the bridge, and brought the train to a standstill. The fortunate circumstances that they were too strong for the train to break thus prevented the coaches from falling into the river. The train, which was full of passengers for Montreal and Canada, was backed off the bridge, nobody being injured.

SUDDEN DEATH.

On Friday evening last word was received in Napanee of the very sudden death of William Nelson Boller, of Toronto, only son of the late John R. Boller, Napanee. Deceased was secretary for the Reliance Loan and Savings Company, and was feeling poorly for a few days previous to his death. Deceased was forty-seven years of age. A widow, but no children, survive. His aged mother is also bereft of an only son. His father died here a couple of years ago. The sympathy of many friends in Napanee and vicinity goes out to the bereaved ones.

SAVED A LIFE.

Last Tuesday night John E. Muldoon, of Ottawa, a barber, engaged with Laird & Chambers, Cobalt, had a miraculous escape from drowning. Muldoon and a partner, A. Bovin, were crossing Cobalt Lake in a canoe when through some carelessness the canoe capsized. Bovin was helpless and was going down for the third time when he was fished out by W. H. McCoy, or "Slim" as he is generally known. "Slim" is the chief engineer of the Cobalt fire brigade, and has saved many lives. Wilkie's many friends in Napanee are pleased to learn of his deeds of valor.

SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT.

The residents of Pine Grove, about 12 miles down the river, were shocked on Sunday night on learning that Master Thomas H. Crowe, adopted son of Mrs. Eliza Fields, had been accidentally drowned in the river. About 7.30 p.m., the young lad, who was eleven years of age, was leaving the house, and Mrs. Fields warned him not to go near the river, as the boy couldn't swim. He evidently went straight there and went out in a boat that was lying on the shore. It is supposed that he rowed to the dock, and in getting out he must have slipped on a log and fallen in. Mrs. Fields became anxious about him and called. Receiving no answer, she started to look for him. A boat was seen floating in the river and upon going out to it the young lad's hat was seen lying on the bottom of the floating craft. The supposition at once occurred that he was drowned, as neighbors had seen him in the boat alone. Willing hands were soon searching the river, and Mr. Wm. Joyce found the body in about eight feet of water on the west side of the dock. Dr. Cowan, Coroner, was called, but in his absence Dr. Leonard went down to the scene of the accident. He deemed an inquest unnecessary, as it was purely a case of accidental drowning. The unfortunate boy was a particularly bright and clever lad, having just passed his examination for the fourth book. He was from the Dr. Barnado Home, Toronto, and was adopted by Mrs. Fields two years ago last Monday. His loss is keenly left by Mrs. Fields, and the sympathy of her many friends is extended to her in her bereavement. The funeral was held on Tuesday morning, service being held at the house by Rev. C. W. Demille, the remains being placed in Riverview cemetery, Napanee.

DESERONTO.

The weather for the sailing yacht races on, Wednesday of last week was not very favorable. On account of there not being enough boats to compete in the race for the Oronhyatekha cup, it was not sailed. The management have promises of some fast boats for next year, and if they materialize it will be a good race.

In the first yacht race Dolphin of Napanee took 1st, Cheo of Napanee 2d and Sheila of Deseronto 3d. In the 2d race, 1st J. N. Osborne's Guess Again, Napanee; 2d, Sager & Wright's Pet, Deseronto. In the knock about class, 1st, Ed. Irwine's Bird, 2d, J. Joyce's Irish Girl. Motor boats, over 12 miles, 1st Red Devil, Napanee, 1st; Arayling, Deseronto, 2d; Merry Widow, Picton, 3d. A nice race with three good boats; Grayling a new boat and a new engine just installed, doing good work. Under 12 miles, G. & V. Napanee, 1st; Ladonkier, Picton, 2d; Sheila, Deseronto, 3d.

Workmen are repairing the roof of E. Armitage's store, giving it a very much "patched up" appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. St. Louis spent a few days in the Lime Stone City last week.

The latest fish story—two men in the same boat hooked the same bass at the same time, in the same place and both claimed the fish—Lasurus.

The baseball match between Deseronto and Lonsdale resulted in a score of 18 to 21 in favor of the latters. The game was not an illustration of the play by any means; as there was good playing on both sides, with the exception of an inning or each side. Through errors the score was run up so high. McHenry and Hayes twirled for Lonsdale, and pitched good ball, doing the trick at the other end. Parie done the work for Deseronto, and Lonsdale resulted in a defeat of 18 to 21 in favor of the latters. "WHEN THE HARVEST DAYS ARE OVER."

The company is an excellent one and includes many well-known performers. A complete production of special scenery serves to frame a series of stage pictures of great beauty and naturalness. "When the Harvest Days Are Over" keeps the audience convulsed with laughter, and is as sweetly natural as the breath of the fields. All who have been farmer boys and girls should see this beautiful Down East play, for it will revive pleasant recollections. The city bred should see it to realize what they have missed. The company carries an excellent band and orchestra, which renders the musical portion of the play. Mr. Perry, the manager, is very well known, and guarantees this attraction to be first-class. Bijou Opera House, Friday (tonight), Aug. 20. Prices, 25c., 35c., 50c. Plan at Hyde's Shoe Store.

OBITUARY

Died, on July 29th, at University Hospital, Ann Arbor, Mich., where she had gone for surgical treatment, Mrs. E. J. Shorts, of Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

Deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Armstrong, of Richmond township.

The news of her death was a great shock to her friends, as she appeared to be enjoying good health until very recently. The funeral service was held at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. C. E. Cowles, Fancher ave., Mt. Pleasant, Mich., Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. H. Kennedy, who pronounced an impressive and heartfelt eulogy on the deceased. She was a woman whose lifelong example of Christian fortitude has made her name a household word throughout the district where she has lived for 22 years. She was universally loved and respected by those who came into her circle. None were more closely allied to her in every day walks than the members of the Methodist church societies, which were her delight to assist in maintaining. No greater tribute can be paid her than to say that she was in every sense of the word an ideal Christian mother, and leaves behind her a family of which this city is proud. The house was filled with sympathizing friends, whose silent expressions of sorrow were voiced by the beautiful flowers which covered the casket and lined the room where it reposed, also the long line of carriages which followed the remains to the cemetery. The deceased leaves a daughter, Mrs. C. E. Cowles, of this city; Dr. Fred H. Shorts, of Kent City, Mich.; Bruce U. Shorts, City Solicitor of Seattle; R. Perry Shorts, Seattle, for U. S. Health and Accident Insurance Co., of Saginaw, and Warren Shorts, City Contractor, of Seattle. All except the latter were present at her funeral. She also leaves four brothers and two sisters: Hiram and Hamilton Armstrong, of Carman, Man.; Robt. E. Armstrong, of Bracebridge, Ont.; John Perry Armstrong, of Forest Mills. The sisters are: Mrs. M. The footprints of Dyspepsia have been directly traced to the Stomach nerves. When these "inside nerves" fail, indigestion and stomach distress must surely result. For this, druggists everywhere are supplying a prescription known as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. First, these nerves are made strong. Then Heart and kidney nerves fail. Then nervous backache, Heart palpitation, or failing kidneys follow. Don't dose the Stomach, or the kidneys, or the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. Strengthen those failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative. It is the Nerves, not the organs that are failing for help. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment, you will realize the good it can and will do. Sold by all dealers. 32tf as local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that we cannot cure by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THE SWASTIKA REGATTA AT FORESTERS' ISLAND.

A very pretty and exciting race between M. B. Mills' "Dolphin", Alf. Holmes' "Chloe," and Commodore Naylor's "Sheila" was run in a very changing and flukey wind, and it was anybody's race until the second leg of the last round, when a nice breeze sprang up from the southward and the Dolphin at once showed her superiority by pulling out from the poorest position and rounding across the line over two minutes ahead of Chloe, with Sheila a close third. The Whirl ran over the course and lead all the way, but as she was not eligible to race for the cups her skipper, like the true sport he is, stated that he went in only to help out the race and incidentally to learn the course, as he intends to have a try for the Oronhyatekha cup next year.

OBITUARY.

Elizabeth Gregory, widow of the late John Gregory, of Newcastle, Ont., died Thursday morning, July 29th, at the Regina Victoria Hospital. The funeral was held from the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. DEATH OF MRS. ASH.

Entered into rest, Sunday morning, August 8th, at Rochester, N.Y., Martha E., wife of the late Elias C. Ash, after an illness of 14 months. She was born in Newcastle, Ont., on August 26th, 1852, and is survived by three sons and three daughters: Malcolm H., George T., Frederick W., Lola M., Lena M., and Matilda L., all of Rochester, N.Y., and three brothers and one sister, James Lone, of Napanee; Robert S. NEW FUNERAL CAR.

We notice that the enterprising firm of Mine & Hamblin, undertakers, last week added to their stock a new rubber-tire funeral car of the latest design, the elegance and completeness of which will appeal to the most fastidious taste, and we can safely predict that it will contribute to the extension of their already large business. The respect and affection we show to the dead is surely one of the very excellent traits of our civilization. It is indeed a change from the rush of everyday affairs to turn aside, as we do on such days, to visit their mortuary rooms over Paul's Bookstore. A large and varied stock of caskets and robes meets the eye, composed of polished oak, mahogany, and walnut, lined with velvet, also, metallic cases, and upon expressing surprise, were further told that they were prepared to furnish, if desired, burglar-proof vaults. Nothing that can soften the bitterness of bereavement that can come within the scope of their business is left to hazard or chance, and they personally attend all calls by day or night whether by telephone or messenger.

"In the first place, Captain Selwyn is my brother-in-law—which wouldn't make an atom of difference to me in my judgment of what has happened if he had been at fault. But the facts of the case are these." He held up an impressive forefinger and laid it flat across the large, ruddy palm of the other hand. "First of all, he married a cat! C-a-t, cat. Is that clear, Gerald?"

"Yes, sir."

"Good! What sort of a dance she led him out there in Manila I've heard. Never mind that now. What I want to know is how he behaved—with what quiet dignity, steady patience and sweet temper under constant provocation and mortification he conducted himself. Then that fellow Ruthven turned up—and—Selwyn is above that sort of suspicion. Besides, his scouts took the field within a week."

He dropped a heavy, highly colored fist on his desk with a bang.

"After that bike Selwyn came back to find that Alice had sailed with Jack Ruthven. And what did he do—take

Chapter 1

"QUO never met Selwyn, did you?"

"No, sir."

"Never heard anything definite about his trouble?" insisted Gerard.

"Oh, yes, sir!" replied young Erroll. "I've heard a good deal about it. Everybody has, you know."

"Well, I don't know," retorted Austin Gerard irritably, "what 'everybody' has heard, but I suppose it's the usual garbled version made up of distorted fact and malicious gossip. That's why I sent for you. Sit down."

Gerald Erroll seated himself on the edge of the big, polished table in Austin's private office, one leg swinging, an unlighted cigarette between his lips.

Austin Gerard, his late guardian, big, florid, with that peculiar blue eye which seems to characterize hasty temper, stood by the window, tossing up and catching idly glittering gold pieces—souvenirs of the directors' meeting which he had just left.

"What has happened," he said, "is this: Captain Selwyn is back in town ...sent up his card to me, but they told him I was attending a directors' meeting. When the meeting was over I found his card and a message scribbled, saying he'd recently landed and was dying uptown to call on Nina Shell (very Bond Street, of course, mut) I get home, so I shall see him this evening. Now, before you meet this I want you to promise me to remind the truth about this unfortunate affair and that's why I telephoned your girl friend Norregard just now to let you come around here for half an hour.

"In the first place, Captain Selwyn is my brother-in-law—which wouldn't make an atom of difference to me in my judgment of what has happened if he had been at fault. But the facts of the case are these." He held up an impressive forefinger and laid it flat across the large, ruddy palm of the other hand. "First of all, he married a cat! C-a-t, cat. Is that clear, Gerald?

"Yes, sir."

"Good! What sort of a dance she led him out there in Manila I've heard. Never mind that now. What I want to know is how he behaved—with what quiet dignity, steady patience and sweet temper under constant provocation and mortification he conducted himself. Then that fellow Ruthven turned up—and—Selwyn is above that sort of suspicion. Besides, his scouts took the field within a week."

He dropped a heavy, highly colored fist on his desk with a bang.

"After that bike Selwyn came back to find that Alice had sailed with Jack Ruthven. And what did he do—take

SEEING LONG DISTANCES.

Mont Blanc Visible From Mountain 110 Miles Away.

One of the last trains between Paris and Marseilles was just leaving the station at Dijon in October last when a passenger in great excitement called out:

"There is Mont Blanc!"

The other passengers looked out of the windows, and sure enough they saw away to the southeast the snow-capped upper part of Mont Blanc rising above the summits of the intervening minor mountains. The distance is a cloud floating in the air.

It was a sunless day, but the air was extraordinary limpid, for all the dust in it had been washed out by the rain that had fallen every day in the month.

It is most unusual for Mont Blanc to be seen from the railroad track at Dijon, 136 miles distant, or less than 800 feet above the sea. It is visible at times from the heights around the city.

It is of interest to travelers in France to know that Mont Blanc is normally always visible from Lyons, 99 miles distant; Macon, 102 miles, and Chalon-sur-Saone, 114 miles. Whether or not the mountain can be seen from many points in southeastern France from day to day is popularly regarded as a weather indication.

Of course if you are standing on a considerable elevation and there are no obstacles in the way you may see Mont Blanc from great distances. The mountain is in view, for example, from the heights that dominate Marseilles.

Puy de Dome, in France, 4,790 feet high, is 188 miles west of Mont Blanc, but the great snow mountain is invisible from the top of the lower summit. The mountains of Forez bar the way between them, but it is hypercuriously enough, that there is a deep depression in these mountains just about the line of sight between the tops of Puy de Dome and Mont Blanc, and through this abrupt lowering of the range the snow mountain may be seen.

This is believed to be the greatest distance that can be seen with the naked eye in the climate of southern Europe. Here are a number of mountains and the distances at which they may be seen out at sea:

Vesuvius, before the last eruption, 87 miles; Ventoux, 105; Canigou, 125; Etna, 138; Teneriffe, 157; Fujiyama, 160; Kinabalu, 165; Chimborazo, 191; Aconcagua, 201.

Most of the giants of the Andean cordillera, even those that are a considerable distance inland, can be seen from out at sea. The first view shows them only as little elevations above the horizon, and the lower mountains around them are not in sight. But as the land is approached the great summits are gradually revealed in all their splendid proportions.

Prince Edward's Tact.

Many pleasant stories are told of Prince Edward of Wales, most of them showing his kindness of heart. On one occasion he is said to have seen a poor old pauper half fainting from the heat while out walking, and he immediately ran to a stream near by and filled his cap with water, repeating this till the old woman revived. On another occasion, while still a small boy, he was returning from a review of some soldiers, when he saw his brother-in-law doing the same. "What do that?" he remarked gravely. "Only men salute."

One day, it is said, he and his brother were listening to a nobleman, who was telling them a long story. When at last the point of his story came, the younger prince could hardly conceal his boredom, but Prince Edward forgot him, with his elbow, and whispered, "Smile!" showing that he already understood what was expected of him.

The Sergeant-at-Arms.

The lively happenings in the House of Commons lately must remind Mr. Henry David Erskine, the Sergeant-at-Arms, of the dear old days when the Lords were lords of misrule indeed, and his office was not all dignity and repose. Mr. Erskine has occupied his office since 1885, and in private life is one of the most charming of men. He and his family live in Speaker's Court at the Palace of Westminster, their house being one of the most artistic in London. Before he occupied the seat of the Sergeants, Mr. Erskine smelt powder in the Crimea and got his captaincy. His chief recreation is not published in "Who's Who," but it is said to consist of the exciting after-dinner pastime of throwing cards into a hat, called "supper." Mr. "Speaker" Peel and he used to be rivals at this most fascinating game.

Royalty and Race Horses.

The ownership of race horses by royalty is a very old institution. Queen Anne, although she was the mother of an enormous family, not one of whom lived to grow up, was a patron of racing and won a cup at York on the eve of her death. George IV. was passionately fond of it, and news of what 'ad happened at Ascot was brought to him when he was lying on his deathbed. Apart from his love of the sport, the King followed the turf because he is said sincerely to see that it is a pursuit which interests a great number of his fellow-subjects.—London Opinion.

The Actor's Card.

"I showed them my card at the door," the actor was complaining, "and they referred me to the manager. And what do you suppose he said. He said he was sorry, but the demand for seats had been so great that he had decided to discontinue the professional free list."

"Well," said his friend the sharper, "did you expect to beat a full house with a single card?"

A Kindly Reminder.

It was reported at the Feltham (Engl.) Petty Sessions that burglars who stole $500 worth of goods from a house at Teddington hung the owner's Patriot Insurance policy on the wall before leaving.

NAUTICAL SLANG.

Many Phrases Imbedded In English Popular Speech.

Talking of slang, has any one ever made a list of the nautical slang imbedded in English popular speech? Most people who speak of a person "carrying on" would be surprised to learned that they are using a nautical metaphor. To carry on is literally to carry a great deal of sail, generally too much for the weather conditions—that is, to behave in a more or less sensational and foolish manner. To say that one is "taken aback" is a metaphor from the management of a square rigged ship, which is "taken aback" when, through carelessness or ill luck, the wind gets round to the wrong side of the sails—an awkward and perhaps dangerous accident. To give anything "a wide berth" is sailor's slang. It means literally to give a thing probably a rock or other danger—a wide bed to lie in. We speak of "sounding" a person with reference to some proposal. The metaphor is that of a navigator sending his way cautiously by trying the depths, say, in approaching an unfamiliar shore. "Landmark" is not at all a nautical looking word, but it is strictly a mark on land—a tower, building or other prominent object—which serves to guide the mariner clear of rocks and shoals into a port.

More obviously nautical, but probably equally vaguely understood, are such phrases as "sailing close to the wind," "look out for squalls," "keep one's weather eye open," "take the wind out of one's sails," "see whether the coast is clear." To sail close to the wind is to try to keep directly on one's course when tacking is almost necessary and so to run a risk of being taken aback. To keep one's weather eye open is to keep a sharp lookout on the weather side of a ship that is, to windward, where the weather comes from) for the signs which mark the approach of squalls. To take the wind out of another boat's sails is to overhaul her (presumably in racing) and pass to windward, thus cutting off her wind for the time being. To see whether the coast is clear is to find out whether it is free from outlying dangers, such as rocks and shoals or from enemies in naval war or smuggling. Finally we have one or two ship building metaphors. We speak of having a piece of work "on the stock," stocks being the frame of timbers which supports a ship while she is building. If she is well built of the best materials, she is "A1"—the highest grade in Lloyd's classification.

A Story of the Sea.

Anchored amid the soft breezes of ceylon lay the East India fleet. The weather was faint and sultry and scarcely any one stirred on board. Suddenly a forecastle boy sang out in clear treble his childhood's hymn, "I think when I read that sweet story of old." Before the second verse was reached all the ship's company was joining in in pleasant harmony. Above the bulwarks of the other ships the men were also congregating in the air of intense listeners.

After the last line of the hymn had been sung there was silence for a little space, and then the hills caught up and sounded back the echo. "And they led Him away to be hanged." Then after ship followed with old familiar hymns, one after the other, all but the admiral's ship—that was silent.

Would the flagship follow suit before the sun sank into the waves, and if so, what hymn be its choice? every one wondered.

Then suddenly there was a mighty burst of many voices, as if trained in a cathedral choir, and the warm air vibrated with the grand old "Te Deum." "We praise thee, O God; we acknowledge thee to be the Lord."

Who Was Jack Robinson?

Jack Robinson has long been a favorite synonym for rapidity of speech or action, but possibly few people who use the phrase are aware that Jack Robinson was a real live person.

"As a politician," says Lady Dorothy Nevill in her "Reminiscences," "Jack Robinson was a great favorite with George III. His political career was long, for he was a member for Harwich during twenty-six years, being on one occasion bitterly attacked by Sheridan, who, denouncing bribery and its instigators, replied to the cries of 'Name! Name!' by pointing to Robinson on the treasury bench, exclaiming at the same time, 'Yes, I could name him as soon as I could say Jack Robinson,' and thus originated the saying still current at the present day."

A Long Drink.

Dr. Sven Hedin, the famous traveler and explorer, who has just returned to civilization after two years in Thibet, had some terrible experiences during his former journey through that region of the world. He has told how, owing to the high latitudes at which he and his party traveled, that to undo button one's coat meant acute pain and tension to an overwrought heart, which literally was at the point of breaking. His only safety lay in the fact that he never left the saddle for a single moment from morning till evening. Had he done so his heart would have given way. At one time they were nine days without water, and when at last he saw a small pool Dr. Hedin drank five pints without stopping.

Proverbs Barred.

The disagreeable milkman wiped the whitish gray mud from off his clothes and gazed wretchedly after the runaway horse. Then he glanced at the dirty white puddles that represented his whole stock in trade.

A crowd had gathered around to watch the run. Suddenly he turned upon them.

"Look here," he shouted, rolling up his coat sleeves, "the first ape faced idiot who says a word about its being no use crying over spilt milk I'll punch his head for him!"

Then, can in hand, he started scooping up the liquid.—London Answers.

BEER FROM HEATHER.

Picts Were Famous Adepts In Lost Art of Brewing Heath-Beer.

At one time the brewing of beer from heather was carried on, but one has to go back to history to learn this, as the art has been lost for many a century. It was an extract from the plant that was used by berries, and the Picts were adepts in the performance. With their extirpation it was entirely lost.

An interesting story is told regarding the last holder of the secret. Two prisoners at Kenneth Mc[illegible], King of the Scots, were the last skilled in the brewing of heath-beer. They were father and son, and both stoutly refused to divulge their knowledge though offered liberal rewards and advancements if they so. Finally however, after much coaxing and threatening, the old man promised he would show how it could be done. But he made this one stipulation—they must first slay his son. This request, one would naturally called, even in a barbarous age, for some explanation, which was as readily forthcoming. The old man, he said, "when he learns of my admissions will be very wroth and my life will be endangered, but I will be ever only too ready to acknowledge the reasonableness of the old man's contention, for, after, they have killed his son, and brought the dead body to the father in evidence, he very cunningly remarked, "my disobedience were unavailing, and the King finally had him led out to execution, and with him perished the secret of the brewing of heath-beer. It should be noted, however, that long after this the Highlanders were able to make an agreeable liquor from the flowers, but this required either honey or sugar to the composition, whereas the heath-beer of the Picts required nothing extraneous in the manufacture.

LADIES' HOME JOURNAL PATTERNS — MONTHLY STYLE BOOK FREE

As wonderful as the fairy tales of your childhood is the discovery of Pictorcism, that marvelous optical science discovered and founded by Horace Fletcher.

He was an "old man at 40" and a medical examiner of an insurance company reported him as a "poor risk" and the company "turned him down." To-day he is in perfect health and seemingly growing younger. In the September issue of The Ladies' Home Journal he tells, for the first time in print, the principles of the science and how he rescued himself from the prospect of an early grave—"How I Made Myself Young at Sixty."

"Women as Seen from the Rear" is a valuable contribution to the literature of fashion.

Well written and well illustrated with photographs, this article is nothing less than the long looked-for power "to see ourselves as others see us."

Read this and then let us supply you with The Ladies' Home Journal Patterns and your clothes shall be correct.

The Journal, itself, is on sale at our magazine counter, each month, at 15 cents per copy.

Autumn 1909 Up-to-date Dress Materials and Accessories.

A few valuable points for our many customers, regarding Dress Fabrics, Trimmings, Styles, etc., will be appreciated, as many are waiting to hear the welcome sound, "Robinson's Dress Goods and Silks ready for inspection." Never do we remember a season that the colorings have been so perfect and the assortment of shades so varied, the dull, subdued tones, the combination harmony, and the richness of the new Dress Goods, Silks and Trimmings must be seen in order to enthuse with us over them. A pleasure to show them.

OLD BLEACH TOWELS—Up to $2.00 a pair.

We are sole agents for "OLD BLEACH" in Napanee.

FOUR REASONS WHY "OLD BLEACH" ARE SO MUCH SUPERIOR TO ANY OTHER LINEN.

1. They are made of Pure Flax only.

2. Elaborate precautions are taken to ensure perfect weaving.

3. They undergo the troublesome and tedious process of Bleaching practised by our forbears, who relied not on injurious weakening chemicals, but on the generous rays of the sun to produce their Flaxen treasure.

4. They are finished without a grain of starch by special Bleach process, the only one which can produce the everlasting lustre and delightful soft feel characteristic of "Old Bleach."

Towellings.

Once a customer, always a customer, for Robinson's Towellings, keep closely to certain qualities season after season that we know are good. Kinds that are not to be found hereabouts.

All are suitable for wear between seasons, and later can be worn under our fur-lined coats for extra warmth. They range in price from $5.00 to $12.00. We've placed them in window, with ticket on each garment, to go on sale tomorrow (Saturday).

A New Kind of Cotton Batting.

Perhaps you noticed our window display of Cotton Batting a few days ago. We are introducing for the first time in this district a Batting that is a decided improvement on the old style of Bat. The trouble with the old styles was that mill refuse was used to a great extent, and being dark and dirty had to be bleached with chemicals, taking the life and springiness all out of the cotton. This new process Batting we now show is not a dead bleached white but a creamy natural cotton shade, with the buoyancy of cotton still in it. Next time you want Batting, try our new process Batting and then you will be just as enthusiastic as we are about it. If it is for comforters you want it, ask for the Jumbo size, a one-piece layer the exact size of the finished comfort.

It is so buoyant that if it is compressed and then released it will expand to its original fluffy height. It never wads, never packs, never loses the suppleness that makes them so delightful to sleep under.

Price—One Dollar Each.

Small sizes and lower quality, 12½c., 15c., 20c. each.

A Sewing Machine for $19.75.

Our "Robinson No. 1" Sewing Machine at $19.75 is designed for general sewing in the household willing to invest only a small price. It can be safely trusted to do good work on light weight or heavy material. It has our ten-year guarantee against all imperfections. It has a vibrating shuttle, and makes the two-thread lock-stitch. It is quiet and easy running. Made and tested under the same supervision attending the making of our higher grade Machines. We furnish with the "Robinson No. 1" a full set of all attachments and instruction book. For business reasons we do not sell these Machines under the maker's name. If we did, they would be recounted at much higher prices from other sources. Our two other leading Machines are $26.75 and $32.50.

Harvest Shirtings.

Our new Shirtings are here just in time for Harvest wear.

ROCKFAST DRILLS—The best for those who want dark shirting. Black and Navy ground. 15c. yard.

GLASGOW DRILLS—New lot just in from Glasgow. Heavy weight in Cadet Blue shade. 15c. yard.

OXFORDS—Our Oxfords are the real thing, imported direct from British mills. The patterns are new and fast colors. 10c., 12½c., 15c., 20c. yard.

Art Sateens, Cretonnes and Chintzes.

These belong to the realm of art. The designs are as carefully selected as silks. For room decoration we can please the most critical color student.

We are very proud of our new ones.

Nairn's Inlaid Linoleums at 85c yard.

Inlaid Linoleums are the kind where the pattern goes all the way through. If placed on a smooth level floor and properly treated, they will last a lifetime. Now, if you are considering a floor covering for hall, dining room, kitchen or shop, it is surely worth your while to consider the merits of Inlaid Linoleum. We know that "Nairn's" is the best, and for that reason keep no other. This special price we quote, 85c. yard—is the result of our importing direct from Scotland. We always have your choice of either block or floral design.

Baize for School Bags.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Shannon and Miss Norma spent a week in camp in the wilds in Frontenac County. Their camp was pitched on the portage between Second and third Depot Lakes. They arrived home on the 19th inst., and report a most enjoyable holiday.

Misses M. Hamilton, F. Wagar, May Hinsley, Mrs. Merrill and son, of Kaiser- ine; Miss Mary Johnston, of Moscow; Mr. J. Carscallen and friend, Mr. Clark, have been camping at the same place, be- tween second and third Depot Lakes, the past two weeks.

Messrs. Herb. and Ross Millman, Centre- ville, visited Camp Piccadilly last week.

Mr. H. G. Milligan and Miss Cora are professional anglers, and we know our friend Isaac Walton would be glad to have them enrolled on his list.

W. J. Dillon and son, Thos. F. Reid, John Reid, T. Kenny and another Anthony, and Mr. Kennedy, of Enterprise, were fishing on third Depot Lake.

Miss N. Carscallen of Tamworth, and her friend, visited at the camp on Wednesday, 11th inst.

HUGH G. MILLING.

At his home, Julian Head, Sask., on July 29th, 1909, at 6 o'clock p.m., a short and impressive service was held by the Rev. Mr. Davis over the remains of the late Hugh G. Milling, after which the body was conveyed to the C. P. R. depot, to be taken to Na- panee, accompanied by Mrs. Milling and son Harry.

Arrived at Napanee on Monday, Aug. 2d, the remains were met at the depot by the immediate relatives, and conveyed to the home of his brother, Henry Milling, Belle- ville Road.

On Tuesday, at 2 p.m., after the relatives and acquaintances had looked for the last time upon the face of their brother and friend, the corpse wended its way slowly and sadly from "the old home" to Trinity Church, where it was met by his brother Oddfellows.

Rev. Dr. W. McCall, assisted by Rev. W. H. Kessler, talked to a large concourse of sorrowing friends, the text being taken from Psalm xxv.

Rev. Dr. Kessler spoke as a former pastor and intimate friend of Mr. Milling's, testifying to his integrity, his charity to each and all of his fellow men, and his love for his family.

Among the floral offerings were the three- fold anchor from his lodge, given him by his wife, and son, a broken wheel from his brothers, and floral sprays from Mr. and Mrs. H. Thomson, Miss Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Walker and Mr. and Mrs. A. Young.

The closing ceremony at the grave was most impressively conducted by the Odd- fellows.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Council Chambers,
Napanee, August 16th, 1909.

Council met in regular session on Mon- day evening, Reeve Ritzan in the chair.

Members present—Councillors Alexander, Gibbard, Burrows, Kimmerly and Sherry.

Minutes of last session were read and con- firmed.

Coun. Burrows asked that a cement walk be laid in front of Mr. H. Savage's prop- erty on Robert st., a frontage of 60 feet, under the usual terms. On motion the mat- ter was laid over for two weeks.

Coun. Gibbard thought that the Collec- tor's Roll should be returned, but could not see how it could be overcome now. The Council extended the time at almost every meeting.

Coun. Burrows reported that the old cul- vert on the bridge had been torn down, and was now a thing of the past; also that a foot- path had been built for the accommodation of the people in the east end. He also re- ported that a ditch had been built to abate the nuisance complained of by Mr. Roy, which cost $31.07, but Mr. Templeton had promised to pay $10.00 of this amount.

The order of cement had gone forward yesterday, and he would not see why the town should pay $15.00 per barrel when it could be had for $13.50.

Coun. Gibbard, the Street Committee was empowered to purchase cement for the new bridge at the most favorable price obtainable in the prevailing market quotations.

Mr. Thos. Jamieson appeared before the Council, complaining that the surface of the roadway on John street had been flooded on April and summer, but not as badly at any time as it was at the present, and he asked that something be done to have the matter remedied.

Coun. Burrows said that in the absence of a local improvement by-law he could not see that anything could be done at the present stage.

Mr. F. Miller, C.E., was present with the tenders for the steel work of the new bridge and from The Ontario Bridge Co., Hamilton Bros. Co., Campbellford, and The Hamilton Bridge Co. The bridge would cost: new, about $3,000.00,

Moved by Coun. Gibbard, seconded by Coun. Sherry, that the Street Committee be instructed to close the purchase of the bridge, in conjunction with the engineer, and to have the matter proceeded with at once, according to the plans of the engineer. Al- so that Coun. Gibbard and Reeve Ritzan be added to the committee. Carried.

Moved by Coun. Gibbard that the price of steel had advanced almost 50 per cent. At that time the bridge might have been sold for $1,500, but will be almost double that now.

Mr. English, K.C., was before the Board on behalf of Miss Hewett, and asked that the Council take steps to have the culverts removed from in front of her property, as their being stopped up was an offence and nuisance.

Referred to the Market Committee, in con- junction with the Chief-of-Police, to try and have the nuisance abated.

A by-law regulating public buildings was left over for two weeks.

ACCOUNTS.

G. N. W. Telegraph Co., $40.00; referred to Electric Light Commissioners.

Just a line regarding Muskoka, etc. My husband and I reached here on the 17th July, and I was awfully surprised to find Muskoka what it is. It is the most beautiful place that I have ever seen, and the view from our cottage is something wonderful, as we can see for miles over the lakes. The air here is very cool and refreshing, and we are en- joying ourselves immensely, going bath- ing, fishing, etc. We go out in our boat nearly every night to fish, which con- sists chiefly of bass and pickerel, and that along with fresh berries of all kinds, makes it quite a treat. We in- tend returning to our home in Toronto in a couple of weeks for the exhibition. —Mrs. Lorne McAfee, nee Zellah Grooms.

Read how "Little Digesters" cured Mr. Thody.

"For two years I suffered with Indi- gestion, and obtained no relief from anything I took, including several prescriptions from physicians of repute. Every meal was followed by acute pain until I was afraid to eat, and became run down for lack of nourish- ment. "Little Digesters" were recom- mended to me by a friend. I tried them with remarkable results, two boxes completely curing me. It is three months since I took them, and I have not suffered a pain, no matter how indigestible I eat. I therefore can recom- mend them to anybody suffering with Indigestion." (Signed) R. THODY.

McLEAN.

A gloom of sadness was cast over the neighborhood on Friday, August 6th, when God claimed Mrs. B. Vankoughnett. At 6.30 o'clock her spirit took its flight to God, who gave it. She was a long sufferer from consumption, but was faithful to the last and bore it with patience. She was a resident of this place for over 20 years, and was a kind neighbor and loving mother. Six children, Elgin, of Enterprise; Fred., of McLean; Rodi., of Albert; John, of Minnie Harbor; Mrs. Rufus Wagar, and Stewart, at home. All have our warmest sympathy. The funeral, which showed the esteem in which she was held, Rev. Mr. Richmond, of Mountain Grove, preached the sermon at the house on Sunday, after which the remains were taken to Parham cemetery and placed beside her husband, who predeceased her fourteen months.

TUMOR OF YEARS GROWTH

Removed by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Man.—"Eleven years ago I went to the Victoria Hospital, Montreal, suffering with a growth in the uterus. The doctors said it was a tumor, and could not be removed, as it would cause instant death. They found that other organs were affected and said I could live no more than six months in the condition I was in. After I came home I saw your advertisement in the paper and commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it constantly for two years, and still take it at times, and both my husband and myself claim that it was the means of saving my life. I highly recommend it to suffering women."—Mrs. ORILLA BRADLEY, 284 Johnson Ave., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy—tumor. If you have mysterious pains, inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait for time to confirm your fears and go through the horrors of a hospital operation, but try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills.

PAMPERED DOGS.

Motor Goggles, Boots and Jewelled Collars In Their Costumes.

A funny sight often to be seen nowadays is that of a dog sitting on the front seat of a motor-car with its eyes completely hidden by a pair of large goggles. This latest fad is the result of overfondness on the part of persons who like to flatter themselves that they are "in society." It certainly looks fashionable, but it would be interesting to know what the poor dog thinks about it. The average dog cannot endure any kind of bandage on his head. Any intelligent dog can be trusted to take care of his own eyes when he is in a motor-car. If he finds the rush of air too strong to be comfortable, he either half closes his eyes or turns himself round. The uselessness of this fad therefore at once becomes apparent.

We shall probably next hear that dogs are to be given special bootwarmers. Many dogs already wear bootsdainty little articles which serve only to annoy the animals. It is a common thing to see a dog wearing a bejewelled collar, and in smart society no dog's toilet is complete which does not possess special combs and brushes, pomade for his hair, and a certain kind of scented soap for his teeth. These useless luxuries are provided only for the pet dogs. One of the hardships which the pet dog has to undergo and which the ordinary common dog never experiences is that, while all sorts of delicacies are given to them to eat, they are frequently long in the dog for a drink of clean cold water.

Clocks.

It is only recently appreciated that clocks of the present type, although used in the form as the twelfth century and possibly earlier, were but little in use until several centuries later. In fact, it has been only within recent years that really accurate clocks have been manufactured. Those which the astronomers used in their observations at the end of the fifteenth century were so inaccurate that the modified forms of the water clocks of the ancients were often employed as checks upon them. Galileo's discovery of the isochronism of the pendulum from the swinging chandelier in the church of Pisa was of great value in its application to the measurement of time. The inventions of the mercurial and compensating pendulums have aided materially in cutting down the errors of the running rate and controlling the motions of clock mechanism.

Spinning the Eggshell.

Moisten the rim of a breakfast plate—not merely the outer edge, but all the raised portion. Place the half of an empty eggshell on the wet surface, the shell being broken evenly, so as to form a little cup. Now, if you hold the plate up and tip it slightly, the egg may be made to not merely slide, but spin along the rim, and by continuously altering the inclination angle of the plate you can cause the shell to spin all the way round it. It will not spin rapidly, like a top, but as ignores round the plate it also revolves slowly about its own axis in the same direction. Now, this, you know, is just what the earth does in traveling round the sun, so how you have an easy and pretty lesson in astronomy at the breakfast table.

The Square Deal.

A stout and opulent man dwelling in a suburban town had been the expense of the annual Sunday school picnic, and the superintendent of the school, out of gratitude, went to the benefactor to address the children. The philanthropist was not much of a speaker, but he was a master hand at poker. When he found himself gazing into the expectant faces of 150 children his embarrassment at most overcame him, but he managed to stammer out: "My dear children, what I want to impress upon you all that—er—er—it pays to be good. That er—er—er—a man who deals from the bottom of the pack is generally buried at the public expense."

PRACTICE TWO FAITHS.

Cyprus Islanders Who Are Both Mahometans and Christians.

Most persons have made up their minds on religious matters. They do not doubt their ability to select the truth out of the thousand faiths and dogmas. However, there is a sect in the Island of Cyprus that follows the principle of the man who when asked whether he believed the world moved from east to west or the other way around, replied, "A little of both." These modest believers hold that it is beyond mortal ken to estimate the comparative merits of Mahometanism and Christianity. They refuse to make an exclusive choice and practice both religions with extreme devotion. They lead a double life from the spiritual standpoint and cull all the material advantages pertaining to a dual cult. As Mahometans they cannot eat swine, but as Christians they are free to enjoy the pig. Being followers of the prophet they will not touch wine, while a recollection of Christianity enables them to take a little for the stomach's sake. They are limited to one wife by the practice of one creed and allowed to keep a harem in conformity with the other faith.

The name of Lino-bambaki, or Linen-cotton, is derisively applied to this sect by those inhabitants of Cyprus who have made up their minds on the religious question. The origin of the half-and-half was probably due to fear at a time when the island was successively ravaged by Turkish and Christian conquerors says R. L. N. Mitchell in The Nineteenth Century. The natives who worshipped to the Orthodox Greek Church pretended to be Mahometans and the followers of Islam pretended to be Christians according to the change in Government and as a means of self-protection. Since the continued British rule in 1878 there has been no necessity for a dual religion from prudential motives, but the people have acquired the habit of attending both mosque and church and dislike to give up the two faiths of their fathers.

There are many stories told of difficulties overcome in the practice of two religions. In the latter days of Ottoman rule in Cyprus a Greek bishop arrived at a village in the morning, and all the flock attended to pay their respects. At evening a Turkish official came on the scene, and the villagers hastened to enter-tain him hospitably as good Mahomedans.

Outwardly the Linen-cotton set are more Moslem than Christian. They give their children two names, one for each religion. Exceptionally a name like Solomon or Joseph, popular with both religions, is bestowed. The Mahometan name is given openly. Then there is a secret Christian baptism, with all the orthodox ceremonies.

The half-and-half sect get the benefit of the feasts and holidays of both churches, but endeavor to cancel the facts of one religion by those of the other. At the moment of death they accept the Christian sacraments and also profess their faith in one Allah and his prophet, Mahomet. There is a Christian burial service, but actual burial is in a Moslem cemetery. The question sometimes arises whether the dead person was a genuine religious stickler and observed both faiths in a recent case evidence was given to show that a man had attended both church and mosque. Thus his orthodoxy was established and his body received dual honors.

The half-and-half are slowly dying out. They are regarded with not a little contempt and ridicule by the islanders who know which religion they like and stick to it. Many humorous nicknames are applied to them.

Making of Veneer.

The best veneer is sawed, but a great deal is sliced and still more is "rotary cut." By the last named process logs of the desired wood are steamed until they are soft and then fixed in a lathelikemachine, in which they are turned against a wood knife. As the log rotates against the knife veneer of the desired thickness is peeled off in a continuous sheet. If you should pare an apple, going deeper and deeper at each complete turn, until nothing is left but the core. The centre of the log left after the veneer is cut is also called a "core." A good deal of waste occurs in the manufacture of veneer. It is always a problem, for instance, what use to make of the cores left by the rotary process. In many cases these are used for pulp wood, pillars or panel beadings, and they are largely used also for fuel, excelsior, crates, boxes and baskets.

By Heart.

"Now, Johnny," said the teacher, "what is it makes the water of the sea so salty?"

"Salt," said Johnny.

"Next," said the teacher. "What is it makes the water of the sea so salty?"

"The salty quality of sea water," answered "next." "is due to the admixture of a sufficient quantity of chloride of sodium to impart to the aqueous fluid with which it commingles a saline flavor, which is readily recognized by the organs of taste."

"Right," said the teacher. "Go up one!"

A Business Proposition.

"The feminine mind entertains some curious notions of business," a high official of a certain insurance company remarked. "As a case in point I may cite the experience of one of our agents, who succeeded in getting a German woman to insure a house she owned. 'You'll pay the first premium now, please,' said the clerk, who was about to hand over the policy. 'How much?' asked the woman warily. 'Three pounds five shillings,' replied the clerk. 'Look here, young man,' answered the woman, 'I'm in much hurry this morning, and I can't wait. Just you dell your company to let it stand until dedduct it ven the place burns down'."—London Family Herald.

Tea grown at high altitudes on the mountain slopes of Ceylon, where the growth is slower and production more careful than in the warm, humid climate of the valleys, are used in "Salada" Tea. High-grown finer quality, but contains more of tea like "Salada" is not only of a richer flavor and full than valley-grown tea. This is easily proved by comparing a drawing of "Salada" Tea with any other.

THE HUMORIST'S REVENGE.

Drinkles—Have you ever succeeded in getting any of your jokes in Blank's Magazine?

Scribbles—Of course not.

Drinkles—Why do you say that?

Scribbles—Well, you see, I've only been writing jokes for fifteen years and none of them are odd enough.

WELL LIGHTED UP.

He came home in the small hours of the morning, and his bowing spouse confronted him with wrath in her eye and a telegram in her hand, saying: "Here is news that has been waiting for you since supper time."

He blinked, looked wise, and braced up against the hatrack felt through his pocket, murmuring: "I left my glasses in town."

Yes," she replied, with nothing to say, "but you brought the coal home with you."

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE.

Biology has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ.

Science is doing wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam lived, the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it says the vitality; causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. With no dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. It is the only destroyer of dandruff. Sold by druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

"Tragedy Unheeded."

Lo! struggling on the path a wounded bird,
O'er which with careless stride the wretches tramp,
Expiring, lies, its plaintive cry unheard,
While nameless agonies its features stamp.

The mournful eye, moistened by sorrow's dew,
Gleams livid with a haughty, speechless fire,
While Death's dark, sullen flames quiver anew
To kindle there his melancholy pyre.

The little head droops down from heavy grief
And dire pangs, while strives the blinded will;
The mouth with motion uncontrolled as brief,
Murmurs of fancied joys, though faint and chill.

But ever comes the thrilling throb of pain
To dull remembrances of life's dear joys,
To flow through all the vital shrine where reign
Cruel Thirst and Want, cold dissolution's toys.

It stare'ing creeps into the gracious rays
The blessed sun with sanctifying flame
Outpours to all alike, and meekly lays
Its nerveless limbs in heat that naught can tame.

The weary, wasted head falls to one side;
Life's crooks fade as booms the heart's deep toll;
With last convulsive wrench forth swiftly glide
The mournful Manes of the struggling soul.

For man thev hold to gods and mountains move;
The suffering bird their mockine mercy drowns;
Supreme in east, the egotist can prove
That such compassion merits laurel crowns.

O Thou around whose changeless, azure head
The sky's eternal clouds of incense roll,
Teach us to feel for all, by Nature led
To freely sympathize with her mute soul.

—Herbert Cameron.

ALASKA-YUKON-PACIFIC EXPOSITION.

Seattle, Aug. 16th.—The statue of James J. Hill was unveiled on the grounds of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition on August 3d. Among the prominent speakers of the day were Premier Mellride, and Minister of Education Dr. E. T. Young, of British Columbia.

The first of August marked the mid season of the Exposition, and from this time on a succession of interesting events will occupy every day of the big fair. Aerial competition has been stimulated by the offering of a cash prize of $25,000 for aeroplane contests, and the Wright Bros., Mr. Herring and other world noted aviators have announced their intention of entering aeroplanes when the dates are decided upon.

The Welcome Arch, erected by the City of Vancouver, will be formally dedicated on August 21st, and will be made the occasion of a great celebration. Seattle Day has been set for Sept. 7th, and this will be the biggest day of the Exposition. An invitation has been extended to Premier Sir Wilfrid Laurrier, of Canada, to deliver the principal address of the day, and other speakers of world-wide prominence have accepted invitations to be present. The spectacular events, as arranged, provide for a display of gorgeous pageantry never witnessed in the West, and the like will be universally observed throughout the Northwest.

The Exposition will close on the 16th of October, and the last week will be given over to Alaska and Yukon territories. Among special days of the near future are Calgary Valley Day on September 22d; Vancouver Island Day, September 6th, and Scotch Day, August 21st.

Railways and steamer lines will arrange very reasonable rates for Exposition visitors, and the City of Seattle is amply provided with hotel and restaurant accommodations for all.

ELVA, MAN.

(For last week.)

The Union Sunday School picnic of Elva, which was held on the grounds of Mr. John W. Rooks, on Friday, July 30th, was a very enjoyable affair for all who attended. The crowd was a record one, there being about 300 present. Mr. Rooks and family had taken great pains in preparing the tables, and grounds, and made everything comfortable. The afternoon being an ideal one, everyone seemed to enjoy themselves. The Pierson and Elva junior baseball teams played a lively game, which resulted in a victory for the Elva boys. In the evening the Elva seniors and the Peninsula teams played a five-innings game, which was won by the Peninsula team, 8-6.

A number of races were run off in the evening for small cash prizes.

Men's race—A. McRae 1, G. McCutcheon 2.

Boys' race (12 to 14 years)—H. Nichol 1, S. Gordon 2.

The day being over, all started for home after thanking Mr. and Mrs. Rooks for the warm welcome and splendid time they had received.

Some of the visitors who were in attendance at the picnic were from Melita, Souris, Nelson, Pierson, Tilson and Coatland. Two automobiles were there also to help swell the number of vehicles that were on the grounds, and were used to help convey the people from the town to the picnic and home again.

TISDALE, SASK.

(For last week.)

Our new minister, Rev. Mr. Morrison, gave an excellent sermon to a large congregation on Sunday evening. We are fortunate in securing such a good preacher. He came from Ontario, and attended Albert College, Belleville, some years ago.

A number from here attended the picnic which was held at Forrester on Friday last. Bears ran quite a-foul in the afternoon, accompanied by thunder and lightning. Supper was served in a large tent, and in spite of wind and weather everybody seemed to enjoy themselves. The football team was defeated by a score of 3-0 in favor of the Foresters.

On Wednesday night a very heavy electric storm passed over here. Rain fell in torrents for several hours. To-day is but very cool, with high wind. Crops are looking well, and if the weather continues favorable harvesting will commence. Haying is the order of the day, and the crop promises to be a good one, but the wet weather has interferred so far.

Raspberries are ripe now, but are not very plentiful. The first day of spring destroy the bushes to a great extent. We would like to have some of Hoffman's Island given by Mr. Bleriot mentioned in the correspondence of The Beaver.

Mrs. Allport purchased a cream separator from the Tisdale Co-op. Co. is called the Eatonia, and gives good satisfaction.

Mrs. Fred. Cummings is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. J. Pickering.

Mrs. A. Dafoe spent a couple of days last week with Mrs. R. M. Head.

Mrs. W. Buxton spent Monday afternoon at W. E. Miller's.

Mrs. Percy Burns, Mrs. Dafoe at Mr. Aubrey Miller's on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bowerman and little daughter, Bethel, at Mr. W. D. Foster's on Monday.

Mr. A. Pickering has been breaking for Mr. C. Gilbert the last three weeks.

Mr. W. E. Miller is ploughing for Mr. Hassett.

Messrs. George and Aubrey Miller spent Sunday with their homesteads.

Messrs. Frank and Fred. Cummings and R. M. Head are engaged in hay cutting.

Mr. Tarpe, of this place, had the misfortune to have a horse killed by lightning last week. Value $200.

New potatoes are coming in quite plentifully, and there promises to be an abundance.

Finley Mecks, who has been ailing for a few days, has regained his usual health.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Miller and little daughter Edna, and Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Head, D. D. Foster and Mr. Stanley Ball gave up his position at Crooked River, and after spending a week at W. E. Miller's, took the train on Tuesday morning for Saskatoon, where he expects to get good wages through harvest.

HE COULD NOT LIE.

WHY FREE SALVATION IS EXPENSIVE.

The colored parson had just concluded a powerful sermon on Salvation Am Free, and was announcing that a collection would be taken for the benefit of the parson and his family. Up jumped an acutely brunette brother in the back of the church.

"Look a-year, pahson," he interrupted, "yo ain't no sooner done tellin us dat salvation am free dan yo' go askin us fo money. If salvation am free, what's de use in payin fo' it? Dat's what I want to know. An' I tell yo' p'intedly dat I ain't goin' to pay yo nothin' until I find out. Now—"

"Patience, brudder, patience," said the parson. "I'll 'splain it. I spose yo' was thirsty an' come to a river. Yo' could kneel right down an' drink yo' fill, couldn't yo'? An' it wouldn't cost yo nothin', would it?

"Oh cou'se not. Dat's jest what I—"

"Dat water would be free," continued the parson. "But s'posin' yo was to hab dat water piped to yo' house? Yo'd have to pay, wouldn't yo'?

"Yas, suh, but—"

"Wal, brudder, so it is wid salvation. De salvation am free, but it's de havin' it piped to yo' dat yo' got to pay fo'. Pass de hat, deacon, pass de hat!"

A RAY OF HOPE.

Consumption Yields to Lime Dust Treatment in Three Cases.

What may prove to be the greatest blessing of the age is given out by a country physician as the result of fortunate chance in the conduct of his practice.

Dr. S. C. Boston, of West Grove, Pa., has reported to American Medicine that he had three patients, two of them negroes, who were in the advanced stages of consumption when they consulted him. He says the malady was checked if not cured, by the inhalation of lime dust.

In the case of one negro it was the result of accident. The man went to Wilmington, Del., and obtained employment hauling lime. He worked all day in a lime dust atmosphere, and at the expiration of three weeks his hacking cough had disappeared and the violent hemorrhages of the lungs, to which he had been subject, ceased.

The change in the patient's condition was brought to the attention of Dr. Boston, and after satisfying himself of the truth of the statement, he undertook the treatment of a white laborer. He caused a quantity of unslacked lime to be pounded to a powder and placed in a burlap bag, which was dropped on the floor repeatedly so that an impalpable dust would arise. Two or three times a week the man put his head into the bag, and breathed the fine particles into his lungs. Although his father, three brothers and one sister died of pulmonary tuberculosis, he showed immediate improvement, and at the end of a month he had gained 10 pounds in weight and was able to go to work.

The second negro was a laborer in a lime-stone quarry. He was greatly emaciated and his cough troubled him. Dr. Boston advised that he be transferred to the company's mill, where the lime was ground. He did so, and while at work these two patients, ears and mouth were filled with the fine dust. His condition improved and he gained in strength and weight. Dr. Boston does not claim to have made a great discovery, but relates his experience for the general good.

Lime dust is known to be a great irritant to the skin, and there is no reason for believing it would be any less so to the delicate membrane that lines the lungs. On the other hand there is no reason for doubting the statements of this doctor, who is evidently desirous of furthering the general welfare of humanity. If, as he seems to believe, lime dust is in any degree a cure for the white plague, there is this much more in its favor—it is a remedy easily procured and at little cost.

THE DIFFICULTY.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish is an anti-suffragette. She has joined the anti-suffragette organization, the National League for the Civic Education of Women. At a luncheon the other day she said:

"It isn't possible for a woman to do the same work as men, day in and day out, in good health and in soul. For instance, what woman could be a postman, out in all kinds of weather and at all hours, walking miles daily?

She smiled.

"A woman postman would compare with a male one as the bergeat compared with the milkmaid.

"You've got no grounds to envy me," said the millionaire to the beggar. "I'm just as many troubles as you have."

"No doubt yer right, boss," said the beggar sadly. "But dey affect my with me is, I ain't got nothin else.

legal measures to free himself, as you or I or anybody with an ounce of temper in 'em would have done? No, he didn't. That infernal Selwyn conscience began to get busy, making him believe that if a woman kicks over the traces it must be because of some occult shortcoming on his part. In some way or other that man persuaded himself of his responsibility for her disloyalty. He knew what it meant if he didn't ask the law to aid him to get rid of her. He knew perfectly well that his silence meant acknowledgment of culpability, that he couldn't remain in the service under such suspicion.

"And now, Gerald," continued Austin, striking his broad palm with extended forefinger and leaning heavily forward, "I'll tell you what sort of a man Philip Selwyn is. He permitted Alice to use him for absolute divorce, and to give her every chance to marry Ruthven, he refused to defend the suit. That sort of chivalry is very picturesque, no doubt, but it cost him his career—set him adrift at thirty-five; a man branded as having been divorced from his wife for cause, with no profession left him, no business, and not much money—a man in the prime of life and lusty ambition, clean in thought and deed, an upright, just, generous, sensitive man, whose whole career has been blasted because he was too merciful, too generous to throw the blame where it belonged. And it belongs on the shoulders of that Mrs. Jack Hallgate—Alice Ruthven—whose name you may see in the papers any paper that trades for the sort of society she figures in. I want you to understand that Selwyn is every inch a man, and when you have the hardihood to meet him keep that fact in the back of your head among the few brains with which Providence has equipped you."

"Thanks," said Gerald, coloring up. He cast his cigarette into the open fireplace, slid off the edge of the table and picked up his hat. Austin eyed him without particular approval.

"You buy too many clothes," he observed. "That's a new suit, isn't it?"

"Certainly," said Gerald. "I needed it."

"Oh, if you can afford it, all right. How's the nimble Mr. Neergard?"

"Neergard is flourishing. We put through that Rose Valley deal. I tell you what, Austin, I wish you could see your way clear to finance one or two."

Austin's frown put him short.

"Oh, all right! You know your own business, of course," said the boy, a little resentfully. "Only as Fane, Harmon & Co. have thought it worth while——"

"I don't care what Fane-Harmon think," growled Austin, touching a button over his desk. His stenographer entered. He nodded a curt dismissal to Gerald, adding as the boy reached the door:

"Your sister expects you to be on hand tonight, and so do we."

Gerald halted.

"I'd clean forgotten," he began. "I made another—a rather important engagement——"

But Austin was not listening—in fact, he had already begun to dictate to his dentro stenographer, and Gerald stood a moment, hesitating, then turned on his heel and went away down the resounding marble corridor.

"They never let me alone," he muttered. "They're always at me—following me up as though I were a schoolboy. Austin's the worst—never satisfied. What do I care for all these functions—sitting around with the younger set and keeping the cradle of conversation rocking? I won't go to Sauntering along Fifth avenue under the lofties trees.

And, strolling at leisure in the pleasant winter weather, he came presently to a street stretching eastward in all the cold impressiveness of very new limestone and plate glass.

Could this be the street where his sister now lived?

As usual when perplexed, he slowly raised his hand to his mustache, and his pleasant gray eyes, still slightly bloodshot from the glare of the tropics, narrowed as he inspected this unfamiliar house.

The house was a big, elaborate limestone affair, evidently new. Winter sunshine spattered on the bare lunge casement, on glass marquise and the burnished bronze foliations of grille and door. He mounted the doorstep, rang and leisurely examined four stiff box trees flanking the ornate portal, meanwhile getting vegetation compared to what he had been accustomed to for so many years.

Nobody came. Once or twice he fan cied he heard sounds proceeding from inside the house. He rang again and fumbled for his cardcase. Somebody was coming.

The moment that the door opened he was aware of a distant and curious uproar—faraway echoes of cheering and the faint barking of dogs. These seemed to cease as the man in waiting admitted him, but before he could make an inquiry or produce a card bedlam itself apparently broke loose somewhere in the immediate upper landing—bone in its crudest elemental exhibition—through which the mortified man at the door strove to make himself heard: "Beg pardon, sir; it's the children broke loose an' runnin' wildlike"——

"The what?"

"Only the children, sir; fox huntin' they cry, sir"——

His voice was lost in the yelling dissonance descending crescendo from floor to floor. Then an avalanche of children and dogs poured down the hall stairs in pursuit of a rumpled and bored cat, tumbling with yelps and cheers and shouts among the thick rugs on the floor.

Here the cat turned and soundly cuffed a pair of fat beagle puppies, who shrieked and fled, burrowing for safety into the yelling bosom of children and dogs on the floor. Above this baby dogs, arms and the tails of dogs waved wildly for a moment, then a small boy, bland hair in disorder, staggered to his knees, and, setting hollowed hand to cheek, shouted: "Hi, there! Jarvis! Jarvis, forrard! Take off my boots, you lubber! Jarvis, I say!"

WHAT MACHINERY IS DOING ON FARMS.

Speed Records Are Being Broken in Harvest Fields Where the New Rural Spirit Dominates.

Out at Goshen Corners and Fairfield Center the boys now growing up will not have to leave home to find much of which your barren boyhood was denied. For, over the country that you left, the new rural spirit has waved this wand of progress. From the fragrant fields comes the sound of machine mutterings that harvesting ten acres of grain where one was harvested before. Self-binders are reaping acres of wheat at a rate of less than a cent a bushel. Machines are milking cows by the herd. Potatoes are being planted at a full row rate of five miles an hour. With in the last two years more than fifty thousand gasoline engines have gone to work on the American farm, and now there is an auto-tractor that hauls to market loads of produce tandem, like the cars of a train. Farm life that was once a struggle has become a pleasure. Last year a number of houses sold more automobiles to the farmers than to the city trade. Forty tourist cars at $1,250 apiece went to a single Illinois county.—The Delineator for September.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

RACE WITH DEATH IS MADE IN VAIN.

Cheboygan Man, Hurt by Fall From Horse, Rushed to Detroit on Special Train, Dies.

Despite the efforts of his millionaire father, who sent him from Cheboygan to Detroit on a special train in record-breaking time yesterday, Alexander Martin, son of T. A. Martin, died in Harper hospital yesterday morning.

While Martin was riding horseback near his home Sunday afternoon the animal he was astride became unruly and threw him to the ground. Cheboygan physicians found that he had suffered a concussion of the brain. They were not provided with proper facilities for an operation, the only thing that could possibly save the boy's life. The special train arrived in Detroit at 9.20 p.m., but Martin's condition was so critical that the Harper hospital physicians did not attempt to operate on him.

The body was taken back to Cheboygan yesterday afternoon.

Deceased was a brother-in-law of Mr. Blake Fralick.

A PLEASING PUBLICATION.

Busy Man's Magazine for September is unusually attractive. It has half a dozen bright, entertaining stories that are sure to be appreciated and a number of strong articles on home and business interests that will be read with particular pleasure. Contributions telling of the methods and means by which men of eminence have climbed are full of inspiration and encouragement. The Special Canadian articles are both racy and edifying. Among them are "How the Governor-General Earns His Salary," "Country Homes of Notable Canadians" and "Farmers Who Produces Books," all of which are splendidly illustrated. The various departments for September will be found above the average and the edition is one that will both please and satisfy.

The purity, flavor and strength of "Salada" Tea make it incomparably the best value on the market. It is indistinctly more delicious and decidedly more economical than other teas.

AN ONION LOVER.

Dr. W. A. Evans, health commissioner of Chicago, declares pasteurized milk to be an overrated article.

"They who expect," said Dr. Evans recently, "wonderful hygienic effects from pasteurized milk are bound to be disappointed."

He smiled.

"In the way of real, tangible results," Dr. Evans went on, "they will get little more than the Atlantic City excursionist would have got if—but listen to the story.

"A Philadelphia gentleman was very bald. Onion juice was recommended him as an infallible hair restorative. Accordingly, every morning he split two onions and rubbed their juicy flesh very thoroughly over his nude white scalp. The odor was strong, but the gentleman, after a time, got used to it. Throughout his Atlantic City vacation he saw no reason to abandon his daily onion tonic. Well, one hot morning on the board-walk, spying a vacant place beside an excursionist who was lunching out of a paper bag, the Philadelphia bald-head seated him self, unbuttoned his waistcoat, removed his hat, and exposed his head to the cool breezes and the sunshine. An overpowering odor of onion arose. The excursionist beside him, pausing in his repast, frowned and sniffed. The gentleman fanned himself calmly. The other, sandwich in hand, kept on sniffing and frowning. Then, after a minute or two, the excursionist leaned over and said:

"Excuse me, boss, but would ye mind if I rubbed this here cheese sandwich on yer head—jest to give it a flavor of onions? I'm awful fond of onions."

The footprints of Dinosaurs have been directly traced to the Stonesfield slate, those "inside nerves" fall, indigestion and much distress most surely result, and this, druggists everywhere are supplying a prescription known as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. First, these tiny inside Stomach, Heart and Kidney nerves fail, then comes lethargy, heart palpitation, or failure. Kidneys follow. Don't drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. Strengthen these inside nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative. It is the nerves, not the organs that are failing. Test it 48 hours after starting the restorative treatment, and will realize the gain! A test will tell. Sold by all dealers.

CANADA ORDERS NEW VESSEL FOR HYDROGRAPHIC SURVEY.

Contract Has Been Let for Steamer 273 Feet Long With the Most Modern Equipment.

Canada has decided to add to her navy. While the programme of the Dominion Government, following the Imperial Defence Conference, is still a matter for speculation, a contract has been given out by the Department of Marine and Fisheries for a hydrographic survey boat, the type which will be needed whatever the decision with regard to defence may be.

Mr. Clarence J. de Sola, of Montreal, has secured the contract for the boat, and the vessel will be built by his business associates, the Swan-Hunter firm, of the Tyne.

The vessel will be twin-screw, of a length of 273 feet, and is to be specially devised, it is understood, to coast survey work. Both engine and equipment will represent the latest word of their class, and will prove an important addition to the Dominion Government survey department. The hull is to be classed 100 A1 at Lloyd's. She will have two gasoline launches and a couple of cutters. The launches are to be 37 feet long, with ignition by dynamo discharge of the most modern wet battery type.

THESE RELIGIOUS ARGUMENTS

Joaquin Miller is to establish a colony of poets at Fruitvale, Cal. Mr. Miller, discussing this colony recently, said:

"We poets will, of course, argue and squabble. That will be delightful. Arguments and squabbles over Matthew Arnold, Swinburne, Tennyson and Keats are pleasant and sensible things, you know; they are not like political or religious arguments, which in their bitter rancor always make me think of three Maine divines. While these divines were supping together two of them began to argue about the comparative religious merits of the royal houses of Stuart and Orange. The argument became heated. The divines grew excited and angry.

"William III was a great rascal," roared the first, as he struck the table with his fist. "A great rascal, and I spit upon his memory!"

The second divine, turning very red, shouted:

"No, it's James II that was the rascal. I spit upon his memory!"

At this point the third divine rang the bell, and said gently to the waiter:

"Spittoons for two, please."

OBITUARY.

At Peterboro', at noon on Wednesday of last week, the death occurred of Elton York, eldest son of Thomas York, Esq., of Moscow, formerly of Newburgh. His body was brought to his father's house on Thursday, and from thence on Friday to Newburgh for interment, after services at the house, conducted by Rev. Mr. Batestone. Elton will be remembered by many in Newburgh and vicinity, as an honest good-hearted boy. Much sympathy is felt for his parents and brothers and sisters. In a letter that his friends may know the circumstances of his death, we print the following clipping from The Peterboro Examiner: "While being removed to Nichol's Hospital today at noon in the Dan Spencer ambulance, Elton York passed away. The young man had been ill for over a week. His condition however, became alarming during the past few days, and it was deemed advisable to remove him to the hospital. Dr. Marshall was with him when he died and all efforts to save his life were of no avail. The late Mr. York was a young man of about thirty years of age. He came to Peterboro' three years ago, and was in employment here until he was taken ill."

Merry-go-Round Saved By the Roof.

CAREY ROOF PROVES ITS WORTH AT THE BIG FIRE AT HANLAN'S.

"One thing we can congratulate ourselves on is the fact that we had the proper kind of a roof on the Merry-go-Round," said Manager Lol Solman in referring to the Carey Magnesia Roof covering that place of amusement. "It certainly saved the building."

During the course of the fire people watching building after building crash down were astonished to see the Merry-go-Round stay up in spite of the mass of flames surrounding it, and clinging to it.

Had there been a shingle or metal roof, it would have gone in a moment was the opinion of Mr. Solman.

Naturally the interest was keen to know all about this style of roof that would defy the flames. In an interview with The News, the manager of the Phillip Carey Company, Bay street, stated that his company, with its $3,000,000 capital, had been making these roofs for the past forty years.

"During that time we have had severer tests than that," he said, "and have come out of them in the same way. The fact that the roof is flexible is a great advantage. One great point in its favor is that there is no tar or paper mixed in, but simply a composition of magnesia and the best quality of asbestos. We have these roofs all over America. In particular they are used wherever crowds congregate, as for example, here in Toronto they are on the skating rinks, big waiting rooms, and so forth."

It is interesting to note that the Phillip Carey Company has fifty-four branches on the continent, and guarantee a roof for ten years against cracking or giving way.

When wanting a good roof buy Carey's, and write Jno. A. Reid, of Tamworth, for samples and prices, as he has just received a car load. 37d

SCRAPING THE STOMACH

Dangerous and Painful Operation Avoided by Taking "Fruit-a-tives."

Guelph, Ont., Aug., 6, 1908.

I suffered for many months with Acid Stomach Trouble, with vomiting and constant pain, and I could get practically nothing.

A doctor stated that I must go to hospital and undergo an operation for scraping the stomach and be fed by bowels for weeks. All the medicine doctor gave me I vomited at once. I dreadfully alarmed, but I dreaded operation and had refused.

I had heard of "Fruit-a-tives" and their success they were having in curing Stomach Troubles, and I decided to try them. To my surprise, the first box relieved me, and I continued using them, but they also checked the pain. I immediately began to improve, three days the pain was gone and I was decidedly better. I used "Fruit-a-tives" and completely cured me.

Miss Austin Hammond, Guelph, Ont.

"Fruit-a-tives" are now sold in nearly every town in Canada. At dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Chapter 3.

TO pick up once more and tighten and knot together the loosened threads which represented all of the unfinished record that his race had woven into the social fabric of the metropolis was merely an automatic matter for Selwyn.

His own people had always been interwoven in that fabric. Into part of its vast and intricate pattern they had woven an inconspicuously honorable record—chronicles of births and deaths and marriages, a plain memorandum of plain living and upright dealing with their fellow men.

Some public service of modest nature they had performed, not seeking it, not shirking, accomplishing it cleanly when it was intrusted to them.

His forefathers had been, as a rule, professional men—physicians and lawyers. His grandfather died under the walls of Chapultepec castle while twisting a tourniquet for a cursing dragoon; an uncle remained indefinitely at Malvern Hills; an only brother at Monterey Point sickened in the trenches before Santiago.

His father's services as division medical officer in Sheridan's cavalry had been perhaps no more devoted, no more loyal than the services of thousands of officers and troopers, and his reward was a pension offer, declined. He practiced until his wife died, then retired to his country home, from which house his daughter Nina was married to Austin Gerard.

Mr. Selwyn, Sr., continued to pay his taxes on his father's house in Tenth street, voted in that district each month every year with the Gerards and judiciously enlarged the family reservation in Greenwood, whither he retired in due time.

The first gun off the Florida keys sent Selwyn's only brother from his law office in hot haste to San Antonio.

That same gun interrupted Selwyn's connection with Neergard & Co., operators in Long Island real estate—and a year later the captaincy offered him in a western volunteer regiment operating on the island of Leyte completed the rupture.

And now he was back again, a chance career ended, with option of picking up the severed threads—his inheritance at the loom—and of retying them, warp and weft, and continuing the pattern according to the designs of the tufted, tinted pile yarn knotted in by his ancestors before him.

Meanwhile he was looking for two things—an apartment and a job—the first energetically combated by his immediate family.

It was rather odd—the scarcity of jobs. Of course Austin offered him one, which Selwyn declined at once foreging his brother-in-law.

"But what do I know about the investment of trust funds?" demanded Selwyn. "You wouldn't take me if were not your wife's brother, and that's nepotism."

Austin's harmless fury raged for nearly ten minutes, after which he cheered up, relighted his cigar and resumed his discussion with Selwyn concerning the merits of various boys' schools, the victim in prospective being Billy.

A little later, reverting to the subject of his ever-enforced idleness, Selwyn said, "I've been on the point of going to see Neergard, but somehow I can't quite bring myself to it—sinking into his office as a rank failure in one profession to ask him if he has any use for me again."

"Stuff and fancy!" growled Gerard. "It's all stuff and fancy about your being any kind of a failure. If you want to resume with that Dutchman, go to him and say so. If you want to invest anything in his Long Island schemes he'll take you in fast enough. He took in Gerald and some twenty thousand!"

"Isn't he very prosperous, Austin?"

"Very on paper. Long Island farm lands and mortgages on Hampton hencoops are not fragrant propositions to me. But there's always one more way of making a living after you counted 'em all up on your fingers. If you've any capital to offer Neergard, he won't be back for long."

"But isn't suburban property"—

"Oh the jump? Yes—both ways. Oh, I suppose that Nat and he'll get rich. If he wasn't I wouldn't have permitted Gerald to go into it. Neergard sticks to his commissions and doesn't buck his fancy in certified checks. I don't know exactly how he operates. I only know that we find nothing in that sort of thing for our own account. But Fane, Harmon & Co. do. That's their affair, too. It's all a matter of taste, I tell you."

Selwyn reflected: "I believe I'd go and see Neergard if I were perfectly sure of my personal sentiments toward him. He's been civil enough to me, of course, but I have always had a curious feeling about Neergard—that he's forever on the edge of doing something—doubtful."

"His business reputation is all right. He shaves the dead line like a safety razor, but he's never yet cut through it. On principle, however, look out for an apple faced Dutchman, with a thin nose and no lips. Neither Jew, Yankee nor American stands any chance in a deal with that type of financier. Personally my feeling is this: If I've got to play games with Julius Neergard, I'd prefer to be his partner. And so I told Gerald. By the way"—

Austin checked himself, looked down at his cigar, turned it over and over several times, then continued quietly:

"By the way, I suppose Gerald is like other young men of his age and station—immersed in his own affairs—thoughtless perhaps, perhaps a trifle selfish in the cross country gallop after pleasure. I was rather severe with him about his neglect of his sister. He ought to have come here to pay his respects to you too."

"Oh, don't put such notions into his head"—

"Yes, I will," insisted Austin. "However indifferent and thoughtless and selfish he is to other people, he's got to be considerate toward his own family, and I told him so. Have you seen him lately?"

"Now?" admitted Selwyn.

"Not since the first time when he came to do the civil by you?"

"No, but don't"—

"Yes, I will," repeated his brother-in-law, "and I'm going to have a thorough explanation with him and learn what he's up to. He's got to be decent to his sister. He ought to report to me occasionally. That's all there is to it. He has entirely too much liberty, with his bachelor quarters and his partner whippersnapper club and his house parties and his cruises on Neergard's boat!"

He got up, casting his cigar from him, and moved about bulkily, muttering of matters to be regulated, and firmly too. But Selwyn, looking out of the window across the park, knew perfectly well that young Erroll, now of age, with a small portion of his handsome income at his mercy, was past the regulating stage and beyond the authority of Austin. There was no harm in him. He was simply a young, pleasure loving cub, chock full of energetic instincts, good and bad, right and wrong, out of which, formed from the acts which become habits, character matures. This was his estimate of Gerald.

* * * * * * * *

The next morning, riding in the park with Eileen, he found a chance to speak cordially of her brother.

"I've meant to look up Gerald," he said, as though the neglect were his own fault, "but every time something happens to switch me on to another track."

"I'm afraid that I do a great deal of the switching," she said, "don't I? But you've been so nice to me and to the children that"—

Miss Erroll's horse was behaving badly, and for a few moments she became too thoroughly occupied with her mount to finish her sentence.

The bolted groom galloped up, prepared for emergencies, and he and Selwyn sat their saddles watching a pretty battle for mastery between a beautiful horse determined to be bad and a very determined young girl who had decided he was going to be good.

Once or twice the excitement of solicitude sent the color flooding into Selwyn's temples. The bridle path was narrow and stiff with freezing sand, and the trees were too near for such lively maneuvers, but Miss Erroll had made up her mind, and Selwyn already had a humorous idea that this was no light matter. The horse found it serious enough, too, and suddenly concluded to be good. And the pretty scene ended so abruptly that Selwyn laughed aloud as he rejoined her.

"There was a man—Boots Lansing—in Bannard's command. One night on Kemar the boys were rushed in, and Lansing got into the six foot major's boots by mistake—seven leaguers, you know—and his horse bucked him clean out of them."

"Hence his Christian name, I suppose," said the girl. "But why such a story, Captain Selwyn? I believe I stuck to my saddle."

"With both hands," he said cordially, always alert to plague her, for she was adorable when teased, succumbing to the beginning of their acquaintance before she had found out that it was a habit of his. And he found that she also always delighted him into further mischief.

"But I wasn't a bit worried," he continued. "You had him so firmly around the neck. Besides, what horse or man could resist such a pleading pair of arms around the neck?"

"What you saw," she said, flushing up, "is exactly the way I shall do any pleading with the two animals you mention."

Later she remarked, "It's just as Nina says, after all, isn't it?"

"I suppose so," he replied suspiciously. "What?"

"That Gerald isn't really very wicked, but he likes to have us think so. It's a sign of extreme self consciousness, isn't it," she added innocently, "when a man is afraid that a woman thinks he is very, very good?"

"That," he said, "is the limit. I'm going to ride by myself."

Her pleasure in Selwyn's society had gradually become such genuine pleasure, her confidence in his kindness so unaffectedly sincere, that insensibly she had fallen into something of his manner of badinage—especially since she realized how much amusement he found in her own smiling confusion when unexpectedly assailed. Also, to her surprise, she found that he could be plagued very easily, though she did not quite dare it at first, in view of his impressive years and experience.

But, once goaded to it, she was astonished to find how suddenly it seemed to readjust their personal relations—years and experience falling from his shoulders like a cloak which had concealed a man very nearly her own age, years and experience adding themselves to her, and at least an inch to her stature to redress the balance between them.

It had amused him immensely as he realized the subtle change, and it pleased him, too, because no man of thirty-five cares to be treated like a grandfather by a girl of nineteen, even if she has not yet worn the polish from her first pair of high heeled shoes.

"It's astonishing," he said, "how little respect infirmity and age command in these days."

"I do respect you," she insisted, "especially your infirmity of purpose, if you said you were going to ride by yourself. But, do you know, I don't believe you are of a particularly solitary disposition. Are you?"

He laughed at first, then suddenly his face fell.

"Not from choice," he said under his breath. Her quick ear heard, and she turned, semi-serious, questioning him with raised eyebrows.

"Nothing. I was just muttering. I've a villainous habit of muttering mushy nothings"—

"You did say something!"

"No; only ghoulish gabble, the mere murky mouthings of a meager mind."

"You did. It's rude not to repeat it when I ask you."

"I didn't mean to be rude."

"Then repeat what you said to yourself."

"Do you wish me to?" he asked, raising his eyes so gravely that the smile faded from lip and voice when she answered: "I beg your pardon, Captain Selwyn. I did not know you were serious."

Gerald Erroll.

"Oh, I'm not," he returned lightly. "I'm never serious. No man who solicoquizes can be taken seriously. Don't you know, Miss Erroll, that the crowning absurdity of all tragedy is the soliloquy?"

Her smile became delightfully uncertain. She did not quite understand him, though her instinct warned her that for a second something had menaced their understanding.

Riding forward with him through the crisp sunshine of mid-December, the word "tragedy" still sounding in her ears, her thoughts reverted naturally to the only tragedy besides her own which had ever come very near to her—his own.

Could he have meant that? Did people mention such things after they had happened? Did they not rather conceal them, hide them deeper and deeper with the aid of time and the kindly years for a burial past all recollection?

Troubled, uncomfortably intent on evading every thought or trale of ideas evoked, she put her mount to a gallop. But thought kept pace with her.

She was, of course, aware of the situation regarding Selwyn's domestic affairs. She could not very well have been kept long in ignorance of the facts, so Nina had told her carefully, leaving in the young girl's mind only a bewildered sympathy for man and wife whom a dreadful and incomprehensible catastrophe had overtaken, only an impression of something new and fearsome which she had hitherto been unaware of in the world and which was to be added to her small but promptly growing list of sad and incredible things.

Returning from their gallop Miss Erroll had gayly little to say. Selwyn, who was silent and absentminded, also thought of her brother, and the old hurt at his absence on that night throbbed again. Forgive? Yes. But how could she forget it?

"I wish you knew Gerald well," she said impulsively. "He is such a dear fellow, and I think you'd be good for him—and, besides," she hastened to add, with instinctive loyalty lest he misconstrue: "Gerald would be good for you. We were a great deal together—at one time."

He nodded, smilingly attentive.

"Of course when he went away to school it was different," she added. "And then he went to Yale. That was four more years, you see."

"Did he row—your brother Gerald?"

"No," she said. She did not add that he had broken training. That was her own sorrow, to be concealed even from Gerald. "No; he played polo sometimes. He rides beautifully, Captain Selwyn, and he is so clever when he cares to be—at the traps, for example—and—oh—anything. He once swam—oh, dear, I forget. Was it five or fifteen or fifty miles? Is that too far? Do people swim those distances?"

"Some of those distances," replied Selwyn.

"Well, then, Gerald swam some of those distances, and everybody was amazed. I do wish you knew him well."

"I mean to," he said. "I must look him up at his rooms or his club or perhaps at Neergard & Co.'s."

"Will you do this?" she asked so earnestly that he glanced up surprised.

"Yes," he said, and after a moment, "I'll do it today, I think—this afternoon. Are you having a good time?" he asked condescendingly, but without intention.

"Heavenly! How can you ask that, with every day filled and a chance to decline something every day? If you'd only go to one—just one—of the dances and teas and dinners you'd be able to see for yourself what a good time I am having. I don't know why I should be so delightfully lucky, but everybody asks me to dance, and every man I meet is particularly nice, and nobody has been very horrid to me—perhaps because I like everybody."

"What is it?" she asked.

BARRED

"So you are never going into politics, Senor?"

"Why not?"

"For two reasons. I'm not rich enough now to save the time to do it, and when I am rich enough I'll invariably be under suspicion of doing business with some trust."

EASY MONEY FOR JIM.

"Do you find poultry-keeping pays?"

"Well, no; I can't say that it pays me, but I think that it pays my boy Jim."

"How's that?"

"Well, you see, I taught him the facts. I have to pay for their keep and buy the eggs from him, and he gets them."

THE KINGDOM SAVED.

When Barry Sullivan, the Irish tragedian, was playing Richard III. he had the artful dodger come to the lines, "A horse, a horse! My kingdom for a horse!" some merry wag in the pit yelled out:

"And wouldn't a jackass do as well for you?"

"Sure," answered Sullivan, turning like a flash at the sound of the voice, "come around to the stage door at once!"

POLITENESS NOT CRUELTY.

"Now, sir," bellowed the ruby-visaged K. C., taking off his pince-nez, and pointing them at the unhappy husband, "you deny any cruelty toward your wife, I understand? Kindly tell us whether it is a fact"—here he turned triumphantly toward the jury, and put on his pince-nez again—"that for three months you did not speak to her!"

"It is," answered the husband.

"Well, sir," thundered the K. C., "why didn't you speak to her, may I ask?"

"Simply," replied the husband, "because I didn't want to interrupt her!"

Maish Laminated Cotton Down Comforts - - - Silkoline, Sateen and Silk, Bordered and Solid Colors,

Extra Long and Extra Large.
Baby Comforts—Bassenette and Crib.

WARMTH WITHOUT WEIGHT.

If you are a reader of magazines you have no doubt noticed Maish bedding advertised extensively. We have the sale of them for Napanee. They have many features that make them desirable. The warmth of a comfort depends upon its ability to keep the natural warmth of the body in, and is in proportion to the thickness of the comfort, not the weight.

Heavy comforts are neither warm nor comfortable. The depressing weight makes it impossible for people to get the full benefit from their sleep; it keeps the muscles under strain instead of allowing them to relax.

Maish Laminated Cotton Down Comforts have the fluffy thickness and light weight of eiderdown, and are free from its animal oil and dust. The secret of the Maish is in the making.

By the Maish laminating process, the long fibres of the finest selected natural cotton are separated, curled and then woven into a soft, down, one piece layer. Between the curled fibres—miniature springs—are thousands of air cells, little non-conductors that keep the warmth of the body in.

A famous London surgeon, Sir Joseph Lister, advanced the theory that "sound sleep in cold, fresh air saves more lives than science."

The depressing weight of heavy covers is a constant strain that the body can not well endure. Maish Comforts make it possible to have perfect sleeping conditions. Throw open the windows—let the cold fresh air flood the room—the luxurious warmth and light weight of Maish Comforts insure a life-giving sleep.

The Maish is made in all sizes, from baby comfort 22x30 to extra long and extra large double bed 84x99, in silkoline, sateen and silk.

In stock now.

DEATH OF MRS. LUCIA FIELDS.

Very sad indeed was the death on Monday, of Mrs. Lucia Evans-Fields, at the home of her mother on King street. She had been ill a little over a week, but was conscious all yesterday afternoon, and within a short time before she passed away. She became about seven o'clock, the immediate cause being uric poisoning. Mrs. Fields was born in Picton, the eldest daughter of the late Dr. Harry Evans, and Mrs. Evans-Wright. She had lived the greater part of her life in this her home town, with the exception of a few years in Wellington. Some years ago she wedded Mr. Hartold Fields, of Cobourg, and the young couple removed to Regina, Sask. He died a year later, and Mrs. Fields returned east to live with her mother. The deceased young woman leaves a little daughter, beside her mother, Mrs. Evans-Wright, and one sister, Mrs. Roscoe Burlingham, of Toronto. Picton Gazette.

Napanee.

Dear Sir,—With regards to my experience with the Heckla Furnace, I would say that I have had experience with four different makes of furnaces and in my judgment, the Heckla is far superior with regard to heating from the amount of coal used to any of the others that I have used. It has plenty of draft, and I find by experience that it is easily controlled.

Yours very truly,

We installed over 20 Heckla furnaces.

HADDOCK IN A NEW FORM.

"Haddock is an inexpensive fish food which may well form the central dish for a simple dinner," says Fannie Merritt Farmer in Woman's Home Companion for September. "When planning for Stuffed Baked Haddock, order a four-pound haddock to be sent cleaned, split and tail left on. Wipe with a piece of three-cloth wrung out of cold water, sprinkle with salt inside and out, stuff, and sew. Cut five diagonal gashes on each side of the backbone (having the gashes on one side come between the gashes on the other side), and insert in each a strip of fat salt pork in each gash. Shape in the form of a letter S, and hold in place with skewers, which should be fastened with string. Place on a greased fish-sheet in a dripping pan, sprinkle with salt and pepper, brush over with melted butter, dredge with flour, and place around the fish one third of a cupful of small cubes of fat salt pork. Bake one hour in a hot oven, basting as soon as the fat in the pan is fried out, and continue basting every ten minutes. Remove to a hot platter, take out the skewers, and garnish with Julienne potatoes, slices of lemon and parsley. Serve at once with the following sauce:

Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add three tablespoonfuls of flour, and stir until well blended; then pour on gradually, while stirring constantly, one and one half cupfuls of hot water. Bring to the boiling point, add three tablespoonfuls of butter, and season with one half teaspoonful of salt and one eighth of a teaspoonful of pepper.

RESULTS OF CO-OPERATIVE EXPERIMENTS WITH AUTUMN SOWN CROPS.

Four hundred and ten farmers throughout Ontario conducted experiments with autumn sown crops during the past year. Reports have been received from thirty-six of the Counties of the Province. Those Counties which furnished the greatest number of good reports of successfully conducted experiments were Middlesex, Huron, Bruce, Norfolk and Muskoka. The experimenters deserve much credit for the good work which they have done, not only for themselves but for the farmers generally. Average results of the carefully conducted co-operative experiments with autumn sown crops are here presented in a very concise form.

Winter Wheat—Four varieties of winter wheat were distributed last autumn to those farmers who wished to test some of the leading varieties on their own farms. The average yields per acre of straw and of grain are as follows: Imperial Amber, 2.4 tons straw, 39 bushels; Abundance, 1.4 tons, 23.9 bus.; Bulgarian, 1.2 tons, 21.9 bus.; and Nigger, 1.1 tons, 21.9 bus.

The Imperial Amber gave the greatest yield per acre in the co-operative experiments throughout Ontario in 1907 and in 1908, as well as in 1909. It also came first in popularity with the experimenters in each of those years. The Imperial Amber will again be distributed this autumn. Abundance is also one of the varieties for co-operative experiments distributed the autumn of 1908, is as follows: Dawson's Golden Chaff is still the most popular and the most extensively grown variety of winter wheat in the Province.

Winter Rye. The average yield of grain per acre each of the three varieties of winter rye, distributed in the autumn of 1908, is as follows: Mammoth White, 41 bus.; Common, 22.1; and Washington, 19.6. In the experiments throughout Ontario, the Mammoth White variety has given more rye by an average of 5 bushels per acre in 1907, 5.4 bushels per acre in 1908, and 6 bushels per acre in 1909.

Fertilizers with Winter Wheat.—In the co-operative experiments with different fertilizers applied to winter wheat, the average yields of grain per acre for five years are as follows: Mixed Fertilizer, 25.2 bus.; Nitrate of Soda, 23.8 bus.; Muriate of Potash, 22.9 bus.; and Acid phosphate, 22.7 bus. The unfertilized land gave an average of 19.9 bushels per acre. The fertilizers were applied at the rate of 320 pounds per acre. The Mixture of Potash and the Nitrate of Soda each 160 pounds per acre. The Mixed Fertilizer consisted of one third of the quantities of each of the other three fertilizers here mentioned. The usual cost of these fertilizers per acre in this experiment is between four and five dollars per acre.

Fodder Crops.—In each of six years, the seed of Hairy Vetches and Winter Rye has been distributed for co-operative experiments in testing these crops for fodder purposes. In the average of six years' experiments, the Hairy Vetches produced slightly the largest yield of green fodder per acre, but in 1909 the largest yield was produced by the Winter Rye.

Distribution of Material for Experiments in the Fall.

As long as the supply lasts, material will be distributed free of charge in the order in which the applications are received from Ontario farmers wishing to experiment and to report the results of any one of the following tests: 1, three varieties of Winter Wheat; 2, two varieties of Winter Rye; 3, five Fertilizers with Winter Wheat; 4, Autumn and Spring Applications of Nitrate of Soda and Common Salt with Winter Wheat; 5, Winter Emmer and Winter Barley; 6, Hairy Vetches and Winter Rye as Fodder Crops. The size of each plot is to be one rod wide by two rods long. Material for numbers 3 and 4 will be sent by express and that for the others by mail.

A FIGHT WITH AN EEL.

Terrific Struggle in Aquarium at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich.—The Aquarium on Belle Isle was the scene of a thrilling life-and-death struggle between Geraldine, a huge Moray eel, which had escaped from its temporary quarters in the Fish Commission's car, and three attendants at the aquarium, who attempted to force the seven-foot monster into the tank which had been made ready for it.

Shortly after 2 a.m. it was discovered that Geraldine had succeeded in breaking through the heavy netting which had been used to keep her in the tank, and was loose in the car. The attendants immediately decided to remove her to the aquarium tank, but they did not then realize what a dangerous job was ahead of them.

With its immense head raised high in the air, the great fish resembled nothing so much as a huge bog constrictor. To touch the eel, which is highly poisonous in every part of its slimy body, meant sure death. So the men fought the battle with long poles with hooks to which heavy nets were attached.

It was a desperate fight, and the men knew it. Finally after over half an hour's hard work Geraldine's head was hooded with a net and she was pushed and pulled until the immense body fell, at last, with a loud splash into its tank, where it will probably remain.

The Moray eel is noted for its pugnaciousness and voraciousness, particularly those coming from the coral reefs of Bermuda. Its greatest defensive weapon is its natural poison.

Twenty-five years ago it was difficult to sell spring wheat flour for pastry at any price.

People didn't want it—they were using soft, winter wheat flour, and saw no reason for changing.

But hard wheat flour was persistently pushed. The women tried it and succeeded with it,—to-day hard wheat flour is the favorite for Pastry as well as for Bread.

$500,000 FIRE DESTROYS LEGISLATIVE BUILDINGS

DAMAGE TO BUILDING, NOT INCLUDING LIBRARY, ESTIMATED AT $350,000—COVERED BY INSURANCE.

Damage amounting to at least half a million dollars was caused to the west wing of the Provincial Parliament Buildings at Toronto by a fire which broke out shortly after noon on Wednesday. The blaze originated in the roof of the centre part of the building connecting the massive central portion with the western wing. Fanned by a strong north-west breeze, the flames rapidly spread into the west wing, into the chamber known as the "library annex." Those through the wooden floors, with their inlets the same material, they worked down into the library itself, totally destroying it, and doing damage which will run to a great extent in regard to the fine books and valuable data in print. Hansards of the Imperial and Canadian Parliaments, old newspaper files, valuable collection of political pamphlets, and a splendid law library, including books which had belonged to the late Sir Oliver Mowat, were all destroyed, and can hardly be replaced. The loss in books which can, however, scarcely be expressed in figures, was estimated at a minimum of $200,000, and about $50 goes on the roof above the library fell in, and thousands of leaves of books and small pieces of paper flew high in the air, and were carried far and wide by the wind. The loss one of the finest assets of the province," was the comment of Hon. W. J. Hanna, the Provincial Secretary, as he observed the complete destruction of the library. Shortly after 2 o'clock the flames seemed to freshen, and the fanned in both directions along the roof of the building, inside which the firemen were working, although the roof of the corresponding section of the building was practically all destroyed, and all the floors below were flooded. Greater difficulty was experienced in fighting the fire on account of the fire along the top of the west wing itself, which the firemen could not reach. Shortly after 2 o'clock suddenly broke through at the south-west corner, and did not reach the ground floor of the building below the library, which had turned to ruins. By four o'clock the fire had been confined to the west wing, and the danger was practically over.

The new Pantorium Range, roofless, timbers and walls, has perhaps the most valuable of this thing in Canada. See ROLF & SON before buying your stove or furnace.

NEWBURGH.

The local baseball defeated the Strathcona giants in Strathcona, one day last week (it wasn't Sunday), by a score of 7-3. Reid pitched for the locals and Dunlop for the Hump Hill nine. All the locals with the exception of "Joby" and "Busty" fell victims to Dunlop's slants at least once during the game and swatted the air in vain attempts to locate the sphere. But, anyway the boys won and that should surely dispose of the Strathcona's senseless contention last spring that they would clean up on the locals when they visited that burgh. The game was called late in the afternoon to permit Mr. J. S. Fraser, he of Standard Bank fame, to act as umpire, which he did to the satisfaction of all concerned.

ERNESTOWN STATION.

Threshing is the order of the day. Grain is turning out well to the load, but loads are few. The recent rains have greatly benefitted pastures and late crops. A series of evangelistic meetings are being conducted by the Presbyterians here and on the other appointments of the field. Rev. Mr. Dawson, Wolfe Island, assisted by Mr. Robinson last week, his singing and violin accompaniments being highly appreciated. Rev. Dr. Mc-Gillivray, Kingston, is taking part this week, and will dispense the Sacrament on Sunday next at each appointment. He preached in the local horse yesterday in an unaccountable manner. It did not come up with the others, and as regards being made, it was found lying dead in the pasture field. Alfred Amey is the owner of a very prolific breed and in five months having two litters of pigs, numbering 33, of which 30 are alive at time of writing and 10 less than a year's time 17. What can beat it?

Mrs. S. Amey and Mrs. Hester Forward, Millhaven, spent one day last week at Geo. Fernandes', Amey Bros.' and family. Mr. Harold and Charles Marchen and family, Hamilton, visited the scenes of their childhood last week. Mrs. Jas. Smith and Mrs. Absalom Stokes, Odessa, and Mrs. Wm. Baird, Toronto, are guests at Elmore Amey's. On Wednesday Miss L. Eagle, Preston, Ont., is to spend a short time with her mother, and brothers here. Our

Merry-go-Round Saved By the Roof.

CAREY ROOF PROVES ITS WORTH AT THE BIG FIRE AT HANLAN'S.

One thing we can congratulate ourselves on is the fact that we had the proper kind of a roof on the Merry-go-Round, said Manager Lol Solman in referring to the Carey Magnesia Roof covering that place of amusement. "It certainly saved the building."

During the course of the fire people watching building after building crash down were astonished to see the Merry-go-Round stay up in spite of the mass of flames surrounding it, and clinging to it.

Had there been a shingle or metal roof, it would have gone in a moment, was the opinion of Mr. Solman.

Naturally the interest was keen to know all about this style of roof that would defy the flames. In an interview with The News, the manager of the Phillip Carey Company, Bay street, stated that this company, with its $3,000,000 capital, had been making these roofs for the past forty years.

During that time we have had severer tests than that," he said, "and have come out of them in the same way. The fact that the roof is flexible is a great advantage. One great point about its fabric is that the tar or paper mixed in, but simply a composition of magnesia and the best rock asbestos, for example, here, in Toronto they are on the skating rinks, the waiting rooms, and so forth."

It is interesting to note that the Phillip Carey Company has fifty-four branches on the continent, and guarantee a roof for ten years against cracking or giving way.

When wanting a good roof, buy Carey's, and write Geo. A. Reid, of Tamworth, for samples and prices, as he has just received a car load. 35d

PRESENTED WITH AN ADDRESS

Georgetown Herald.

The choir and members of the Methodist church assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Cook one evening last week to say farewell to Miss Thomson, who has been the successful choir leader for the past year. The lawn was beautifully illuminated with Chinese lanterns. Refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served, after which Dr. Clark performed the duties of chairman and called upon Mr. Cranston who read the following address:

Dear Miss Thomson,—

We the members of the Georgetown Methodist choir and congregation are assembled here this evening to express to you our deep appreciation of the excellent services you have rendered our church as leader of the choir for the past year, and to let you know how much we regret that you are about to sever your connection with us. During the short time you have lived among us we have not failed to recognize those noble qualities which have made your life among us both helpful and pleasant. We have learned to love and esteem you, and your kind and pleasant manner has won for you many lasting friends in the church and in the community.

The choir appreciates highly and wishes to thank you very sincerely for the faithful efforts you have made not only with the choir as a whole, but with the individual members as well, in your endeavor to increase its usefulness in the services of the church. We regret very much that you are going to leave us and we shall always remember with pleasure the many pleasant associations connected with your leadership.

As a congregation we desire to let you know how highly we value the services you have rendered our church. The success which has attended your work as leader of the choir must be gratifying to you and is very pleasing to us. We have greatly enjoyed the beautiful solos you have so generously and so well rendered each Sunday and at our various church gatherings, and we trust that the sweet messages of God's truth which you have thus conveyed to us may bear fruit in our lives to God's honor and glory. We pray that you may be long spared to use your voice in the service of your Saviour.

In leaving us to accept a new position in your home behind your many friends, and you carry with you the best wishes of the Georgetown Methodist choir for your continued success and usefulness wherever you decide to use your voice and life to bless humanity and glorify your Saviour.

Signed in behalf of the members of the choir and congregation of the Georgetown Methodist church.

JOHN WILLIAMS

Miss Thomson has been engaged as choir leader and director of the Woodgreen Methodist Church choir, Toronto.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure in the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

DECORATION DAY.

Sunday was decoration day with the I.O.O.F. The weather was all that could be desired, as during Saturday night a shower fell and laid the dust. In the morning the members visited Riverview cemetery and decorated the graves of deceased brethren there. In the afternoon graves in Riverside cemetery were treated in a like manner. The band was in attendance and played sacred music. An exceptionally large crowd gathered at the cemetery and listened with rapt attention to addresses by Rev. W. H. Emsley and Rev. F. J. Dibb. Visiting brethren were present from Deseronto, Enterprise and Picton. The members of the local lodges wish to express their appreciation to the citizens of Napanee who so kindly donated flowers for decoration purposes.

His wife can tell just where he is
At morning, noon, and night

He's dead!

ELEVATED HOSPITAL

Paris, Ont., Man Proposes to Treat Tuberculous Patients in a Balloon.

Israel Kinger, Paris, Ont., has invented a balloon system for the treatment of tuberculosis. It consists of a main balloon, which is suspended half a mile above the earth by a cable, and an auxiliary balloon running up this cable, to take patients and doctors up and down. It is not yet in shape, but he says the general idea is feasible. Germans and others have declared that "up-in-the-air" treatment is the most successful method of curing tuberculosis.

It's a pity when sick ones drag the stomach out of shape and the Heart and Kidneys. That is all wrong. A weak Stomach means weak Stomach nerves, always. And this is also true of the Heart and Kidneys. The weak nerves are instead crying out for help. This explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is promptly helping Stomach, Heart and Kidney ailments. The Restorative reaches out for the actual cause of these ailments—the failing inside nerves. Do you test the Restorative? It won't cure so soon as that, but you will surely know that help is coming. THE NEW BRIDGE.

After a strenuous time, many meetings and some what of a legal contest in which the Town Solicitor, W. S. Herrington, K.C., and Mr. W. G. Wilson gave strong opinions that a verbal contract by Committee without a by-law authorizing the same being done upon the Corporation of Napanee and Reeve Ruttan, Mr. U. M. Wilson and J. L. Whiting, K.C. gave opinions that such a supposed contract was null and void without being confirmed and ratified by a by-law, and after a contest in Committee and Council, the following contract has been made:

Contract With Ontario Bridge Company.

This Contract, made this the 17th day of August, 1909, by and between the Ontario Bridge Company of Toronto, Ontario, party of the first part, and the Town of Napanee, in Lennox and Addington County, Ont., by the undersigned, its duly authorized agent, party to the second part.

Witnesseth, That the party of the first part contracts and agrees with the party of the second part, to build, paint and complete ready for use by Nov. 1st, 1909, for the party of the second part, a Steel and Wrought Iron Truss Bridge and sidewalk as herein more fully set forth and described, over a stream called the Napanee River at a point where the highway crosses said stream in the aforesaid town according to the following specifications and attached plans, if any, forming a part of this contract.

Said bridge to be of 70 ft. clear span by 18 ft. clear width of roadway, and 5 ft. in a clear sidewalk, to be designed to carry the dead load and a live load of seventy-five pounds uniformly distributed per square foot, or a concentrated load of a 15 ton roller. To be covered with a 6 inch concrete floor with an average of 6 inches of sand upon the roadway. With an approved lattice railing upon sidewalk and approved guard rail of line of gas pipe on intermediate truss. All plans to be approved by the Town Engineer before any work is done upon the same. The bridge and all material to be subject to the inspection and approval of said Engineer at all times. The work as to details to be subject to Cooper's specifications. Bridge to be painted black.

All the materials for said bridge, except foundations are to be furnished by the party of the first part unless otherwise specified, and shall be of good and reliable quality, and the work shall be done in a thorough and workmanlike manner.

The parts of the second part contracts and agrees to furnish ready for the superstructure, the founda tions and lumber by Oct. 1st, 1909, and to pay the parts of the first part the sum of two thousand nine hundred dollars ($2,900.00) in the following manner, to wit: $1450.00 upon delivery of the finished metal work at the bride site, or at the railroad station most convenient to the bridge site, and the balance of the amount on completion of the work according to this agreement, or if the weather does not permit of painting right away, then such amount due on completion shall be paid upon the erection of the finished metal work and floor of the bridge, said payment to be made as soon as the same can be legally arranged for, and interest after five months from the acceptance of the bridge at 5 per cent.

And the party of the second part agrees to allow the parts of the first part temporarily free use of the old bridge for the materials required for this work, for putting up trestle work and otherwise as may be for convenience in erecting the work. The above named price includes concrete floor, either of cut stone or of steel plates, or corrugated expanded metal, as Mr. F. F. Miller, Engineer, directs.

And the parts of the first part shall not be held liable for damages resulting from delays caused by carriers or rolling mills, or the elements, strikes, accidents or other causes beyond their reasonable control. The right is reserved to change the shape of sections and to use steel or wrought iron as may seem best, provided the strength of the bridge is not lessened thereby.

ONTARIO BRIDGE COMPANY.

The result of opposition is that the original planned bridge of 14 ft. roadway, 4 foot sidewalk, 66 ft. span covered with the old lumber out of the old bridge at a price of $2,945, has been improved, and the town is getting a bridge 18 foot roadway, 6 foot sidewalk, 70 ft. span covered with a concrete floor and 6 inches of sand, a perfect roadway, and at a reduced price $2900 without the price of abutments, which are being built by day labor. Opposition is evidently conducive of good—and the bridge will probably be finished in 6 weeks.

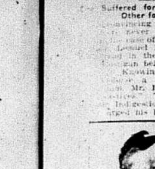
BROTHER TOLD BROTHER

Suffered for Fifteen Years, the Other for Thirteen.

Startling powers of a testimonial never more clearly shown than case of Mr. Hugh Brown, A Lesmo Brown, of Avonmah, in the paper about Hon. Brown being cured by "Fruit-a-tives". They cured him of Indigestion and Constipation, urged his brother to try them.



Fruit-a-tives, N.B., Oct. 28th, 1907. Gentlemen:—Doctors told me that I had chronic and serious Stomach trouble. My stomach was very weak, and medicines for thirteen years did no good. My brother cured of terrible Indigestion and Dyspepsia after suffering for years and was recommended me to try these wonderful fruit-a-tives. I bought half a box and before I had finished the box I had taken all kinds of hearty food without any pain or discomfort. My brother was greatly impressed with "Fruit-a-tives" and urged me to try them. "Constipation and Indigestion" are distressing in my case, but since taking "Fruit-a-tives" I am entirely free from these troubles. I weighed 175 lbs., a trial box of "Fruit-a-tives" has made me weigh 185 lbs. Yours truly, HUGH BROWN. P.S.—Dec. 4, 1907. I am glad to say that I have had no return of my trouble since taking "Fruit-a-tives". I think it is a splendid medicine for Indigestion and Constipation.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company

Incorporated $55,000,000

Assets of the above Company are strikingly pretty girl. How beautifully they are mounted," smilingly returning Fane's salute, "and she—oh, so you do know her, Captain Selwyn? Who is she?"

Crop raised mechanically in dazed salute, Selwyn's light touch on the bridle had tightened to a clutch, which brought his horse up sharply.

"What is it?" she asked, drawing bridle in her turn and looking back into his white, stricken face.

"Pain," he said, unconscious that he spoke. At the same instant the startled eyes found their focus and found her. Beside his stirrup, leaning glide from her seat in sweet concern, one gloved hand resting on the pommel of his saddle.

"Are you ill?" she asked. "Shall we dismount? If you feel dizzy, please lean against me."

"I am all right," he said coolly, and as she recovered her seat he set his horse in motion. His face had become very red now. He looked at her, then beyond her with all the deliberate concentration of aloof indifference.

Confused, conscious that something had happened which she did not comprehend and sensitively aware of the preoccupation which, if it did not ignore her, accepted her presence as of no consequence, she permitted her horse to set his own pace.

Neither self command nor self control was lacking now in Selwyn; he simply was too self absorbed to care what she thought—whether she thought at all. And into his consciousness, throbbing heavily under the rushing reaction from shock, crowded the crude fact that Alixe was no longer an appendage evoked in sleepiness, in suit brooding, in the solitude of crowded avenues and swarming streets; she was an actual presence again in his life.

Chapter 4.

SELWYN had truly enough expected to encounter Alixe again somewhere, though what he had been preparing to see heaven alone knew, but certainly not the supple, laughing girl he had known, that smooth, slender, dark-eyed, dainty traitor who had played at marriage with him through a troubled and unreal dream and was gone when he awoke—so swift the brief two years had passed, as swift in sorrow as in happiness.

* * * * * * *

Luncheon had not been served when they returned. Without lingering on the landing, as usual, they exchanged a formal word or two. Then Eileen mounted to her own quarters and Selwyn walked nervously through the library, where he saw Nina evidently prepared for some midday festivity, for she wore hat and furs and the brougham was outside.

"Oh, Phil," she said, "Eileen probably forgot that I was going out. It's a directors' luncheon at the exchange. Please tell Eileen that I can't wait for her. Where is she?"

"Dressing, I suppose. Nina, I"—

"One moment, dear. I promised the children that you would lunch with them in the nursery. Do you mind? Did it to keep them quiet. I was weak enough to compromise between a for bunt or fudge, so I said you'd lunch with them. Will you?"

"Certainly. And, Nina, what sort of a man is this George Fane?"

"Fane?"

"Yes—the chinless gentleman, with gentle brown and protruding eyes and the expression of a tame brontosaurus."

"Why—how do you mean, Phil? What sort of man? He's a banker. He isn't very pretty, but he's popular."

"Oh, popular!" he nodded, as close to a sneer as he could ever get.

"He has a very popular wife too. Haven't you met Rosamund? People to lunch. He's about everywhere; very useful, very devoted to pretty women. But I'm really in a hurry, Phil." Her voice dwindled and died away through the hall; the front door clanged.

He went to his quarters, drove out Austin's man, arranged his own fresh linen, took a sulky dinner and, an unlighted cigarette between his teeth, completed his dressing in sullen introspection.

When he had tied his scarf and bitten his cigarette to pieces he paced the room once or twice, squared his shoulders, breathed deeply and, unbending his eyebrows, walked off to the nursery.

"Hello, you kids!" he said, with an effort. "I've come to luncheon. Very nice of you to want me, Drina."

"I wanted you, too," said Billy. "I'm to sit beside you."

"So am I," observed Drina, pushing Winthrop out of the chair and sliding in close to Selwyn. She had the cat, Kit-Kit, in her arms. Kit-Kit, revelling nourishment, was purring loudly.

Josephine and Clemence in pinafores and stick-out skirts sat wriggling with Winthrop between them; the five dogs sat in a row behind. Katie and Bridget assumed the functions of Hibernian Hebes, and luncheon began with a clatter of spoons.

It being also the children's dinner, supper and bed occurring from 5 to 6, meat figured on the card, and Kit-Kit's purring increased to an ecstatic and wheezy squeal, and her rigid tail as she stood up on Drina's left was constantly brushing Selwyn's features.

"The cat is shedding, too," he remarked as he dodged the casual appendage for the twentieth time. "I will go in with the next spoonful of cranberry sauce, Drina, if you're not careful about keeping your mouth shut."

After luncheon Selwyn and Miss Erroll met in the living room, a big, square, sunny place, in golden greens and browns, where a fay window overlooked the park.

Kneeling on the cushions of the deep window seat, the flattened face of a cute nose against the glass, peering out through the lace hangings.

"Everybody and his family are driving," she said over her shoulder. "The rich and great are cornering the fresh air supply."

For awhile she kneeled there, silently intent on the passing pageant with all the unconscious curiosity of a child. Presently, without turning: "They speak of the younger set—but what is its limit? So many, so many people! The bunting crowd—the silly crowd—the wealthy set—the dreadful yellow set—then all those people who are out of metals—copper and coal and iron and"— She shrugged her youthful shoulders, still intent on the passing show.

"Then there are the intellectuals—the artistic, the illuminated, the mustard seed sorts. I—I wish I knew some of them. They were my father's friends—some of them." She looked over her shoulder to see where Selwyn was and whether he was listening, smiled at him and turned, resting one hand on the window seat. "So many kinds of people," she said, with a shrug.

"You asked me," he said, whether I know Sudbury Gray. I do slightly. What about him?" And he waited, remembering Nina's ringing praise of that wealthy young man's eligibility.

"He's one of the nicest men I know," she replied frankly.

"Yes, but you don't know Boots Lansing."

"The gentleman who was bucked out of his footwear? Is he attractive?"

"Feminine shrieks?"

"Excisively. The men were glad enough. He has three months' leave this winter, so you'll see him soon."

She thanked him mockingly for the promise, watching him from amused eyes. After a moment she said:

"I ought to arise and go forth with timbrels and with dances; but, do you know, I am not inclined to revels? There has been a little—just a very little bit—too much festivity so far, not that I don't adore dinners and gossip and dances, not that I do not love to pervade bright and glittering places. Oh, no; only—I"—

She looked shyly a moment at Selwyn. "I sometimes feel a curious desire for other things. I have been feeling it all day."

"What things?"

"I—don't know—exactly, substantial things. I'd like to learn about things. My father was the head of the American School of Archaeology in Crete. My mother was his intellectual equal, I believe. Do you know about my parents?" she asked. "They were lost in the Argolis, off Cyprus. You have heard. I think they meant that I should go to college—as well as Gerald. I don't know. Perhaps after all it is better for me to do what other young girls do. Besides, I enjoy it, and my mother did, too, when she was my age. They say. She was very much gayer than I am. My mother was a beauty and a brilliant woman. But there were other qualities. I have her letters to father when Gerald and I were very little and her letters to us from London. I have missed her more this winter, it seems to me, than even in that dreadful time"—

She sat silent, chin in hand, delicate fingers restlessly worrying her red lips; then in quick impulse:

"You will not mistake me, Captain Selwyn? Nina and Austin have been perfectly sweet to me and to Gerald."

"I am not mistaking a word you utter," he said.

"No, of course not, only there are times—moments"—

Her voice died; her clear eyes looked out into space while the silent seconds lengthened into minutes. One slender finger had slipped between her lips and teeth; one burnished strand of hair lay neglected against her cheek.

"You said you were going to look up Gerald," she observed.

"I am now. What are you going to do?"

"I? Oh, dress, I suppose! Nina ought to be back now, and she expects me to go out with her."

She nodded a smiling termination of their duet and moved toward the door. Then on impulse she turned, a question on her lips—left unuttered through instinct. It had to do with the identity of the pretty woman who had so directly saluted him in the park—a perfectly friendly, simple and natural question. Yet it remained unuttered.

She turned again to the doorway. A maid stood there holding a note on a salver.

"For Captain Selwyn, please," murmured the maid.

Miss Erroll passed out.

Selwyn took the note and broke the seal:

"My Dear Selwyn—I'm in a beastly fix—an I. O. U. due tonight and pas de quoi! Obviously I don't want Neergard to know, being associated, as I am, with him in business. As for Austin, he's a peppery old boy, bless his heart, and I'm not very secure in his good graces at present. Part is, I got into a rather stiff game last night, and it's a matter of honor, so can you help me to tide it over? I'll square it on the 1st of the month. Yours sincerely, GERALD ERROLL.

P. S.—I've meant to look you up for ever so long and will the first moment I can find free.

Below this was pencilled the amount due, and Selwyn's face grew very serious.

The letter he wrote in return ran:

Dear Gerald—Check inclosed to your order. By the way, can't you lunch with me at the Lenox club some day this week? Write, wire or telephone when. Yours, SELWYN.

When he had sent the note away by the messenger he walked back to the bay window, hands in his pockets, a worried expression in his gray eyes. This sort of thing must not be repeated. The boy must halt in his tracks and face sharply the other way. He, Selwyn, his own lineage was limited—much too limited to admit of many more loans of that sort.

He ought to see Gerald at once, but somehow he could not in decency appear personally on the heels of his loan. A certain interval must elapse between the loan and the leaving of it, for didn't see very well how he could admonish and instruct until the loan had been canceled—that is, until the first of the new year.

Pacing the floor, disturbed, uncertain as to the course he should pursue, he looked up presently to see Miss Erroll descending the stairs, fresh and sweet in her radiant plumage. As she caught his eye she waved a silvery chinchilla muff at him—a marching salute—and turned, calling back to him, "Don't forget Gerald!"

"No," he said, "I won't forget Gerald." He stood a moment at the bay window watching the brougham below, where Nina awaited Miss Erroll. Then abruptly he turned back into the room and picked up the telephone receiver, muttering, "This is no time to mince matters for the sake of appearances." And he called up Gerald at the offices of Neergard & Co.

"Is it you, Gerald?" he asked pleasantly. "It's all right about that matter. I've sent you a note by your messenger.' But I want to talk to you about another matter—something concerning myself. I want to ask your advice, in a way. Can you be at the Lenox by 6? You have an engagement at 8? Oh, that's all right. I won't keep you. It's understood, then—the Lenox at 6. Goodby!"

She rode on beside him. They were walking their horses now, and as her silken coated mount paced forward through the sunshine she sat at ease, straight as a slender amazon in her habit, ruddy hair glistening at the nape of her neck, the scarlet of her lips always a vivid contrast to that wonderful unblemished skin of snow.

He thought to himself quite impersonally: "She's a real beauty, that youngster. No wonder they ask her to dance and nobody is horrid. Men are likely enough to go quite mad about her, as Nina predicts. Probably some of 'em have already—that chuckleheaded youth who was there Tuesday gulping up the tea"— And, "What was his name?" he asked aloud.

"Whose name?" she inquired, roused by his voice from smiling retrospection.

"That chucklehead—the young man who continued to haunt you so persistently when you poured tea for Nina on Tuesday. Of course they all haunted you," he explained politely as she shook her head in sign of noncomprehension, "but there was one who—she glared at his cup."

"Please—you are rather dreadful, aren't you?"

"Yes. So was he. I mean the infatuated, chinless gentleman whose facial ensemble remotely resembled the features of a pleased and placid lizard of the reptilian period."

"Oh, George Fane! That is particularly disagreeable of you, Captain Selwyn, because his wife has been very nice to me—Rosamund Fane—and she spoke most cordially of you"—

"Which one was she?"

"The Dresden china one. She looks—she simply cannot look as though she were married. It's most amusing, for people always take her for somebody's youngest sister who will be out next winter. Don't you remember seeing her?"

"No, I don't. But there were dozens coming and going every minute whom I didn't know. Still, I believed well, didn't I?"

"Pretty badly—to Kathleen Lawn, whom you cornered so that she couldn't escape until her mother made her go without any tea."

"Here comes Mr. Fane now with a

THE COLEMAN MEDICINE CO., 509 Church St., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—

I wish you would send me another box of your "Little Digesters". All the members of my family are using them and have obtained the most satisfactory results.

I congratulate you on your success in putting up a tablet for the cure of Indigestion. I suffered for years and tried everything that was recommended to me. Nothing gave me relief, until I was persuaded to try "Little Digesters". Now I never suffer from Indigestion. I enjoy my meals and am not afraid to eat, because I know a "Little Digester" after each meal will digest my food.

I recommend them to all my friends who suffer from Indigestion and would further say that you may publish the above if you wish. I know there are thousands of people suffering from Indigestion who will be glad to know there is a safe and sure cure for them.

Yours very truly,

usually thin, flat hand and further hospitality, pleasantly declined by Selwyn.

"Horrible thing, a cocktail," observed Harmon after giving his own order and seating Fane's opposite Selwyn. "I don't usually do it. Here comes the man who persuades me—my own partner."

Selwyn looked up to see Fane approaching, and instantly a dark flush overspread his face.

"You know Fane, don't you, Carl?" continued Harmon easily. "Well, that's odd, I thought, of course—Captain Selwyn, Mr. Fane. It's not usual, but it's done."

They exchanged formalities—dry and brief on Selwyn's part, gracefully urbane on Fane's.

Sandon Craig and Billy Fleetwood came wandering up and joined them. One or two other men, drifting by, added to the group.

Selwyn, involved in small talk, glanced sideways at the great clock and gathered himself together for departure.

The Maish Comfort is so different, so much warmer and lighter than any comfort you ever slept under, you can't imagine what a comfort it is. It gives no sense of weight—allows complete rest and sleep to get numberless comforts. Don't do without one because you don't realize the risk you run. Many are killed with the heavy, stifling sweepings from cotton mills, called "waste".

At our Comfort counter you may see samples of different makes we sell, showing exactly what is used.

Don't delay choosing for best selection.

Dressing Jackets and Kimonas.

The New Fall Clothing for Youths and Boys is Ready

Off for college? Off for the new, real start in life, your first position? The needed Clothing is ready.

Men's Fall Clothing is coming in, but we have been very much concerned to have the young men's ready. Plenty for the early man is here. Robinson Clothing is planned, made and sold on the basis that you may well adopt for success in college or business.

It is fair clothing as good inwardly as on the outside, so made as to withstand abuse and still look well. It's our ideal of a suit, to have it give honest, straightforward service; to get our profit simply as a matter of brokerage for serving our customers; not to be one of the robbers' tactics.

YOUTHS' AND MEN'S FALL SUITS, ranging in sizes from 32 to 46, at $5.00, $7.50, $10.00, $12.50, $13.50, $15.00, $16.50, $17.50 and $20.00.

Fall colorings are quieter than last spring's, but richer to look at.

Your money will be cheerfully refunded if our Boys' Clothing does not give satisfaction.

BOYS' SEPARATE KNICKERS—We are sole agents in Napanee for the "LION BRAND" Boys' Knickers. Every pair has double stitched seams, double knees, and double seats. They are made to stand the rough usage which any healthy boy is sure to give a pair of pants. They will outwear two pairs of the ordinary make at near the same price. Examine the make of them. See the splendid quality of linings used.

The New Fall Hats and Caps.

If we believed that "caps are just caps" we would never have bought the caps we have in stock—but we believed that those who buy want style and quality and comfort in them. We have newer patterns; better fabrics, and more striking colorings than you will find elsewhere. You can find here the lower priced caps, 25c and 50c, the best procurable at the price—also caps that are marvels of workmanship and quality, at 75c, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50.

"ADDRESS TO THE GREAT SPIRIT."

Manitto! God of the bright heavens!
We, thy children, are praying to Thee,
Spirit unbidden who scatterest that sea
Where Nature her snowy cloud leavens,
List to thy offspring on bended knee.

Thou! art eternal and changest ne'er
While the years recede and recur,
While rolling generations deter
To utter ere perishing their prayer.
Lo! Thou art in the clouds Thine revere!

Spirit ever-present, all-knowing,
In empyrean plains and proud towers,
In the growth of the humble flowers,
Enlighten our blind souls overflowing
With the pride of terrestial powers.

When from earth to celestial spheres
We shall pass, leader us higher for aye;
Manitto, in ruth, answer not "nay",
To those keeping with suppliant tears
Amaranth crowns in bright fields of May.

Soul of the universe! Manitto the High!
Who revealest Thyself in the dark blue sky,
In the luminous motions of wand'ring stars,
In the tempest enangulined by fiery bars,
O flash thy dazzling light where flee
Elusive Truth to Thought's vast sea.

MORE PINKHAM CURES

Added to the Long List due to This Famous Remedy.

Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of the uterus, and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully until I began taking your medicine. It has also helped other women to whom I have recommended it."—Mrs. HENRY CLARK, Glanford Station, Ontario.

Gardiner, Me.—"I was a great sufferer from a female disease. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me in three months."—Mrs. S. A. WILLIAMS, R. F. D. No. 14, Box 39, Gardiner, Maine.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is worth millions to many suffering women.

If you want special advice write (confidential) to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

Drive Rheumatism out of the blood with Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy and see how quickly the pains and aches disappear. It did much the real disease. Rheumatism isn't in the skin. It's deep down in the constitutional. Getting rid of the pain is after all, what counts. That is why Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy goes, by word of mouth from mouth, by its deep down results loses the popularity of this Remedy. It is kindness to advertise everywhere. Tablets or Liquid. Sold by all dealers. 30d

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

A pleasing event took place at the B. of Q. Ry. station, Enterprise, on Monday evening last, when a number of the citizens and friends of the esteemed and popular agent, Mr. P. A. McKeown, called upon him and presented him with a beautiful solid oak writing desk, accompanied by the following address:

To our Respected and Esteemed Townsman, Mr. Patrick A. McKeown.

Dear Sir.—We have gathered here this evening in response to the confirmation of the news lately circulated in our midst that you were about to leave us to take upon yourself the duties of a more responsible position in the service of the B. of Q. Railway. It is with mingled feelings of pleasure and of pain that we realize that so soon your pleasing personality will have found another setting and that this community will be bereft of one of whom it can be said that to know him was to be his friend.

We feel that our modesty will scarcely permit us to make a reference to your merits, but we assure you that we are none the less aware of the sterling qualities that distinguish your character, nor unmindful of the painstaking application in your service which has developed that high decree of efficiency, always more and more sought after, and which, no doubt, contributed to your present promotion. It has been a pleasure to feel the force and the example of your life amongst us at all times, and in your abundant and busy business relations with this town and country section a uniform line of approval but bespeaks the general appreciation and approbation in which you are held.

We have made this an occasion to present you, with the warm hand of fellowship in parting, this slight token of our regard, and we trust it may be serviceable and useful in your new field where we very confidently trust you will signally prosper.

Mr. McKeown, in a few well-chosen words, thanked the friends for the address and expressed his regret at leaving so many good friends at Enterprise, and bade all present good bye.

After singing, "He is a Jolly Good Fellow," the boys carried the guest of the evening to his motor car and to the village on their shoulders as a last mark of goodfellowship.

Mr. McKeown left on Tuesday to take charge at Deseronto.

THE POWER OF STEAM.

How May See But It Takes Genius to Realize.

When James Watt saw the steam issuing from the kettle lid to keep it cool he said "There must be power in that steam that it can lift such a weight."

There was prier to him had seen the same phen-menon and regarded it as an unexplained mystery.

Recent scientific research has put its finger on the "cause" of Dandruff, Falling Hair, and consequent Baldness, and that cause is a tiny germ which eats the life from the roots of hairs and hair strands. Herpicide destroys this germ and consequently restores the hair to its natural state.

COLEBROOK.

Our quiet little town was the scene of a terrible excitement, on Thursday last, when William Smith shot himself in the Colebrook hotel. Smith was formerly a resident of Camden East, but had been stopping in Colebrook for about three or four weeks, and boarding at the hotel. Thursday morning he did not get up as early as usual, it being about seven o'clock. He did not wait to dress, but went into Harry Cairns' (the clerk) room, procured a revolver on the stand, placed it to his head and fired. W. P. Benn and N. Walker were sitting out on the verandah and heard the noise when he fell. They hurried up stairs and found him. Benn heard the report of the revolver and bleeding from the bullet wound. Medical aid was at once summoned, but all of no avail; he died about two hours later. Deceased was about fifty-five years old, was a widower, his wife having predeceased him about six years ago. He leaves three grown up sons. The eldest living is a mail clerk on the C. P. R. from Toronto to Owen Sound, the second is a druggist in Winnipeg, and the third is teaching school in Winnipeg. They are all smart and intelligent boys and holding good positions. He also leaves four brothers and three sisters to mourn his sad demise. His remains were taken to Alfred Wilkinson's, brother-in-law of the deceased, and thence to Camden East for interment.

The above is the guarantee T. B. Wallace, the druggist, is offering to Parisian Sage, the greatest of all hair restorers.

GRAVEL ROAD.

On Tuesday morning, Aug. 24th, at the home of Mr. J. G. Campbell there was a quiet but pretty wedding solemnized, the contracting daughter, Estella G., became the bride of David Stuart, of Vancouver, B.C., formerly of Belleville. Precisely at eight o'clock the bride entered the beautifully decorated drawing room, leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her to the groom, who had been waiting. The nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. Father Creehan, her pastor. The bride was attired in a travelling suit of brown chiffon broadcloth, trimmed with buttons, with a cream lace blouse over cream taffeta silk, with hat to match, adorned with beautiful cream plumes. After the ceremony and congratulations, they repaired to the dining room, where a dainty wedding breakfast awaited them. At eleven o'clock the bride donned her hat, and amid showers of rice, confetti and old shoes, entered the carriage waiting, and was driven to Napanee to take the Intercolonial limited for the west, accompanied by her grand father, Mr. Archibald Campbell. They will call at all the principle cities, and will be at home in Vancouver about the middle of September. The bride was the recipient of many tokens of affection from her friends, costly cheques and money as others, would be cumbersome to take to their far distant home. She was a lovely and lovable girl, and will be much missed by her many friends who wish her a long and happy married life. The picnic held at Marysville, last Wednesday, was a decided success in every respect. Also for the ball that evening there were a hundred and fifty two tickets sold.—Mr. James Lambert has gone to live with Mr. Paul Berry.—Mr. Willie Panhock, of Geneva, N.Y., who has been spending his vacation with his cousins, Miss Mary and Vincent Traynor, returned home last Thursday.—Mr. Thomas Meagher, of Rochester, N.Y., and Mr. George Corish, of Belleville, spent part of last week with Mr. Jack Meagher.—Miss Mary Meagher, of Toronto, is visiting Miss Mary Dacey.—Miss Roach, of Brewers Mills, is with her sister, Mrs. H. Fahey, of the Marysville House.—Mr. Frank McAlpine, of Apple Hill, is home for a week.—Miss Annie McAlpine was at home to a number of her friends on Thursday evening last.—Mr. and Mrs. M. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Meagher and daughter Allie, of Napanee, and granddaughter, Miss Gladys Skinner, of Limerick, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Meagher.

Baby's Great Danger During Hot Weather.

More children die during the hot weather than at any other time of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentry, cholera infantum, and stomach troubles come without warning, and when a medicine is not at hand to give prompt relief, the delay often proves fatal to the child. Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in every home where there are children during the hot weather months. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent deadly summer complaints, or cure them if they come unexpectedly. Mrs. O. Mateau, Ste. Tite, Que., says: "My baby suffered from a severe attack of cholera infantum, but after giving him Baby's Own Tablets the trouble disappeared, and he regained his health splendidly." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

If Sick

Don't risk even one single penny!
And I will tell you why I say this.
In the years of my practice I have found a medicine for almost every form of ill health. No one and all, even one single penny. Just state what ails you to the ordering clerk!

So this, if you have any form of stomach, liver or kidney trouble, or ill health arising from any of these causes, I will tell you to go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. My purpose in so doing is that if this medicine does not benefit you, my druggist is authorized to return your money. I make this offer because I know that in almost every case of stomach, liver or kidney trouble, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will prove entirely satisfactory. It is a temperance medicine, containing no alcohol, whisky or habit forming drugs. It is entirely vegetable in its composition, and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system. It is a concentrated extract of certain roots found growing in the forests of North America, which have been used for many years by the Indians and early settlers of this country for the cure of the very diseases for which I recommend it. Its ingredients are printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. It is the only medicine of its kind sold through druggists, and has the confidence of the people because of its past cures, and because its ingredients are known to be good. Don't accept any substitute that your druggist may offer you in place of "Golden Medical Discovery." He may make more profit on the substitute, but you want what you call for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Sick headache, biliousness, indigestion, bad taste, coated tongue, dizziness, torpid liver, are all relieved and cured by these little "Pellets." Don't forget the name when asking for them. Sugar coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Send postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y. Every book sent free. Every one sent when asked for.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Mrs. Chas. Moore, Greting, met with a painful accident on Saturday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Moore were returning home from Napanee, and when going up Campbell's hill she stood up to secure a parcel from the top of one of the milk cans. The wagon swayed to one side and Mrs. Moore fell, breaking her leg. Dr. Leonard reduced the fracture.

MACKENZIE-LAWRENCE.

Mr. Dr. D. C. Mackenzie, formerly Miss Myrtle Maud Lawrence, who for some time has been a companion of Mrs. Miles Cepels Thain, and who was married last Wednesday at Matteawan, New York, to Dr. D. C. Mackenzie, of Alberta, is at present visiting at the home of her mother, Ida Brunswick Avenue, Toronto, where she was known to her friends until Sept. 1st. The wedding was solemnized quietly at St. Luke's church, Matteawan, by Rev. Geo. A. Given, Rector of St. Andrew's church, Franklin Landing. The bride was becomingly gowned in a travelling suit of blue, Bengaline silk hat to match. Dr. and Mrs. Mackenzie have known each other six years. A few days ago, as he was going to Scotland, he stopped at Matteawan to see her, visiting at the home of Mrs. Sherwood Phillips, where she was staying with Mrs. Thain. They left by train from his visit to Scotland, where he has some hospital work, the wedding took place. The happy couple will go to Alberta, where the doctor will practice his profession.

STRATHCONA.

Mrs. A. Rose is seriously ill with bronchitis.—Jas. Rose has gone West.—On Monday last one of our finest young ladies, Miss L. McAvoy, was married to Mr. John Pender, of Watertown, N.Y. The bride was given away by her brother; Mr. W. A. McAvoy, and the ceremony performed by Father McCarthy, at the Camden, R. C. church, Centreville. Miss Evaline McNeil was bridesmaid and Mr. Vincent Brady, groomsman. The happy couple left on the afternoon train for Toronto.—Mrs. and Mrs. Edward Rook have returned home, after a couple of weeks visit to Tiona, Lake where Mrs. Rook's mother resides.—Mr. Joe Ramsay is making the other buyers hustle. He has now bought two hundred and eighty-six head of cattle with money paid on all of them, so as to be sure to get them. He also gets about two-thirds of the hogs in the neighborhood.—Shipping from one to two cars to Montreal weekly.—Mr. Robert Madden, who is very aged, is very low and not expected.

When I read the slurs of the New burgh spouters, re baseball between Strathcona and Newburgh, I felt as all good people do when kicked by a mule. That mule has mighty long ears as well as a long tongue. The sins of the fathers have been visited unto him to the extreme. Newburgh remembers in the way of elongating his unruly, noisy, bombastic member. The New burgh team are all right, a good bunch of sports. We are obliged to them for rendering us worthy of a game, and we also thank them for their anticipation of a game in the near future, and want them to feel that we have nothing but kindly sentiments toward them. But to this sporting call of sounding symbols and tingling brass, we wish to say that to pay any more attention or reply to any more of his funny, bombastic outbursts, and we would feel it a matter of casting pearls before swine.

ERNESTOWN STATION.

A large number from here are taking in Toronto exhibition.—F. Laid ley and son shipped cattle and hogs to Montreal on Tuesday of this week.—W. Kilgannon, for many years associated with the G. T. NEWBURGH.

Say what you like, but the Newburgh High School still retains the confidence of the good people of this district. On Tuesday morning when the students assembled for the opening session, there were 47 new comers gracing the seats of Form I. There were more new arrivals on Wednesday, and the prospects are bright for a good year's work. Mr. Duncan, the new Science Master from Toronto, and Miss Grose, Newcastle, arrived on Monday, and were on hand on Tuesday when the school re-opened.

Among the items of scientific and practical interest just now is the information that a Rural Telephone Company is to be built, connecting Newburgh and adjoining localities. The name Bi-Polar Telephone Company has been suggested as the wires will be stretched from pole to pole. The farmers hereabouts, fully as up-to-date and progressive as any, are urging the matter forward, and it will be announced very soon whether it will be a mutual or joint stock company. After information to those interested will be cheerfully given. Hello, Central! Number 7 —27.

Rev. J. M. White, Enterprise, spent Tuesday evening with Mr. D. Neshit, I.P.S.

Mrs. Knight, Napanee, spent Monday with Mrs. S. Shorey.

Some time is promised, and the League will be pleased to welcome the young people and welcome them to its Monday evening service.

Mrs. G. A. Ashworth and Mr. McMillan, Ashworth were in Napanee on Tuesday.

Desmond and Mrs. Faleoner and son, Toronto, are visiting Rev. J. Gandier. Rev. Falconer occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening.

SYDENHAM

The High School opened on Sept 7th, and everyone seemed glad to welcome the scholars, after their long holiday. Mr. Philip Roberts, of Sydenham, has married Miss Burgess, of Odessa, at her home today. The young couple will arrive this evening at their home in Sydenham, which Mr. Roberts has just completed this summer. All good wishes are expressed to the happy couple.—The garden party in aid of St. Paul's church, last Tuesday night, was postponed till Wednesday evening, owing to the cold and wet weather this and several previous days, and those who went say they had a very pleasant time. Lake is on the sick list.—Mr. C. C. Woodruff returned from Manitoba, where he visited his son, Mr. Fred Woodruff.—A man who is on the Indian list in his own town, visited Sydenham last Wednesday night, and after getting some fire water, grew very quarrelsome and drew a knife on one of Sydenham's peaceful men. He was compelled to close the knife and put it in his pocket. This is not the first time this man has created a disturbance, for he visited the place last summer and scouted the village with his mad pranks.—Chas. Turcott has purchased a new windmill for his well, which is a great improvement.—The cold weather has caused our summer visitors to seek their winter homes rather earlier than usual.—The Ladies' Aid of the M. Gin Pills cured him.

Annapolis, N.S., May 14, 1909.
I am over 80 years of age and have considerable pain in my Kidney and Bladder trouble for fifteen years. I took doctor's medicine but got no help. I went to Digby one day for sending me the sample box of Gin Pills, which helped me.

MRS. JAMES FURRS.

The death of Mrs. James Furrs, of Napanee, Palace Road, which occurred on Thursday afternoon, Aug. 26th, at her home, proved a great shock to her many friends. Deceased had been in very poor health for several months, but that dreadful disease consumption, took her quite suddenly, just in middle age of life, she being only 51 years old. Her maiden name was Emily Brandon, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Brandon, near Violet, where she spent all her life till the last six months, when they moved near Napanee, having had poor health after losing her only son last October, with consumption. She was married to Mr. James Furrs about thirty years ago, and leaves to mourn her loss a loving husband and two daughters, Blanch at home, and Florence, married to Mr. Charmere Wales, living in Australia. All who knew Mrs. Furrs have nothing but good things to say of her ever ready to help in time of trouble or distress. She was beloved and respected by all her acquaintance, a kind neighbor, faithful wife and loving mother. The funeral service took place the following Sunday at Violet church at 2 o'clock, and was largely attended. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Mr. Beare. She bore her sufferings with Christian fortitude. He told us peace. The last words were going to meet her son Melbourne. The remains were interred in the family plot at Violet cemetery. The bereaved husband and two daughters have the sympathy of the entire community.

Far beyond this world of changes
Far beyond this world of care,
We shall find our missing loved ones
In our Father's mansion there.
Forget her, no, we never will.
We loved her here, we love her still:
Nor have her loss because she's gone
From here to her eternal home.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Merry-go-Round Saved By the Roof.

CAREY ROOF PROVES ITS WORTH AT THE BIG FIRE AT HANLAN'S.

One thing we can congratulate ourselves on is the fact that we had the proper kind of a roof on the Merry-go-Round," said Manager Lol Hanlan yesterday afternoon to the Magnesia Roof covering that place of amusement. "It certainly saved the building."

During the course of the fire now pile watching building after building crash down were astonished to see the Merry-go-Round stay up in spite of the mass of flames surrounding it, and glimmer as before.

Had there been a shingle or metal roof, it would have gone in a moment. You can form your own opinion."

Naturally the interest was keen to know all about this style of roof that could defy the flames. In an interview with The News, the manager of the Philip Carey Company, Bay street, stated that the company, with its $1,000,000 capital, had been making these roofs for the past forty years.

"During that time we have had several years than that," he said, "and have come out of them in the same way. The fact that the roof is flexible is a great advantage. Our great point in its favor is that there is no tar or paper mixed in, but simply a composition of magnesia and the best quality of asbestos. We have these roofs all over America, in particular they are used wherever crowds congregate, as for example, here in Toronto they are on the skating rinks, big waiting rooms, and so forth."

It is interesting to note that the Philip Carey Company has fifty-four branches on the continent, and guarantee a roof for ten years against cracking or giving way.

When wanting a good roof buy Carey's, and write Geo. A. Reid, of Tamworth, for samples and prices, as he has just received a car load. 35d

Fleetwood was saying to Craig: "Certainly it was a stiff game—Bradley, myself, Gerald Erroll, Mrs. Delmour-Carnes and the Ruthvens."

"Were you hit?" asked Craig, interested.

"No; about even. Gerald got it good and plenty, though. The Ruthvens were ahead, as usual.

Selwyn, apparently hearing nothing, quietly rose and stepped out of the circle, paused to set fire to a cigarette and then strolled off toward the visitors' room, where Gerald was now due. He found young Erroll just entering the room and greeted him with nervous cordiality.

"If you can't stay and dine with me," he said, "I won't put you down. You know, of course, I can only set you one in a year, so we'll stay here and chat a bit."

"Right you are," said young Erroll, flinging off his very new and very fashionable overcoat—a wonderfully handsome boy, with all the attraction that a quick, warm, impulsive manner carries.* "And I say, Selwyn, it was awfully decent of you to"—

"Pooh! Friends are for that sort of thing, Gerald. Sit here." He looked at the young man hesitatingly, but Gerald calmly took the matter out of his jurisdiction by nodding his order to the club attendant.

"Lord, but I'm tired," he said, sinking back into a big armchair. "I was up till daylight, and then I had to be in the office by 9, and tonight Billy Fleetwood is giving—oh, something or other. By the way, the market isn't doing a thing to the shorts. You're not in, are you, Selwyn?"

"No, not that way. I hope you are not either, are you, Gerald?"

"Oh, it's all right," replied the young fellow confidently, and, raising his glass, he nodded at Selwyn, with a smile.

"You were mighty nice to me anyhow," he said, setting his glass aside and lighting a cigar. "You see, I went to a dance, the telephone, I'm short of us cleared out, and Jack Ruthven offered us trouble, so half a dozen of us went there. I had a few short cards a man ever drew to a kicker. That was all about it."

"Do you mind saying whether you backed my check and drew against it?" asked Selwyn.

"Why, no; I just indorsed it over."

"To—to whom, if I may venture?"

Selwyn's face had little color remaining in it, but he said very kindly: "It's all right, Gerald. Don't worry"—

"I'm a beast!" broke out the boy. "I beg your pardon a thousand times."

"Granted, old chap. But, Gerald, may I say one thing—or perhaps two?"

"Go ahead. Give it to me good and plenty."

"It's only this: Couldn't you and I see one another a little oftener? Don't be afraid of me. I'm no wet blanket. I'm not so very aged either. I know something of the world; I understand something of men. I'm pretty good company, Gerald. What do you say?"

"I say sure," cried the boy warmly. "It's a go, then. And one thing more: Couldn't you manage to come up to the house a little oftener? Everybody misses you, of course. I think your sister is a trifle sensitive"—

"I will," said Gerald, blushing. "Somehow I've had such a lot on hand lately at the club and something on every evening. I know perfectly well I've neglected Elly—and everybody. But the first moment I can find I'll"—

Selwyn nodded. "And last of all," he said, "there's something about my own affairs that I thought you might advise me on."

Gerald, proud, enchanted, stood very straight. The older man continued gravely:

"I've a little capital to invest—not very much. Suppose—and this, I need not add, is in confidence between us—suppose I suggested to Mr. Neergard"—

"Oh," cried young Erroll, delighted, "that is fine! Neergard would be glad enough. Why, we've got that Valleydale tract in shape now, and there are scores of schemes in the air—scores of them—important moves which may mean—anything!" he ended excitedly.

"Then you think it would be all right—in case Neergard likes the

DARE YOU EAT HEARTILY?

Or Is Every Good Meal Followed By Discomfort?

So certain are we that "Little Digesters" will cure Indigestion every time—for every person—for YOU—that we will give you your money back without a word if they fail.

You can enjoy a good, hearty meal of wholesome food three times a day, if you take a tablet after each meal.

Read how "Little Digesters" cured Mr. Thody.

"For two years I suffered with Indigestion, and obtained no relief from anything I took, including several prescriptions from prominent physicians. Every meal was followed by acute pain until I feared to eat, consequently became run down for lack of nourishment. "Little Digesters" were recommended to me by a friend and I tried them with remarkable results, two boxes completely curing me. It is three months since I took any, and I have not suffered a pain, no matter how heartily I eat. I would certainly recommend them to anybody suffering with Indigestion." (Signed) E. THODY, idea?"

Gerald was enthusiastic. After a while they shook hands, it being time to separate. And for a long time Selwyn sat there alone in the visitors' room, absent eyed, facing the blazing fire of the coal.

How to be friends with this boy without openly playing the mentor; how to gain his confidence without appearing to seek it; how to influence him without alarming him! No, there was no great harm in him yet; only the impulses of inconsiderate youth; only an enthusiastic capacity for pleasure.

One thing was imperative—the boy must cut out his card playing for stakes at once, and there was a way to accomplish that by impressing Gerald with the idea that to do anything behind Neergard's back which he would not care to tell him about was a sort of treachery.

Chapter 5

THE prospect perplexed and depressed Selwyn. He was sullenly aware that in a town where the divorced must ever be reckoned with when dance and dinner lists are made out there is always some thoughtless hostess and sometimes a mischievous one, and the chances were that he and Mrs. Jack Ruthven would collide either through the forgetfulness or malice of somebody or through sheer hazard at some large affair where destiny and fate work busily together in criminal copartnership.

Their encounter was all a mistake, born of the haste of a heedless and elderly matron celebrated for managing to do the wrong thing, but who had been successively nice to him that winter and whose position in Manhattan was not to be assailed.

"Dear Captain Selwyn," she wheezed over the telephone, "I'm short a man, and we dine at 8 and it's that now. Could you help me? It's the rich and yellow this time, but you won't mind, will you?"

He explained to Mrs. T. West Minster his absent delight at being asked. Then he sent for a cab and ambled into the dining room, where he was received with undisguised hostility.

"She's been civil to me," he said; "jeunesse oblige, you know, and that's why I"—

"There'll be a lot of debutantes there. What do you want to go for, you cradle robber?" protested Austin. "A lot of water bibbing, olive eating, talcum powdered debutantes"—

Eileen straightened up stiffly, and Selwyn's tensing smile and his offered hand in adieu completed her indignation.

"Oh, goodby! No, I won't shake hands. There's your cab now. I wish you'd take Austin too. Nina and I are tired of dining with the prematurely aged."

"Indeed we are," said Mrs. Gerard. "Go to your club, Austin, and give me a chance to telephone to somebody under the anaesthetic age."

Selwyn departed, laughing, but he turned in his cab all the way to Fifty-third street, where he entered in the wake of the usual laggards and, surrendering hat and coat in the cloak room, picked up the small, slim envelope bearing his name.

The card within disclosed the information that he was to take in Mrs. Somebody-or-other. He made his way through a great many people, found his hostess, backed off, stood on one leg for a moment like a reflective waterfowl, then found Mrs. Somebody-or-other and was absently good to her through a great deal of noise and some Spanish music, which seemed to squirt through a thicket of palms and beset her everybody.

"Wonderful music," observed his dinner partner with singular originality; "so like 'Carmen.'"

"Is it?" he replied and took her tray at a nod from his hostess, whose daughter Dorothy leaned forward from her partner's arm at the same moment and whispered: "I sent Stark to you, mamma. You can't put Captain Selwyn there because"—

But her mother was deaf and smilingly sensitive about it, so the girl only guessed what reply her child expected: "It's all settled, dear. Captain Selwyn arrived a moment ago." And she closed the file.

It was already too late anyhow, and presently, turning to see who was seated on his left, Selwyn found himself gazing into the calm, flushed face of Alixe Ruthven. It was their third encounter.

They exchanged a dazed nod of recognition, a meaningless murmur, and turned again, apparently undisturbed, to their respective dinner parties.

A great many curious eyes lingered on them shifted elsewhere in reluctant disappointment.

As for the hostess, she had for one instant come as near to pausing heavenward as she could without doing it when she discovered the situation. Then she accepted it with true humor. She could afford to. But her daughters, Sheila and Dorothy, suffered acutely, being of this year's output and martyrs to responsibility.

Meanwhile Selwyn, grimly aware of an accident somewhere and perfectly conscious of the feelings which must by this time dominate his hostess, was wondering how best to avoid anything that might resemble a situation.

Instead of two or three dozen small tables scattered among the palms of the winter garden their hostess had preferred to construct a great oval board around the aquarium. The arrangement made it a little easier for Selwyn and Mrs. Ruthven. He talked to his dinner partner until she was able to respond in monosyllables, which closed each subject that he opened and wearied him as much as he was boring her. But Bradley Harmon, the man on her right, evidently had better fortune, and presently Selwyn found himself with nobody to talk to, which came as near to embarrassing him as anything could and which so enraged his hostess that she struck his partner's name from her lists forever. People were already glancing at him askance in sly amusement or cold curiosity.

Selwyn found himself gazing into the face of Alixe Ruthven.

Then he did a thing which endeared him to Mrs. T. West Minster and to her two disconsolate children.

"Mrs. Ruthven," he said very naturally and pleasantly, "I think perhaps we had better talk for a moment or two if you don't mind. My dinner partner is quite impossible, you see, and I happen to be here as a filler in—commanded to the presence only a few minutes ago. It's a pardonable error. I bear no malice. But I'm sorry for you."

There was a silence. Alixe straightened her slim figure and turned, but young Innis, who had taken her in, had become confidential with Mrs. Fane. As for Selwyn's partner, she probably divined his conversational designs on her, but she merely turned her bare shoulder a trifle more unmistakably and continued her gossip with Bradley Harmon.

Alixe broke a tiny morsel from her bread, sensible of the tension.

"I suppose," she said as though reciting to some new acquaintance an amusing bit of gossip, "that we are destined to this sort of thing occasionally and had better get used to it."

"I suppose so."

"Please," she added after a pause, "aid me a little."

"I will if I can. What am I to say?"

"Have you nothing to say?" she asked, smiling "It need not be very civil, you know, as long as nobody hears you."

To school his features for the deception of others, to school his voice and manner and at the same time look unflinchingly into the grave of his youth and hope, called for the sort of self command foreign to his character. Glancing at him under her smoothly fitted mask of amiability, she slowly grew afraid of the situation, but not of her ability to sustain her own part.

They exchanged a few meaningless phrases; then she resolutely took young Innis away from Rosamund Fane, leaving Selwyn to count the bubbles in his wineglass.

But in a few moments, whether by accident or deliberate design, Rosamund interfered again, and Mrs. Ruthven was confronted with the choice of a squabble for possession of young Innis, of conspicuous silence or of resuming once more with Selwyn, and she chose the last resort.

"You are living in town?" she asked pleasantly.

"Yes."

"Of course; I forgot. I met a man last night who said you had entered the firm of Neergard & Co."

"I have. Who was the man?"

"You can never guess, Captain Selwyn."

"I don't want to. Who was he?"

"Please don't terminate so abruptly the few subjects we have in reserve. We may be obliged to talk to each other for a number of minutes if Rosamund doesn't let us alone. The man was Boots Lansing."

"Boots! Here!"

"Arrived from Manila Sunday. As usual, he introduced you as the subject and told me—oh, dozens of things about you. I suppose he began quoting for you before he crossed the troopers' gangplank, and somebody sent him to Neergard & Co. Haven't you seen him?"

"No," he said, staring at the brilliant fish, which glided along the crystal tank, goggling their eyes at the lights.

"You—you are living with the Gerards, I believe?" she said carelessly. "For awhile."

"Oh! Boots says that he is expecting to take an apartment with you somewhere."

"What! Has Boots resigned?"

"So he says. He told me that you had resigned. I did not understand that. I imagined you were here on five until I heard about Neergard & Co."

"Do you suppose I could have remained in the service?" he demanded.

His voice was dry and almost accentless.

"Why not?" she returned, paling.

"You may answer that question more pleasantly than I can."

She usually avoided champagne, but she had to do something for herself now. As for him, he took what was offered without noticing what he took and grew whiter and whiter. But a fixed glow gradually appeared and remained on her cheeks. Courage, impudence, a sudden anger at the forced conditions, steadied her nerves.

"Will you please be more equal to the situation?" she said under her breath, but with a charming smile. "Do you know that you are scowling? These people here are ready to laugh, and I'd much prefer that they tear us to rags on suspicion of our overfriendliness."

"Who is that fool woman who is monopolizing your partner?"

"Rosamund Fane. She's doing it on purpose. You must try to smile now and then."

"My face is stiff with grinning," he said, "but I'll do what I can for you"—

"Please include yourself too."

"Oh, I can stand their opinions," he said. "I only meet the yellow sort occasionally. I don't herd with them."

"I do, thank you."

"How do you like them? What is your opinion of the yellow set? Here they sit all about you—the Phoenix Mottlys, Mrs. Delmour-Carnes yonder, the Draymores, the Orchils, the Vendenning lady, the Lavas of West-lawn"—he paused, then deliberately—"and the Jack Ruthvens. I forgot, Alixe, that you are now perfectly equipped to carry aloft the golden hod."

"Go on," she said, drawing a deep breath. She forced a smile and drew her glass toward her. The straw limited wine slopped over and frothed on the white skin of her arm.

"Well," she breathed, "this ghastly dinner is nearly ended."

He nodded pleasantly.

"And Phil?" a bit tremulous.

"What?"

"Was it all my fault—I mean in the beginning? I've wanted to ask you that—to know your view of it. Was it?"

"No. It was mine—most of it."

"Not all—not half. We did get know how. That is the wretched explanation of it all."

"And we could never have learned. That's the rest of the answer. But the fault is not there."

"I know—better to bear the ills we have."

"Yes; more respectable to bear them. Let us drop this in decency's name, Alixe."

After a silence she began: "One more thing I must know it, and I am going to ask you if I may. Shall I?"

He smiled cordially, and she laughed as though confiding a delightful bit of news to him.

Rose's Pills Competition

Owing to some misunderstanding in the above contest, I have decided to extend the time until Oct. 1st, 1909, in order to give everyone a fair chance in this contest.

It is not necessary to use the coin cards. Any person sending in 25 cents will receive a box of Rose's Constipation Pills, and at the same time be entitled to send in a name for the pills.

And the person sending in the name selected the three disinterested parties will receive $10.00 in gold.

Remember you get a box of the best Pills on the market for constipation and biliousness for your 25 cents as well as a chance to make $10.00. Don't wait, send in your 25 cents at once and try these pills.

The name I want is one easily remembered and one which gives an idea of the benefit to be derived from the use of the Pills.

Remember you take no chance as the Pills are guaranteed to relieve you of constipation and biliousness, or your money back.

Send at once and try for the $10.00 in gold.

This is a genuine contest and the prize will be given to the one deserving it. No favors shown. All have equal chance. Send now before you forget it.

NOTES FROM THE LOG OF DOL. PHIN

Mr. M. B. Mills and son Frank, and Wilbur Card left Napanee at 5.45 Saturday on board the Dolphin for cruise to Toronto, expecting to pick up at Deserconto three parties, who had engaged passage for the trip. Deserconto was reached against a head wind at 8.45, just ahead of a thunder storm. As the weather looked bad the parties took refuge at Deserconto Hunted, and after waiting till 9 o'clock a.m. on Sunday for them, a start was made under two reefs and storm jib in a gale from the north west. Trenton was reached at 3 o'clock, where we also expected to get an addition to our crew, but again were disappointed, as also at the canal, but as the boys were plucky, they voted "To-ronto or bust", so we continued through the canal and out on the lake at 6 o'clock. The wind held good for a couple of hours, then fell away to a calm, and we anchored 3 miles short of Cobourg. At 7 o'clock Monday morning we again set sail, the wind brisk from the north west, and the sea still running high from Sunday's blow. Newcastle was made at 6.30, where we tied up for the night. A good dinner was cooked and thoroughly enjoyed by the crew, which by this time were tired out and sleepy, and then to bed, where all was quiet and peaceful, a great change from the turbulent lake. However, all things come to an end, so we were up again and away at 6 o'clock a.m., with the wind light, but fair for Toronto, and a most enjoyable time was spent as we passed harbour after harbour and bowled along for long swells, which had not yet subsided. At noon the wind gave out, but soon sprung up again from the south, and we entered Toronto harbour at 2.55 p.m.

SUFFERED 15 YEARS CURED IN ONE MONTH

Gin Pills are wonderful.

If every woman, who has Kidney or Bladder Trouble, could see Mrs. Dawson, Ont., and talk with Mrs. A. Simpson, they would do just as she did—take Gin Pills and cure themselves.

Mrs. Simpson grows enthusiastic over Gin Pills. Quite naturally, for she would be dragging out a miserable existence, instead of being the picture of health, had she not taken these pills.

"For 14 or 15 years I had Kidney and Bladder Trouble, suffering at times intense pain. I doctored continually and received sometimes temporary relief, but nothing gave me permanent relief until I was persuaded to try Gin Pills.

Within a couple of days I received great relief, and after taking one box I was completely cured and now would not be without them. I can highly recommend them to all who suffer from any form of Kidney Trouble."

Mrs. A. SIMPSON.

During the past month a party of editors representing some of the most important agricultural papers in the United States has been touring Western Canada, and after reaching Winnipeg on their return trip from Edmonton over the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, wired Mr. Chas. M. Hays, President of the Grand Trunk Pacific at Vancouver, who is also in the West on a tour of inspection of the new line in company with Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson President of the Grand Trunk Railway System, and party as follows:

"We believe that every foot of the land traversed by our party is eminently adapted to grain growing, mixed farming or the keeping of live stock, and that it must soon develop into a region of prosperous homes. We also unite in expressing our admiration of the high character and the completeness in construction of the road-bed and equipment which must soon give the road high rank among transcontinental railway systems."

The party consisted of the following:

Hon. Thomas Shaw, Ottawa.—Late of the Orange Judd Farmer and Dakota Farmer, St. Paul, Minn.

Herbert Quick, editor of "Farm and Fireside," Springfield, Ohio.

John Arthur Dixon, managing editor of "Home Life," Chicago, Ill.

Merry-go-Round Saved By the Roof.

CAREY ROOF PROVES ITS WORTH AT THE BIG FIRE AT HANLAN'S

Our roofs were congratulated on the fact that we had put on the Carey Roof, and Manager Lee, of the Merry-go-Round, said that the roof had saved the Carey Co. a thousand dollars. Also that that Merry-go-Round covering that place of amusement, will certainly saved the building.

During the course of the fire [illegible] watching building after building [illegible] roofs were scrutinized to see if the Merry-go-Round stay up in spite of the mass of flames surrounding it, and singing [illegible]

Had there been a shingle or metal roof, it would have gone in a moment, as was the case with Mr. Solman's.

Naturally the interest was keen to know all about this style of roof that would defy the flames. Enquiries were with The News, the manager of the Philip Carey Company. Bay street, stated that the company was its $1,000,000 capital, had been making these tools for the past forty years.

"During that time we have had several tests than that," he said, "and have come out of them in the same way. The fact that the roof is flexible is a great advantage. One great point in its favor is that there is no tar or paper mixed in, but simply a composition of magnesia and the best quality of asbestos. We have these roofs all over America. In particular they are used on oil tanks, which are greate, as for example, here in Toronto they are on the skating rinks. Carey roofing, and so forth.

It is interesting to note that the Philip Carey Company has fifty-four branches and manufactories, and have a roof for ten years against cracking or giving way.

When wanting a good roof buy Carey's, and write Geo. A. Reid, of Tamworth, for samples and prices, as he has just received a car load.

They Help Your Stomach Out

And Save You a World of Wretchedness

A stomach that cannot digest a good meal is certainly a sore trial. It has been responsible for almost everything in the way of human misery, up to suicide.

The trouble in most cases is that the stomach and other digestive organs lack vigor. Not enough of the juices necessary to digestion are secreted, nor does the stomach work up the food properly.

The worst of it is that there is not sufficient nourishment taken out of the food to restore the system's vigor, and the trouble goes from bad to worse. The stomach needs help.

"Little Digesters" meet the need exactly. One "Little Digester" after each meal will ensure perfect digestion, provided, of course, that the food is good and wholesome.

"Little Digesters" are guaranteed to cure Indigestion, and Dyspepsia, or your money will be refunded.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

"Rastus," said the solicitous employer, "didn't I warn you against the dangers of intemperance?"

"Yassir."

"Didn't I tell you not to drink anything stronger than ginger ale?"

"Da's de word dat done t'other me I couldn't remember dat ezzakt part I done my bes', but all I c'uld recolleck were de first syllable.

A CLEAR HEALTHY SKIN—Eruptions of the skin and the broken-down blemishes usually are the result of impure blood vitiated by unhealthy action of the liver and kidneys. In correcting this unhealthy action and restoring the organs to their natural condition, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will at the same time cleanse the blood and the blotches and eruptions will disappear without leaving any trace.

"Mary, after the week is out I shan't need your services," the boarding housekeeper told her cook. "your cooking doesn't suit me."

"But the boarders seem to like it, ma am!"

"Yes. That's why I must get another cook."

BE THERE A WISDOM POINTS THE WAY.—The sick man pines for relief, but he dislikes sending for the doctor, which means bottles of drugs never consumed. He has not the resolution to feed his stomach with compounds which shall wholesomely and surely assist it. But if he take the will to deal himself with his ailments, he will discover his attention to Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which, as a specific for indigestion and disorders of the digestive organs, have no equal.

• • •

Mother — What is the matter, Clara? You look distressed.

Clara—Mother, Freddie has had to go off on a trip, and he won't be back for—for two days—boo-hoo!

Same mother some years later—How long will your husband be away?

Same Clara—I forget to ask.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been administered in time. The delay in getting medicine is fatal. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure, acts promptly, and thoroughly soothes the irritated bowels.

"I hear that your church has installed a photograph outfit with sacred music," said Jones.

"Yes. Had to do it. Choir had struck.

"Was solo some work all right?"

"It—beautiful. Never quartreb with itself has no skirts to rustle, doesn't think about the angle of its hat, refrains from giggling or passing dining its song and it gets out of order in a hurry. Great."

A TIME FOR EVERYTHING.—The time to be is: Thomas' Eclectric Oil is when rheumatic pains appear in the shoulders, joints, muscles or limbs, when coughs, colds, catarrh or catarrhal affections, croup or sore throat, bronchial troubles, obstinate sores, sprains or bruises, burns or scalds, pain in any of these elements it will give immediate relief and cure.

"Do you believe in long engagements?"

"Not in the summer time. I never accept the proposal of a man to whose vacation lasts longer than two weeks."

Worry disarms the whole system. Mother Graves' Worm Powders are a safe remedy and gives rest to the sufferer. It only costs 25c to try it and is guaranteed to give satisfaction.

When do you expect your wife home?"

"Most any time now. I understand one of the neighbors wrote to her yesterday."

A little water, I was advised to remove the worm, soot and blotch, by the use of Holloway's Corn Cure. Others who have tried it have the same experience.

• • •

I have been taking some moving pictures of life on your farm," said a photographer to an agriculturist. "Did you catch my laborers in motion?" asked the farmer.

"I think so."

"Ah, well, science is a wonderful thing!"

"Good gracious, isn't that your husband across the street there quarreling with the man on the opposite porch?"

"Oh, they're not really quarreling. They quarrel that way every night. George is a monologuist and Mr. Stiggins is a biglanist."

THE OFFICE BOY.

Tact is a quality so rare among office boys that one seldom finds any evidence that would seem to prove that as a class the little workers are possessed of that virtue to any considerable degree. Its reverse, however, is very common. The experience of a well-known railway official, who is not especially noted for his personal beauty, is a case which illustrates this fact.

Not long ago, while the railway man was seated at his desk, the boy entered and quietly remarked:

"Gentleman outside to see you, sir."

"Who is it, Bobbie?" he inquired.

"Didn't give his name, sir," said the boy.

"Well, what does he look like?" demanded the official.

The lad looked out with red hair and squint eyes. Thought it was you, sir, when he first come in," said Bobbie.

A PATHETIC CHICKEN-LIVER EPISODE.

She entered a high-priced butcher shop on Second street, the other day, relates a New York newspaper. Her automobile waited outside.

"Have you any chicken livers, William?" she asked of her favorite attendant.

"Yes, madam; 50 cents a pound.

"Give me half a pound," she said, "and cut them in halves. I'll take them, so be careful to cut each exactly in half.

William fixed them with great care. "You see," he said, as she swept out, "I have two dogs, and if the liver is not exactly halved they fight about it."

William fell in a faint.

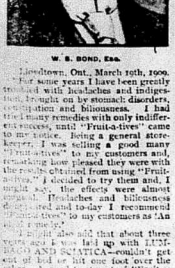
Recommended As An Ideal Remedy



W. S. BOND, Esq.

Lyndtown, Ont., March 10th, 1909.

"For some years I have been greatly troubled with headaches and indigestion, brought on by stomach disorders, and although I obtained relief from the many remedies with only indifferent success, until "Fruit-a-tives" came to my notice. Being a general storekeeper, I was selling a good many "Fruit-a-tives" to my customers and, consulting how pleased they were with the results obtained from using "Fruit-a-tives", I decided to try them and, I might say, the effects were almost magical. Headaches and biliousness disappeared and to-day I recommend "Fruit-a-tives" to my customers as "An ideal remedy".

I might also add that about three years ago I was laid up with LUMBAGO AND SCIATICA—couldn't get out of bed or hit one foot over the other. A good treatment of "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of these pains and banished the Sciatica and Lumbago so that to-day I am as well as ever and can lift anything necessary."

PASTOR WON'T SHAKE HANDS.

At St. Paul st. Methodist church, St Catharines, on Sunday, Rev. W. J. Crothers, D.D., the pastor, had a word to say about the lack of cordiality among the people of his flock. "There are some people who think that the pastor of this church should go down to the door after the service and shake hands with the people as they go out. I refuse to do such a thing. I refuse to make a pumphandle of my arm for anybody. I am here for that purpose. That is up to the members of the congregation themselves. If they don't see fit to shake hands with each other that is their affair, not mine. I am here to preach the gospel." Dr. Crothers also intimated that there were other churches in the city for those who were not satisfied with St. Paul's.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place on the 6th September, at St. Anthony's Church, Centreville, when Mr. John Pender, a popular and prosperous business man of Watertown, N.Y., and Libbie McAvoy, of Strathcona, were united in matrimony. The bride was attired in ivory silk voile. Miss Evelyn McNeill, niece of the bride, attired in cream silk voile, acted as bridesmaid, while Vincent Brady did the duties of best man. After the wedding ceremony being performed and a nuptial mass celebrated by Rev. Father McCarthy, the wedding party repaired to the home of the bride's brother, W. H. McAvoy, where an elegantly laden and prettily decorated table awaited them. After doing justice to this, the bride and groom left on the 4.20 train for Toronto. After their return they will take their departure for their future home in Watertown. The many costly presents to the bride were good evidence of the esteem in which she is held by her many friends. The many friends of both bride and groom here join their hosts of friends in their American home town, in wishing them every happiness in life.

When President Roosevelt and his party were hunting in the jungles of Louisiana they had with them, as chief cook and bottle-washer, a negro darkey, named Sam, whose politeness was only excelled by his professed fearlessness in the face of danger.

After a camp had been opened, Sam was sent out to reconnoitre in the vicinity and report prospects for game. Soon after he had disappeared, unearthly yells were heard, and he was seen leaping and bounding through the thicket, in a desperate effort to overcome time and distance in reaching camp. On his arrival, breathless and panting, he almost fell into the arms of the chief guard, who exclaimed:

"Why, Sam, what's the matter? What scared you so?"

"I don't skeered, nassa," stammered Sam, as he paused for breath and rolled his eyes in the direction from whence he came; "I is come back fo' ax you if you could be perlite fo' die nigrah to shoot dat bar dat chased me into dem gibbon dis fust time I is da President of da United States?"

Ald. Clearihue of Montreal testified before the Royal Commission that Mr. Mark Workman, a prominent capitalist, had offered him $3,000 to vote for a certain contract.

Nervous Disorders

Promptly Cured by the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

If your hand trembles or is unsteady, remember that this is a sure and early sign of your nervous system being at fault. The mischief may develop slowly to a worse stage. You feel unaccountably weak and worn after exertion. Your appetite fails; you turn against food and suffer palpitation and indigestion after eating. At times you are irritable, greatly depressed and easily agitated. Sometimes sharp pains shoot down your spine and legs and probably neuralgia robs you of your sleep at night. These are some of the troubles that indicate the presence of nervous disorders. If these troubles are neglected they result in complete nervous collapse and possibly paralysis. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have won a great reputation in curing all forms of nervous disease. The nervous system depends entirely upon the blood supply for nourishment; when the blood is thin and weak the nerves are affected as described. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually increase the supply of good red blood, feed, strengthen and tone the nerves, enable them to perform their functions and dispel all signs of a breakdown.

Mrs. Jas. H. Ward, Love's Cove, N.B., says: "About two years ago I suffered so much from nervous prostration that I was little better than a helpless wreck. I suffered from headaches and a constant feeling of dizziness. The least annoyance would startle me and set my heart palpitating violently. I had little or no appetite, and grew so weak that I was hardly able to drag myself about, and could not do my housework. In every way I was a most deplorable condition. As the medicine I had been taking seemed to do me no good, my husband got a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had only been taking the Pills for a couple of weeks, when I seemed to feel somewhat better, and this encouraged me to continue the treatment. From that on my strength gradually but surely returned, and in the course of a few more weeks I was once more a well woman able to do my own housework and feeling better than I had done for years. I have recommended them and feel that I owe my good health to the healing powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Every other weak, sickly, worn out, nervous person should follow the example of Mrs. Ward and give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. These Pills will send new blood coursing through the veins and bring brightness and energy to the weak and despondent. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me, I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman.

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Jons G. Modan, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

If women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. For 20 years she has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

EXCHANGING CONFIDENCE.

"Doin' any good?" asked the curious individual on the bridge.

"Any good?" answered the fisherman in the creek below. "Why, I caught 40 bass out o' here yesterday."

"Say, do you know who I am?" asked the man on the bridge.

The fisherman replied that he did not.

"Well, I am the county fish and game warden."

The angler, after a moment's thought, exclaimed, "Say, do you know who I am?"

"No," the officer replied.

"Well, I'm the biggest liar in eastern Indiana," said the crafty angler, with a grin.

Bernard Robbins, head of the legal department of New York's Court of Tears—this charity helps the poor to adjust their marital troubles without going to the expense of law suits—said the other day:

"Such work as mine makes you, if you are not careful, pessimistic about marriage, so that you find yourself telling grimly, over and over again, the story about St. Peter and the widower.

"What, you don't know the story? Well, it seems that two souls approached St. Peter side by side, and the youngest was repulsed sternly by the saint on the ground that since he had never been married, he had never known suffering. The older man advanced with glad confidence. He stated that he had been married twice.

"But him, too, the saint repulsed, saying:

"This is no place for fools."

Among the weekly statements of the official set of Washington society is a lady of Western origin whose surroundings have not always been as luxurious as now.

During an inclement spell of weather latch the lady was one unfortunate as to contract a painful affection of the throat, and she at length accepted the advice of a friend that she consult a specialist noted for the business of his fees.

"Your ailment is a serious one," said the specialist, after examination. "You'll soon be all right. Just what I would like to touch an affected part of your throat with this nitrate of silver."

Mrs. Morton protested the word, this matron, in a tone of mingled surprise and indignation, "do use nitrate of gold." The expense is quite immaterial to me."

Mr. Collingwood Schreiber says the Grand Trunk Pacific will never be built with white labor. There are two thousand men working in British Columbia now, and in a short time 25,000 will be required, with little prospect of getting them.

What a Great Man Said to the Great American People.

Parisian Sage is a discovery of a celebrated scientist, who spent most years of his life in perfecting this great hair tonic.

In giving his recipe to the American people he said: "Parisian Sage is the most delightful hair dressing in the world, but it is more than a hair dressing. It cures dandruff by killing the germs that infest the roots of the hair; it stops falling hair, it gives vigor and strength to the hair roots." T. B. Wallace sells Parisian Sage at 50 cents a large bottle and guarantees it to do all it claims for it, or your money is refunded. If you do not reside near a druggist who sells Parisian Sage, send 50 cents to Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont., and a bottle will be sent you, all charges prepaid.

IRE E. GROOMS.

Death entered this community an Sunday morning and claimed another victim. Deceased had been ailing for some time, but no immediate danger was anticipated, and his sudden demise came as a shock to his many friends. Death resulted from a hemorrhage of the lungs induced by slight coughing, and apparently without a struggle he quietly laid aside his earthly tabernacle and his living spirit took its departure to the holding of God. Deceased was born in this vicinity and spent his life long resident society as well was highly esteemed for his good nature and kindly disposition. In early manhood health and strength is never enjoyed by any one around him. He was twice married. First to Miss F. Wagar, who predeceased him over twenty years ago, and some years later he married his deceased wife's sister, who still survives him. Two children, one grown to womanhood, have passed on before him. He leaves a widow and (2) daughters, Mrs. C. Mawby, of Napanee, and Miss Jessie, at home. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Thompson, on Thursday afternoon, and the remains were afterwards removed to the Mount Pleasant cemetery and followed by a large cortege of sorrowing friends and relatives.

CENTREVILLE.

A fast game of baseball was played here on Saturday last, between a picked team from Yarker, Newburgh and Camden East and the Tamworth Greys. Skinner was on the slab for the picked nine, and pitched a fine game, receiving gilt-edged support. Edgar caught a clever game throughout. Watters and Young were on the firing line for the Greys. Had Watters received as good support as Skinner, his team would undoubtedly have won out. Wagar on third was away off color, making several costly errors. Skinner struck out 9 men, while Watters did the same with 10 of the union team. Watter's fielding was a revelation to the fans and he was easily the best man on either team. Tamworth had many hits, but seemed to have a knack of playing the horsehide where it could be picked up handily. The Greys had the hardest kind of luck from the start. In the ninth they made a great rally and pounded Skinner for four runs, keeping up their reputation as strong finishers. Evans for the Greys had a great day in right field, gathering in four skyscrapers in fine style, while Woodhouse of the picked team made some sensational catches. For five innings Skinner held the heavy hitters from Tamworth at his mercy, but the Greys never for a moment lost heart, and when they found the ball could be hit for a base they found it. Rexy-Charbral Babies.

Nothing in the world is such a comfort and joy as a healthy rosy-cheeked happy baby. But the price of health is eternal constant vigilance on the part of the mother. The ills of babyhood come thick and fast, and the wise mother will always be in a position to treat them at once. Baby's Own Tablets can take the place of Baby's Own Tablets in relieving and curing the ills of babyhood and childhood, and there is no other medicine in the world like it. Mrs. Eugene Perreault, Cat. says:—"My baby was troubled with his stomach and bowels, and could not keep anything down. I gave him Baby's Own Tablets with the best of results; he is now one of the healthiest babies in the village." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NORTHUMBERLAND DURHAM POWER CO.

Port Hope Evening Guide, Sept. 7.

The Northumberland — Durham Power Co., lessee of the use of Ontario Falls power from the Dominion Government, and the Calvert well syndicate, owning certain Trent river powers, north of Trenton and at Campbellford, have completed a contract with a leading financial corporation for the underwriting of two and a half millions dollars bonds for the development of these powers.

The deal was consummated by Mr. John Alexander Culverwell, of Port Hope, Managing Director of the Company and of the syndicate, assisted by R. J. McLaughlin, K.C., of Toronto and Lindsay. Power will be transmitted to Belleville and the cement mills, Deseronto, Napanee and Kingston; also west to Port Hope and Cobourg, and also north to Havelock, Norwood and Ontario mining districts.

Eighteen Municipal Councils have officially endorsed the Government Lease to the Company, which has been organized by the leading manufacturers and business men of the district.

These powers will be developed on the dam being built by the Dominion Government for the Trent Canal.

THE STRANGE NEW CREED.

Prof. Percival Lowell, the famous astronomer and author, said the other day of the amazing public ignorance where astronomical matters are concerned:

"I can't discuss my Martian theories with the average man. He is as ignorant of astronomical terms as one of our Flagstaff policemen is of all long Latin words. This policeman arrested, the other night, an elderly gentleman who was parading the street in a white nightgown.

"Good gracious!' he said, 'the old gentleman, giving a great start, 'he's mad, indeed. Let me go. I'm a somnambulist.'

But the policeman tightened his grip on the old fellow's arm.

"It don't make no odds what your religion is,' he said, "you come along with me."

SHE NEEDED BRAIN FOOD.

Dr. Joseph Bryant said at the Tuberculosis Exhibition in New York that "human mating based on good sense rather than on beguiling sentiment would do much toward making mankind immune to tuberculosis."

Miss ——, at a dinner, he said, complained that she was attacked by a young man.

"How dare you, sir," said she, "claim that love causes consumption?"

"Oh, I don't go so far as that," Dr. Bryant returned.

"But you said", declared the young lady, "that, if marriages were based on common sense instead of love, consumption would decrease?"

He nodded.

"Well, isn't that the same thing," she cried triumphantly, "as saying consumption is caused by love?"

"I couldn't be rude to you if I tried," said Dr. Bryant, "but, really, you know, your way of arguing is very much like the way recruits drill. Recruits—they are called the awkward squad—often reduce the drill sergeant to despair. One board a sergeant, after struggling with a particularly inept recruit for some time, say to himself:

"Young feller, do you believe that fish is good for the brain?

"Sure, I do," said the recruit, promptly.

"Then, for goodness sake," exclaimed the sergeant, "go and get a whale!"

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do us one of Humanity?

Will you tell some sick friend of this, our generous offer?

Just a word. Just the postal card request. Just the name and address. We will send the free package of Paxo Ointment. And learn that the most torturing, disfiguring, stubborn skin troubles yield to this treatment.

When the "Pimples" are gone, the Blackheads, Blotches, Eczema, Rashes, Tetter, Scaly Skin, Ringworm, Itching Piles, Chafings, Scalds, Sunburn and Irritations are healed, and Skin and Scalp are clear and healthy, then is the time to tell us that you are cured.

Then it is a great satisfaction that I can tell you that Paxo Ointment is sold by druggists everywhere, at 50c per box, or by mail from me for $1.00 per box. If it fails it costs you nothing.

Then why should the sick tarke any chance on any other medicine, when your druggist has Paxo in stock or will get it for you in a few hours?

I also have a Woman's Remedy—and that is sold on the same terms. Paxo for Women. Ask me about it. Write me, please, for particulars.

I am willing to tell you all about it. I will, because I know that I can cure you. Write me to-day. Just a postal will do.

The first, only one per family, for all druggists are authorized to give this 50 cent box free. Write me to-day. Address me personally. E. S. Kimball, Pres. The Paxo Co., Kimball Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

REID—HAMBLY.

A pretty September wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hambly, Napanee, on Wednesday, the 5th inst., when their daughter, Miss Ethel Hambly, was married to Albert Edward Reid, of North Fredericksburg, Ont. Rev. Mr. Hicks performed the ceremony in the presence of a number of friends. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked very charming in a dress of white organdie muslin over white silk, and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Lizzie Hambly, who wore a dress of white organdie muslin over white silk, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was supported by Mr. Ernest Reid, brother of the groom. After the ceremony the happy couple left on the 2.30 train for Toronto, Niagara Falls and other points. On their return they will reside in Napanee.

NOTES FROM THE DOLPHIN'S LOG, CONTINUED.

After a refreshing night's rest we set out over to the 4th C. C. Y. C. course, and by the time we got there everything was in readiness for the start. The wind was blowing a fresh breeze from the south-west, and everything could be seen to advantage. The course was a triangular one, and was laid out in the form of a letter A, the start and finish being at the point of the A, the first turning mark at the left hand corner, and the second at the right hand corner. The course was about 7 miles in length, and everything could be seen from the decks of the boats. The start was a pretty one, and was made in the order of the numbers, the Dolphin leading, followed closely by the Vagrant, Vanessa, Vanity, Vedette, Vencedor, Vendetta, Vera, Vesper, Vespra, Vesta, Vicar, Vicarion, Victor, Victoria, Vidette, Vigilant, Vigilante, Vigilia, Vim, Vindex, Vindicator, Vindictive, Viola, Violet, Virago, Virginia, Virginian, Vision, Vitesse, Vivian, Vivid, Vixen, Volante, Volunteer, Vreda, Vulcan, Vulcana, Vulcania, Vulcanite, Vulcanus, Vulgan, Vulgar, Vulgarian, Vulgarina, Vulgarine, Vulgarite, Vulgarius, Vulgarus, Vulgarvan, Vulgarvanite, Vulgarvanius, Vulgarvanus, Vulgarvanite, Vulgarvanius, Vulgarvanus, Vulgarvanite, Vulgarvanius, Vulgarvanus

WEDDING BELLS.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the Methodist parsonage, Enterprise, on Wednesday morning, Sept. 15th, when Minnie A. Wise was similarly attired. The groom was supported by Mr. D. Milligan, Centreville. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful gold chain and locket set with pearls. The groom's maid a gold brooch, and to the groomsman a pair of gold cuff links. They left on the 8.36 train amid showers of rice and old shoes for Watertown, where they spend their honeymoon. We all join in wishing Mr and Mrs. Hawley a long, happy and prosperous voyage through life.

It's a pity when sick men drag the stomach or stimulate the Heart and Kidneys. That is all wrong! A weak, irritable stomach needs Stomach nerves, always. And this is also true of the Heart and Kidneys. The weak nerves are instead acting out for help. Tonsiline when taken with this restorative is promptly helpful. Stomach, Heart and Kidney ailments. The Tonsiline reaches out for the actual cause of these ailments and it is always relieved. Anyway test the Restorative 48 hours. If you have not some relief in that time, will surely know that help is coming. Sold by all dealers.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for testimonials and testimonials.

THE ROBINSON CO.

"Getting more like New York every day", was a remark made by a lady observer at Robinson's in front of The Robinson Co's stores the other evening. The remark was not made for publication but it sums up in a sentence the wonderful strides being made by The Robinson Company. Everything right exhibition was on, windows were artistically decorated, the whole store was brilliantly lighted with the new system system. I wandered in, there to find an interested crowd of sightseers, going from one exhibit to another. Willing salespeople were delegated among the various departments, giving information up to date. The display of Dress Goods, Silks and Dress Trimmings was all arranged in one color sections. Every piece of fabric shown with perfect match of trimming and silk. Plain rich suitings were in one group, novelty fabrics in another, and evening dress materials in another.

The middle store display space was given over for showing of Irish Table Linens, Damasks, Table pieces, "Old Bleach" Towels and Towellings. The famous Old Bleach towels were shown all the way from 50 cents to $4.00 a pair. Pattern Table Cloths with Napkins to match were shown in a wide variety of patterns. "Maish" bed comforts with the "warmth without weight" feature were demonstrated in Comforts all the way from $1.50 to $18.00.

Going up to the first floor, the prices were in stock. With the changing of manufacturing departments to upper floor and the removal of partitions, a great addition has been made to selling space. The Carpet department is now one of the largest in Ontario outside of Toronto. Rich Rugs, or Carpets with draperies to match were grouped to give an eye picture of a well furnished home.

The Women's Fur department has been given new quarters on first floor, is nicely appointed and one may select their Furs away from the hustle and noise of ground floor. The Women's Ready-to-Wear flat is filled to overflowing with the new fall garments. Women's separate Skirts, beautifully made and reasonably priced were shown by the hundred. Babies', children's and Misses' Coats form a section of their own. Special prominence was given to Women's Waists made in silks and the new novelty nets. Women's separate Coats and tailor-made costumes were receiving an unusual share of attention. The Company are making a strong feature of "Individual style". In one shipment recently they brought in about two hundred Women's Coats that were style sample models just one of a kind.

"The best ever experienced" was the general Verdict in the millinery section. The styles were becoming, the trimmings rich. The large hats were shewn in all the new shades of Navy, Brown, Green, Cadet and turbans. The tri-corn promises to be a very popular shape. The materials used are velvets, silks in plain and moire, plush and beaver. Fancy feathers in the soft flowing effects, Ostrich, Paradise, Coque and osprays are used profusely. The colors are black, black and white, amethyst, Russian, Prussian blue, cadet, catawba, wisteria and old rose.

The fur hats were very much admired and promise to be very popular for the coming winter. The two leading fur hat shapes of the Eskimo type are named the "Peary" and "Cook".

DOXSEE & CO.

Some very lovely autumn and winter hats are on view at Doxsee & Co's. The winter models take on a description of elegance which handsome and appropriate adjuncts always supply to the ensemble. For early autumn wear the smaller and closer shapes are trending and in the least heavy, although the height and draping effect on many smart models give a suggestion of weight. The toques and turbans of beaver cloth or fancy materials set down well on the head, framing the face in a soft outline of drapery. Beavers and fine French felt shapes take on more picturesque lines, following the Marquise shape with high trailing brims, turned over at back and sides, while the drooping shapes are as large and as sweeping as one cares to assume. Willow plumes, long and sweeping, shorter ones, also standing in military effect, and handsome tall ostrich tips are to have great vogue. Also Marabouts, especially in white.

One of the hats very much admired was in black velvet, of large and rolling brim, with birch crown encircled with a drape of goldcloth and a necklace of metallic beads. A long willow plume was caught with a handsome cabochon and fell to the side and back.

A large drooping shape turned at the side and back, covered on the outside brim with white crepe and faced underneath with gold cloth. A large soft crown of Marguerite taupe shade encircled with gold cloth and finished with tailored bows completes this handsome hat. Some of the new shades are sphinx, raisin, chocolate, olive green, leather, rose and wine shades.

It is not possible to give more than a suggestive hint as to what may be expected to be well known store during the season.

FALL SIDE DISHES.

AN ARTICLE FOR MOTHERS

When the children "break out" with eruptions and skin diseases, so common in the fall, don't run to useless and nauseating purgatives. Zam-Buk is what is needed. It is a skin food as well as a healing balm.

Mrs. Chas. Levere, of Prescott, North Channel, Ont., tells how her little girl was cured. She says:—"My baby's head and face was one complete mass of sores. Her head was covered with scabs and crusts, and the little one's plight was so painful that at times we feared her mind would be affected.

"We had to keep her tied for days to prevent her rubbing and scratching the sores. Doctor after doctor was called in vain, and we had tried doctors. They all agreed it was a frightful case of eczema, but none of them did any permanent good.

"As a last resource we were advised to try Zam-Buk. The first box did so much good that we felt sure we were at last working in the right direction. Perseverance with the treatment until we had used thirteen boxes, and at the end of that time I am glad to say Zam-Buk effected a cure."

Mrs. Holmes, of 36, Guise Street, Hamilton, is quite as eloquent in her praises. She says:—"Zam-Buk cured my boy of terrible eczema when he was so bad that he had been unable to mix with other children. Prior to Zam-Buk being sent he had had a bad eruption, but that cleared this away too, and made his skin clear and smooth. It is a wonderful preparation and mothers throughout the land should always keep it handy."

For eczema, eruptions, rashes, bitter, itch, ringworm, and similar skin diseases Zam-Buk is without equal. For cuts, bruises, scalds, sores, piles, abscesses, chronic sore, blood poisoning, etc. All druggists and stores at 50 cents a box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Denner, Thomas Dolan, Robert Grange, Edward Hambly, Lewis Hartman, Christie Harten, Frank Hawley, Thomas Hill, Alonzo Hinchey, John Humphrey, William J. Jackson, William P. Kelley, Thomas Keasy, John Kehoe, H. Lockwood, J. B. Marsh, F. S. Wilson.

The following cases composed the docket:—

Beausoleil vs. Canadian Pacific Railway Company.—An action for damages caused by the railway company's engine setting fire to timber in Kaladar. Case was postponed until next assize court by consent of all parties. Mr. Lewis for plaintiff; H. M. Deroche, K.C., for defendants.

Denyes vs. Vrooman. — An action brought by Jas. W. Denyes, a farmer in the Township of Ernestown, against John P. Vrooman, of Napanee, for $2,000 damages. The plaintiff claimed that the defendant so carelessly, negligently and unskillfully set his broken leg that he is now compelled to walk with the use of his leg and rendered permanently lame. A number of witnesses were examined on both sides, and also several doctors who gave expert evidence. His Lordship, in a lengthy judgment, directed that judgment be entered dismissing the action with costs. J. L. Whiting, K.C., and D. H. Preston, K.C., for plaintiff; Herrington, Warner & Grange, for defendant.

The Grand Jury brought in a true bill against Hess Thompson, of the Township of Kaladar, one for rape upon Grace Smith, and one for having carnal knowledge of a girl under fourteen years of age. The second indictment was tried, and the prisoner found guilty. C. F. Hilt, K.C. for the Crown; W. G. Wilson, for the prisoner.

GRAND JURY PRESENTMENT.

To His Lordship Sir Wm. Mulock, K.C.

We, the Grand Jurors of the County of Lennox and Addington, beg leave to present our report, as follows:

1. We, the Grand Jurors of Our Lord the King, for the said County of Lennox and Addington, take the privilege of congratulating Your Lordship on your apparent good health, and to express our appreciation of the very able and clear and instructive address delivered to us at the opening of this Court.

2. Having disposed of the two indictments submitted to us by the Crown, we find that the County Crown Attorney has conducted therein four inmates, all men, charged with the crime of murder, manslaughter, and the prisoner now before the Court, charged with rape. We found the Gaoler's premises and the prisoners properly kept as to cleanliness, regularity, etc., and the prisoners well cared for.

3. We would respectfully call the attention of the said Gaoler to the condition of the cells, as they might prove a menace to prisoners confined therein.

4. That the evidence given to the Grand Jury in the case of rape against the prisoner now before the Court, was sufficient to justify the finding of a true bill against the prisoner.

5. That the Gaoler of the County of the Lennox and Addington Gaol is entitled to the sum of $100 per annum, and we recommend that he be paid the same.

6. That the Clerk of the County of the Lennox and Addington Gaol is entitled to the sum of $50 per annum, and we recommend that he be paid the same.

7. That the Gaoler's Lunch Bill be paid with presentation of vouchers, and that the Gaoler be allowed the sum of $1.00 per day for the support of himself, his family and household, and that the Gaoler be allowed to discharge from further attendance at this Court.

Only Medicine That Did Any Good

After Suffering Tortures For Years, This Lady Found Happy Relief In "Fruit-a-tives".

Frankville, Ont., June 11th, 1908.

"I have received most wonderful benefit from taking "Fruit-a-tives." I suffered for years from headaches and pain in the back, and I consulted doctors and took every remedy obtainable without any relief. Then I began taking "Fruit-a-tives" and this was the only medicine that ever did me any real good. I took several boxes altogether, and now I am entirely well of all my dreadful headaches and backaches.

MRS. FRANK EATON

I take "Fruit-a-tives" occasionally still, but I am quite cured of a trouble that was said to be incurable. I give this testimony voluntarily, in order that others who suffer as I suffered may try this wonderful medicine and be cured."

(Signed) MRS. FRANK EATON.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50 or trial box, 25c — or sent post-paid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

HAIR NATURALLY ABUNDANT.

When It Is Free of Dandruff, It Grows Luxuriantly.

Hair preparations and dandruff cures, as a rule, are sticky or irritating affairs that do no earthly good. Hair, when not diseased, grows naturally, luxuriantly. Dandruff is the cause of nine-tenths of all hair trouble, and dandruff is caused by a germ. The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the germ; and, so far, the only hair preparation that will positively destroy the germ is Newbro's Herpicide—once you eliminate the germ, from disease, dirt, dye matter or dangerous drugs, it always thinks instantly; makes hair glossy and soft as silk. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

The Younger Set

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS.
Author of "The Fighting Chance," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Robert W. Chambers.

But to board in her cabin, behind the mahogany of an undercurrent quickening for the first time, and be listened patiently and answered graver-ly, touched by her irresistible loneliness.

So when she said that she was tired of gayety, that she would like to study, he said that he would take up anything she chose with her. And when she spoke vaguely of a life devoted to good works — of the higher charity, of being morally equipped to aid those who required material aid — he was very serious, but ventured to suggest that she dance her first season through as a sort of flesh mortifying penance preliminary to her spiritual novitiate.

"Yes," she admitted thoughtfully. "You are right. Nina would feel dreadful if I did not go on or if she imagined I cared so little for it all. But one season is enough to waste. Don't you think so?"

"Quite enough," he assured her.

"And—why should I ever marry?" she demanded, lifting her clear, wise eyes to his.

"Why, indeed?" he repeated, with conviction, "I can see no reason."

"I am glad you understand me," she said. "I am not a marrying woman."

"Not at all," he assured her.

"No, I am not, and—the darling—doesn't understand. Why, what do you suppose? But would it be a breach of confidence to anybody if I told you?"

"I doubt it," he said. "What is it you have to tell me?"

"Only—it's very, very silly—only several men—and one nice enough to know better—Sudbury Gray"—

"Asked you to marry them?" he finished, nodding at the end of the cat.

"Yes," she admitted, frankly astonished. "But how did you know?"

"Inferred it. Go on."

"There is nothing more," she said without embarrassment. "I told Nina each time, but she continued to talk me for details, and the details were too foolish and too annoying to repeat. I do not wish to marry anybody. I think I made that very plain to everybody."

"Right, as usual," he said cheerfully. "You are too intelligent to consider that sort of thing just now."

"You do understand me, don't you?" she said gratefully. "There are so many serious things in life to learn and to think of, and that is the very last thing I should ever consider. I am very, very glad I had this talk with you. Now I am rested, and I shall retire for a good long sleep."

With which paradox she stood up, stifling a tiny yawn, and looked smilingly at him, all of the old self-confidence in her eyes. Then, suddenly mocking:

"Why suggested that you call me by my first name?" she asked.

"Some good angel or other. May I?"

"If you please. I rather like it. But I couldn't very well call you anything except Captain Selwyn."

"On account of my age?"

"Your age!" contemptuous in her confidence.

"Oh, my wisdom, then? You probably reverence me too deeply."

"Probably not. I don't know. I couldn't do it, anyway."

"Try it—unless you're afraid."

"I'm not afraid!"

"Yes, you are, if you don't take a chance."

"You dare me?"

"I do."

In her small head, bandaged above by her embonnet, "Sue Dhu" said: "I won't do it that way in all likelihood. It's got to be English for me

Beautiful Millinery Opening

DELIGHTFUL STYLES

Differentness for every woman, individuality the trade-mark of the haunts of Robinson Co. Millinery Styles.

"So many styles here, I don't know which to choose, you'll walk till some new style leads," said a perplexed customer. Don't! Millinery fashions this season admit of individual preferences. Every style we show is, in a measure, founded on the fashions of the leading arbiters in Millinery. We could say—don't believe in styles that have run into a rut. We don't believe in offending taste that shows the fashionship of a single model of form in their fashioning. That's why we present so many different styles.

And the Opening is a Great Success

The styles are more notable than usual—because of the varied possibilities of fitting a hat to each style of face. Robinson Co.-Hats will be the vogue in Millinery.

THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL

"What is New in Shirt Waists and Blouses" will appeal to every woman.

Practical and profitable ideas and suggestions in dresses and wearing apparel.

We have The Ladies' Home Journal Patterns for these styles. You'll want these patterns. Come to our store and look at them.

...THE MOST FAVORED OF...

THE NEW FALL DRESS GOODS AND SILKS ARE HERE

The showing of Dress Goods Saturday evening was the admiration of the many who thronged our stores, the handsome collection of evening wear, consisting of fancy and plain Voiles, Mulls, Crepe Sublime, Satin finished materials, Veilings, etc. Also trimmings to harmonize with all the delicate colorings. Our Bead and Pearl Trimmings with drops and tassels to match make a very effective and dainty garniture, which certainly gives the gown a finish and touch that is pleasing to the eye. If you desire a Black gown we have the materials that will please you and would suggest jet for trimming—we are showing it in bandings, fringes, tassels and drops. If you wish it inexpensive we have it for you, if you wish out jet we have it for you, also another shipment in Jet Buttons to hand, in all sizes from 14 line to 50 line.

SUITINGS.—Do you want a Princess Dress and Coat? We can make it properly for you. Miss Crossland is in charge of our Dressmaking Department, and will be pleased to give you information regarding styles, etc. All the newest shades to select from, the dark rose, Catawba, raisin, wistaria, nubian, neapolitan, taupe, burgundy. Also a full range of staple shades, at all prices, in navy, brown, green, grey, black. You will save money by looking through our immense range before purchasing.

SILKS AND SATINS.—We are headquarters for Silks and Satins. We will not mention the different weaves, colors and prices, as space will not permit, but we do ask you to allow us the pleasure of showing you our immense range.

Fur Repairing.

We do all kinds of Fur Repairing. Keep in stock mostly all kinds of skins—fur tails, chains, heads, barrels, cords, muff beds, fur linings, etc.

Garments to be repaired should be brought in at once. Later on we cannot promise as prompt service. Enquire at our Fur Department on first floor.

Saturday Night Sale of Women's Kid Gloves—79c pr.

To-morrow night, Saturday Sept. 25th, at the head of stairs on first floor we will sell real Belgium Kid Gloves, at 79c pair.

These gloves are all fresh new stock bought for sale purposes, and if you are here on time you can have size 6, 6½, 6¼, 6¾ in either black, navy, green, Amethyst, violet, purple, grey, tan. Some of the shades are in 5½ and 7 too.

This is the same glove that we sold Opening night. If you had some, tell others.

The Best Knitting Yarns.

The best knitting yarns are the cheapest in the end. Only yarns made of long combed wool are worth spending time to knit up into garments. To knit a soft short wool or brittle yarn is only waste of time. We're careful to stock only pure yarns.

CANADIAN 2 and 3 ply, black, grey, white, red, 50c lb.

IVANHOE is an imported yarn that we have been selling for several seasons. It is about size of a Bee hive yarn, but made from a glossy worsted yarn. Made in grey and black. $1.00 lb.

ROBINSON'S KANT BREAK SCOTCH FINGERING.—We call your particular attention to this yarn of ours. It is the strongest and best wearing yarn that we know of. It is well named, because with ordinary pull you cannot break it. We know it wears well and have no hesitation in recommending it. Try it. Made in Grey, Black, Red, White, 75c lb.

...LINOLEUM SALE...

Commences To-morrow. Continues All next week .... 39c yard.

The sale of English Linoleums announced last week, commences to-morrow. Remember there are eleven different patterns including block, floral, oriental and matting designs. Often sold as high as 50c yard.

This is an opportune time to get ready your kitchen and winter dining room floor covering. Linoleum will wear on a smooth floor for many years. Putting up stove time is soon here—take our advice and have linoleum put down before stoves are moved in.

A chance to buy English Cork Linoleum at the price of oilcloth does not come every day.

Fancy Pillow Tops.

One window has been devoted to a showing of the latest in Pillow Tops. Call and see them. A full line to select from.

New Lithographs, at 25 cents. Art Tapestry, at 25 cents.
Souvenir Tops, 25 cents. Novelty Tops, 50 cents.
Satin Orientals, $1.00.
Bolting, Silks, Hand Embroidered, 50c and 75c.
Silk Cords and Dresden Scrims for frills to match.

More Individual Guest Towels.

With our new shipment of Old Bleach Linens is another ten dozen lot of Individual Guest Towels.

The Guest Towel idea is a comparatively new idea for home use. They are quite small, 14x22 inches, the idea is to hang up a half dozen or so on the towel rack of the guest or bath room. As a towel is only supposed to be used once before washing, it saves laundry expense.

They make a popular and useful wedding gift. Nicely boxed just as they come from Ireland. Dozen to a box, $3.00.

Men Are Sick and Tired

Of their summer togs and are buying autumn and winter clothes more freely than we ever have in September. It's worth doing too, for we have put so much of fashion and newness into our clothing and furnishing stock that the careful dresser wants early choice. We no longer have hundreds of suits as alike as pigeons—it's loss, air or sight of a pattern—individuality, and so one also has the same patterns. The house of "W. G." Clothing is the "Sovereign" Brand Clothing and is so thoroughly good and so thoroughly stylish that their business is the largest clothing business in Canada.

MEN'S SUITS.—Single and double breasted. The better kinds, at from $12.00 to $20.00. Special values in cheaper grades at from $6.50 to $10.00.

MEN'S AND YOUTH'S OVERCOATS.—It is not what you pay us, but what we give you that forms the basis of our good values. Prices $5.00 to $20.00.

MEN'S AND BOYS' REEFERS, splendid, solid Fleet Cloth, handy, comfortable and durable, all the handy qualities at lowest prices.

BOYS' AND CHILDREN'S SUITS—You can always be sure that whatever price you pay for a Boy's suit at Robinson's, you will get your honest money's worth. In small sizes from 20 to 24. Prices are $2.50 to $3.50. In sizes 25 to 28, $3.50 to $6.00. Sizes 29 to 34, $3.50 to $6.50.

BOYS' OVERCOATS—Scotch Cr. Juvenile Overcoats are the most stylish Boys' Overcoats in Canada. Let us show them to you. Prices $2.50 to $12.00.

Men's Merchant Tailoring

Shall we make your Fall Suits and Overcoats? The service we give is equable, smart, good. Twenty dollars is the suit price that many stop at—and we can do wonders for you at $20.00. In the higher prices we excel.

Men's Serge Suits—Single-breasted—Blue or Black.

Blue Suits are all the rage, and it is hard to find really good clothing in the market now. We were fortunate last spring in placing a large contract with one suppliers, and to-day we have the very best clothing in Canada at $7.50, $10.00, $12.50, $15.00 and $17.50. These are absolutely perfect garments. You will never have to complain of poor fit, poor trimmings or poor workmanship. You will never have to complain of poor wear, for there is no wool. Come to us and we will be pleased to show you the best clothing values.

Allowed Something for Nothing.

The farmer is one man to whom farmers are often the goods sold for over the counter, and it is the farmer who gets the least quality. If their goods are bought from the various city premises, there in other goods, or the quality of their goods, they get honest, straight legitimate and reliable goods and we believe that a farmer should get such a treatment. Is it reasonable that the quality of the goods sold to farmers should be inferior to that sold to others? Is it reasonable that a merchant has to allow something for nothing? Is it least reasonable?

A GRAND SUCCESS.

The second annual ball of the Napanee Canoe Club was held in the Town Hall here on Wednesday evening, and was a decided success from every standpoint. The Gananoque Orchestra furnished excellent music and were highly complimented on their efficiency. The decorations were elaborate, and the hall looked even prettier, if possible, than on many previous occasions of this nature. Great credit is due the lady patronnesses for the excellence of the supper, after which dancing was resumed and continued until the wee sma' hours. The large crowd in attendance pronounced this function the best ever, and Mr. E. R. Fitzgerald, the Secretary, is to be congratulated on the success of the undertaking, as well as the many willing workers who assisted him. Before supper was served, Dr. Leonard presented prizes for the regatta held in the afternoon, as follows: D. Jemmett, 1st prize, for highest points; H. Stacey, 2d prize. C. Winter, 1st prize, for highest points, junior. Also the Commodor's cup for highest points during the year was won by B. Jemmett.

BASEBALL MATCH.

On Saturday last a friendly game of baseball was pulled off at the Napanee driving park, by a junior team from Deseronto and a junior team of Napanee. Napanee won the toss and took the field. Smiling John Wilson went into the box (fat enough from it), for Napanee, and held the heavy hitters from Deseronto to a single hit. In Napanee's half they got a man, with two out; then the pitcher pulled himself together and struck the third man out. In the second innings Napanee made one run, and in the third Deseronto scored two. Then the Deseronto thought they had better change pitchers, and got Steacy in to pitch. Steacy's last three innings were in succession. In the fourth Napanee went after Roach, and when the fog had cleared away and the runs were counted up, it was found that four men had crossed the rubber. Deseronto did not score again until the seventh, when a catch hit and an error left them one run to the good. Napanee was not the only one who scored; Napanee went after Roach again and scored three runs. In the eighth, a third was put in stand against our heroes, but he proved an easy mark for the hairy looking locals, but fast fielding choked Napanee from scoring. No more scoring was done by either side, and the final score stood 8-2 in favor of Napanee. One feature of the game was the superb pitching of Wilson and the fast fielding of Fitzpatrick and Stark. Deseronto also tried to do some grand stand plays, but generally ended in an error.

Score by innings—

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9

OBITUARY.

On Sunday last the death occurred of Miss Sarah Jane Vrooe, at the home of her uncle, Mr. Wm. Dafoe, Napanee. Miss Vrooe had been quite an invalid for some months, and for a number of years Miss Vrooe was a very patient sufferer. Besides her uncle she leaves two brothers, Monroe, of Napanee, and George, of Detroit, Mich. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon, interment being made in Bayside cemetery. The family have the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends in their bereavement.

RALLY DAY SERVICE.

Rally Day service in the Western Methodist church last Sunday was a very profitable and pleasing one. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers. The singing by the school was bright and joyful. Paul's First Missionary Journey, given by the Primary class, under the direction of Mrs. Smith, their teacher, was certainly very interesting. Master Lot Mine rendered "Oh City Fair" very sweetly. The duet "Abide With Me" sung by Misses Alla and Muriel Paull was beautiful, their voices harmonizing so well together while the solo of Miss Alla Paull, "A Dream of Paradise", came as a great surprise to those who never heard her before. Every word was distinctly understood by all, and her manner is pleasing and unaffected. The two young ladies are pupils of Madame Cochrane, and certainly do her credit. Miss Myrtle Stevens' talk on "What the Sunday School means to Young People" was listened to with great attention, for it was extra good. Mr. Gibbard is certainly to be congratulated on having such talent in his school. Mr. H. V. Pralliet takes Mr. Gibbard's position as superintendent while the latter is absent in the west.

FINE ATTRACTION COMING SEPT. 29th.

"A Knight for a Day", the merry musical comedy that has had such a success at the Bijou Opera House in Belleville, Ont., will be the attraction at the Brisco Opera House on Wednesday, Sept. 29th, with a splendid cast and stage equipment. The first scene of this play is laid in Evanston, Ill., and the second scene on the island of Corsica. "A Knight for a Day" is a musical comedy of the customary kind as regards both music and matter, but it is an unusually good entertainment, and the admirers of musical comedy, abundant vaudeville and dashing, strenuous stage movement will have nothing to regret if they patronize the performance. The music is among the best that Mr. Hilliard has selected to his credit, and he is already ordered high in the musical comedy market. He has written a number of tunes, all of which will be whistled, and he has orchestrated them with a taste and great fantasy which add to their effectiveness and give them a value above that possessed by those of the average musical comedy score. "I'd Like Another Situation," "Like I Used to See Saw", "The Little Girl in Blue", "I'm Married Now" and "Whistle When You Walk Out," all will know the widespread popularity that is enjoyed by catchy music of this variety. One of the enjoyable features of this entertainment is the American Beauty Chorus, which adds greatly to the charm and tunefulness of the piece.

LESSENED PRODUCTION.

August records received at Ottawa from members of cow testing associations indicate that in most districts the flow of milk is well up to the average. In some localities there is but a very slight decrease from July yield of milk, and light in the increasing richness shows a truly higher yield of fat.

In other localities, unfortunately, there is a very marked shrinkage, as much as 25 lbs. and over per cow. Some milk per cow less than in July. Many dairy farmers have accordingly vowed that next year will and see them caught without any provision for maintaining the flow, but they have determined to provide soiling crop, and if possible build a silo, so as to ensure succulent feed for production in July and August such men are wise.

Some districts have as high averages as 550 lbs. milk, and 29 lbs. fat in August. Such wise dairymen had made provision of suitable feed. Others less provident had to be content with a yield of 350 lbs. milk and 21 lbs. fat per cow, while here and there the average yield was down to 200 lbs. milk and 16 lbs. fat. Such men might well copy the methods of their brother farmers who regularly secure the larger yields. Selection of the best cows can be made intelligently when records are kept of each cow.

DETROIT OPERA HOUSE "A KNIGHT FOR A DAY."

Mr. Bertram C. Whitney's well-dressed and tuneful musical comedy, "A Knight for a Day," will be the attraction at the Detroit opera house this week. Although this is a third engagement here since the early winter of 1907, it still goes on with a cheerful swing, and its youthful comedy seems as well calculated to beguile as of laughter that it was one of its claims to public notice. Neatness is a quality of this work, and of the representation of it by Mr. Whitney's company of actors. Courteousness of conduct is entirely foreign.

The ornamentation, which includes, of course, pretty costumes, is correct and the notables, is quite in the Whitney way, and the action everywhere shows the practiced hand of the master of stage business. Mr. Gus Sohlke, whose inventiveness in musical—and whose deals always involve the refined, the graceful and the arrival at something with a thought in it.

The setting of act second is unqualified beautiful. The chorus is an engaging band of young women, and the dresses that Mr. Sohlke has introduced lend special distinction to the work. Among the especially striking numbers of this act are "Life is a Sweetheart," "The Little Girl in Blue" and "The Garden of Dreams."

The first act finale, with its illusion of falling stars and its concrete face of pretty girls, holding illuminated flowers between their lips, is a novel effect in which color and grace struggle for preeminence.—Detroit Free Press, Sept. 7th, 1909.

Bobby is the son of a Methodist minister and has had the experience of "moving" four times in the space of his eight years' life. He is therefore strongly of the itinerant system which is the bane of the Methodist clergy.

Some time ago an elderly minister was visiting Bobby's father and directed his attention to the small boy, asking him many questions of a semi-theological nature. Finally the course of the conversation turned to heaven, and Bobby was asked concerning the abode of the blest.

"Yes," said the youngster, with a shrill of deep weariness, "I know. It's the last place we're going to move to."

This was overheard in the lobby of a hotel when a bus load of traveling salesmen came in from the train. Every man of them, as he signed the register, paused to shake hands with the hotel clerk loudly and call fellow who had been there many years.

"Couldn't it, though?" said Uncle Dave. "You fellows would come in here, and if I'd say, 'Where's Uncle?' the clerk would say, 'Where's Uncle Dave?' And the clerk would say, 'Why, didn't you hear? He died a month ago.' And then you'd say, 'Well, I'll be darned!' That's too bad. Say, what'll dinner be ready for?'

Baby's Teething Time Is a Troublous One.

When baby is teething the whole household is upset. The tender little gums are swollen and inflamed and the poor child often cries day and night, wearing the mother out and keeping the rest of the family on edge. Mrs. Jean Boutot, St. Marguerite, Que., says: "When I sent for Baby's Own Tablets my son was months old baby was suffering greatly from teething troubles and I had only got any rest. IF your baking goes wrong, investigate — find the cause. Look to your stove, your yeast, your baking methods.

If you succeed in pinning the trouble down to the flour—then take up the flour question in dead earnest.

Consider that flour, to be successful from a baking standpoint, must be fine to produce light bread or pastry, pure to make that bread or pastry wholesome, and rich in nutriment to make it nourishing.

Ogilvie's Royal Household has these three qualities in the greatest degree.

Ogilvie's Royal Household is milled by the most modern methods, and made only from Manitoba Hard Wheat which contains the highest percentage of nutriment.

Rheumatism Driven rom the Blood.

A Remedy Which Assists Nature Makes a Cure Which is Permanent as This Case Proves.

Every sufferer from rheumatism wants to be cured and to stay cured. The prospect of the frequent return of the trouble is not attractive to anybody who has gone through one paroxysm. That statement aim simply to "keep down" the rheumatic poisons in the blood. The cure treatment by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has proved by hundreds of cures that it builds up the blood to a point that enables it to cast out these poisons through the regular channels of excretion —the bowels, the kidneys and the skin. When this is done the rheumatism is permanently cured, and so long as the blood is kept pure and rich the patient will be free from rheumatism. Mrs. Thomas McNeil, Richibucto, N.B., says—"Permit me to bear testimony to the worth of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a cure for acute rheumatism. My son, Frederick, was subject to this painful trouble from the age of eight or ten years, and during this time periodical attacks were frequently occur. His last attack was a most severe one, and the pain were excruciating in the extreme, shooting through the various parts of the body to such an extent that even the application of any remedy would cause him to cry out with fear, and he had a free sufferer of any kind. Our family doctor, a man of skill and experience, applied many remedies without avail, and could only relieve the patient other than that the warmer weather then approaching might prove beneficial. Just at this time we noticed where some person similarly afflicted had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try them. He kept on using the Pills, each succeeding box seeming to improve most, until he had taken ten boxes, when all pain and aches had disappeared, and although his mode of life is that of a lumberman, and consequently exposed to both wet and cold, he has had no return of any of the symptoms whatever since. We consider the Pills entirely due to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or they will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LAKE—HENRY.

A quiet but very pretty home wedding took place on Wednesday evening, Sept. 15th, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Lake, Dundas st., Deseronto, when their only daughter, Florence Pearl, was united in marriage to Mr. Frederick Howard Henry, of Belleville. At the hour of 8.30 the bride entered the parlor on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Mrs. I. Allom, of Deseronto, and took her place under a canopy of white asters and ivy.

The bride wore a semi-princess dress of ivory duchess satin trimmed with lgaced chiffon and seed pearls, with hand-embroidered train. A novelty of her attire was the wearing of maltese lace worn by the bride's mother on the occasion of her marriage. Her bouquet was not was held in position by a crown of white bridal roses and maiden-hair fern. The bridesmaid, Miss Luella Parrott, of Millhaven, Ont., was dressed in cream henrietta, trimmed with satin and embroidered with mustache braid. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and carnations. The ring-bearer, Miss Gladys Bush, of Foley, cousin of the bride, was attired in blue silk and carried the ring on a white satin pillow. The groom was supported by Mr. Fred B. Lake, of Toronto. The wedding ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. G. H. Copeland, of the Methodist church.

The house was tastefully decorated with cut flowers, and the bride's table adorned with smilax and sweet peas. About forty guests partook of a sumptuous repast, of dainty and delicious viands, after which the happy young couple showered with confetti, left on the midnight trains for Sombra, Ont., the groom's former home, First Mich., and other western points.

The bride's going away gown was of navy blue cloth with black moire hat trimmed with jet and plumes. She was the recipient of many beautiful presents and will be much missed in her home church by a wide circle of friends. Besides her social popularity she took an active interest in church work.

Upon their return they will reside in Belleville, where the groom is a valued worker on the Commercial staff of the Ontario Business College.

Lunch was served on the lawn to about thirty. All had plenty and enjoyed a pleasant afternoon. Following is the address.

Dear Miss Mellwaine,—It is with pleasure more or less mingled with sorrow that we, the pupils of your school, have met to do honor to the occasion of your sudden departure from our midst, and also to show our fondness towards you as a teacher, in which you have been engaged the last four years and a half. Not only to the credit of yourself, but to the children of this school section, we certainly express our sorrow in parting with you, and hope that the tie of love in our hearts for you shall never be severed, and in your intended home may you ever remember us as your loving pupils.

We take pleasure in presenting you with these small tokens, a fruit and salad dish, on the part of our pupils, and we sincerely hope that you may ever cherish a pleasant and happy recollection of us. Signed

HOMES—HINCHEY

On Tuesday, 21st inst., at eleven a.m., the marriage of Thomas Stuart Homes to Eliza H. Hinchey, was solemnized at Christ Church, Tamworth, amidst a host of friends, who had gathered to witness the happy couple united in holy wedlock. The Rev. Mr. Jones officiated, and the bride, who was gowned in cream serge with hat to match, was given away by her father, Mr. Hugh Hinchey, of Enterprise. Mrs. Wm. Geo. Howes presided at the organ. After the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the home of Mr. Thos. Hinchey, where a sumptuous breakfast was served to many guests. The charming and graceful young bride is very popular, and all her friends rejoice that she and her husband are to reside on the homestead. The wedding presents were numerous, costly and useful.

DEATH OF ROY THOMPSON.

Mr. Roy Thompson died quite suddenly at the residence of his aunt, Napanee, on Friday morning last, aged 28 years. Deceased came here with his wife and child from Peterboro', a few weeks ago, but was not feeling well, and thought that he might be benefitted by the change. He had returned the previous evening from Scotland, where he had been spending a few days at the home of his father-in-law, and was apparently feeling fairly well, but on Friday morning was taken suddenly ill, and expired in a few minutes. Roy was well and favorably known in Napanee, having lived here most all his life, with the exception of the past four or five years, which he spent in Kingston and Peterboro. He leaves three brothers, Gregory, Toronto; Everett, of Pasco, Wash., and Frederick, of Napanee. The funeral on Sunday afternoon was largely attended by his many friends and acquaintances, showing the high esteem in which deceased was held. Services were conducted at the R. C. church by Rev. Father O'Connor, after which the remains were placed in the R. C. vault.

NEWBURGH.

On Sunday evening last Rev. J. Gandier, of the Presbyterian church, took leave of his congregation as their pastor. Mr. Gandier has reached the Biblical span of allotted life, and now, after more than forty years in the active ministry of the church, is honorably entitled to retirement from active duties as a pastor. The church was well filled on Sunday evening by a congregation keenly attentive to the closing hour of an official capacity of the one who had for exactly nineteen years been the shepherd of the flock. The Methodist service had been withdrawn, that this congregation might have the privilege of testifying their regard for the veteran minister on this occasion. Mr. Gandier chose as his text the portion of St. Paul's farewell address to the elders of Ephesus found in Acts 20: 32. Naturally his remarks were largely retrospective. He had sought with fidelity throughout his ministry not only to preach a pure gospel, but to live it. And though he had never felt quite satisfied with himself there was much to be thankful for in results achieved. He did not fail to remind himself and his hearers that there had been failings both on his part and on theirs, and that in consequence much blessing had been missed that under otherwise have been enjoyed. It was an impressive lesson that the best and truest service is rendered when our complete acceptance of the gospel of the grace of God. This gospel is absolutely the only basis of spiritual light and security and progress. He earnestly commended his hearers, as a church and individually, to this gospel. Thanks was expressed for the unvarying patience with which his admonitions had been received and for the uniform kindness extended to him always. The old ers, managers, Sunday School and Christian Endeavor workers were all remembered, and the whole church for their liberality. There was no regret in having drawn the reasons for his withdrawal from the responsibilities in which the church as a whole should feel a share. Though parted as pastor and people, they would still be united in heart and continue to strive for a common end the glory of God. At the close of the sermon, Mr. T. A. Dunwoody, read to the retiring pastor an address of appreciation signed by Messrs. P. Fairbairn and J. Samp- son on behalf of the congregation to which Mr. Gandier feelingly and feelingly replied.

Reference has previously been made in this correspondence to the retirement of Mr. Gandier. He and his family enjoy the universal respect and regard of this community, and are glad to know that their home will be retained here. A couple of weeks Mr. and Mrs. Gandier and Miss Gandier will leave for Caledonia, where they will visit son Rev. Metcalfe Gandier, for the winter.

The movement which has for some time been on foot towards the establishing of a rural telephone system in this locality seems likely to soon materialize into something tangible. There has been considerable discussion in connection with the project, but no definite organization has been formed. Mr. Forrester, representing the Northern Electric and Manufacturing Co., of Montreal, is in town this week in connection with the rural telephone proposition, and arrangements have been made for a public meeting to be held on Monday night next in the school house at Wesley, when Mr. Forrester will address all interested in the subject, with a view to explaining the best methods of organizing such a system and the probable expense connected with it. The rural telephone has ceased to be an experiment. Many independent companies are operating most successfully in many parts of the Province, and the day has come when the rural phone is regarded not as a luxury but a necessity to progressive people. At the meeting in Wesley on Monday night there should be a representative gathering of the citizens of the community, when an intelligent discussion of the question may be had. The meeting will open at 7.30 sharp.

SHE COULDN'T HELP IT

"For the love of a man," a Topeka girl wrote, and then took carbolic acid and died. It was the reading of the incident that doctors have agreed was the cause of a certain Atchison woman's serious illness, says the Atchison Globe. She gave a sniff of contempt when she read of a girl who killed herself "for the love of a man," and sniffed so hard that the sniff went in and affected her vital organs. The woman is married, has seven children, and, like a farm hand in harvest, thought her husband is in good circumstances, and hasn't had an outing in 10 years. Doctors say that this sniffing in contempt is apt to prove serious, when a woman sniffs as hard as this woman sniffed. She put in that sniff all the disappointment, all the contempt, all the heartaches of 10 years, and the sniff simply shattered her whole system, and displaced half her interior.

COLOUR TIME

Autumn like a day new born,
Floods across the sleeping land,
Ripening the fields of corn,
Till yellow throngs are nodding hand in hand.

Slowly through the world of mist,
Golden-red the sun moves down,
Till the wooded hill-tops kissed
Are smoking crimson-like a plundered town.

France may sing of coloured lands,
Vineyards purple in the fall,
Emerald waters on white sands,
A yellow grove behind a gray-tiered wall.

Chalk-white roads through painted bloom,
Crooked hills of crooded trees
Slashed with lavender and broom,
And scarlet sails against the vivid seas.

But I know a woodland lane,
Where when autumn drifts and fills,
Colours burn as rich again,
And overflowing the silent hills.

COUNTY TEACHERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

From records being received at Ottawa from members of new teaching associations there is apparent a very marked variation in the earning power of the various vocations in the same herd. There is every indication that many of last season's variations being repeated, such factors will show in many cases twenty-five dollar cows in the same herd as ten-dollar cows in the same herd. In herds this is portrayed to forty dollar cows, for instance, in a herd of fifty cows an eight year old cow gives actually 4200 lbs. milk and 180 lbs. butter-fat than a five year old in the same stable during the same time. Placing a value of only 20 cents per pound on the butter-fat would add this cow to earn over forty dollars more than the other.

This is the important point to notice: there are hundreds of farmers in the Dominion in whose herds just such remarkable differences between cows can be found, but the owners are absolutely unaware of the extent of such differences and will continue to be without the information until such essential as those dairy of those margins until a record is kept of the production of each individual cow in the herd. Just a few minutes figuring per month will enable anybody to the interest of the daily milking, besides providing a sure guide for reaping maximum profit per cow. The keeping of such records may have a special attraction for some younger member of the family.

A TRUE FISHERMAN.

The officers whose duty it is to enforce the fish and game laws in the Rocky mountain States have numerous difficulties, said Edward S. Powell, jr., a deputy fish and game warden of Colorado.

"As to the violation of the fishing laws, boys give us the greater amount of trouble," he said the other day, "because they fish on Sunday in and out of season. One boy has successfully eluded us for four years. We have been trying to stock a stream with black bass in his neighborhood. He insists on fishing in that stream the year round.

"I happened upon him last fall just after he had made a good catch. I took the string of fish out of the water to examine them, but only catfish, sunfish, perch and suckers on the line. There was no closed season on those fish. I walked down the stream a few feet farther and there I found a large black bass wiggling on a string, pinned down with a stone. I asked him what he was doing with that fish.

"That one?" he replied. "Why, you see, he's been taking my bait all the morning, and I just tied him up there until I got through fishing."

After Six Years Of Indigestion

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Made a Permanent Cure.

There are many medicines that will relieve indigestion for a time, but there are few that will make a permanent cure. But there is one medicine that is a sure cure that medicine is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have cured thousands of cases—many of them of years standing. Cases like that of Mr. John E. Seale of Montreal, Que., after many other medicines have been tried and found worthless. Mr. Seale says:—"For nearly six years I suffered with indigestion. During all that time I was constantly taking medicine for the trouble, but never got more than temporary relief. Finally I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after using them for some time the trouble disappeared and I am now able to eat heartily without the least trace of the suffering I formerly endured. I can, from my own experience, strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a permanent cure for indigestion."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are good for every disease that good blood is good for, simply because they make good blood—that is why they cure rheumatism, heart palpitation, indigestion, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance and the ailments of girlhood and womanhood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by all medicine dealers, or direct by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WHERE DANGER LIES.

The Dreadnoughts will displace and render useless a lot of ships of war of the old style. The Dreadnoughts perhaps will scarcely be launched before we shall be called upon to pay for the building of aeroplanes. It is vain to repeat that Germany, though her temper may not be sweet, and may have been stirred by this wrangling, has shown no hostile intention, took no advantage of the Boer war, is not flush of money, and would manifestly lose commercially much more than she could gain by a war with a first-rate power. Her Emperor, who sends powerful enough to name his own Prime Minister, is on the best of terms with our king. If the people who live by honest labour in both countries—their faithful advisers, could prevail, there would be no danger. They can hardly be said when the masters of opinion are sensational journalists or commercial profiteers, whose alarms are naturally seconded by military ambition. How different would the world look be if all that has been spent in destruction by war during the last two centuries had been spent in works of peace! We would not suffer our country to endure scorn or insult—but surely it is the duty of every reasonable person and true patriot at this juncture to uplift his voice against race-long disturbance of the peace.

A SOPHIST

A certain Catholic archbishop, who is said whether it was a genuine case or not, refused to allow the life of a woman to be saved for her age, replied:

"All he says he desired as a statement made by one rational being to another being, with the intent to deceive. Now, as no rational being would think of asking a woman to live with the expectation of being deceived truthfully, one of the elements of the lie is lacking, and the woman's statement cannot strictly speaking, be defined as such.

WHEAT GRADES HIGH.

The Grain and Commerce Department reports that 9,034 cars of wheat were inspected at Winnipeg during the three weeks ending Sept. 21st, and 98 per cent. of the wheat inspected graded high, namely, No. 2 northern or better. One half of the cars graded No. 1 northern, and 110 cars graded No. 1 hard. Last year, during the same period, 6,530 cars were inspected, and only 70 per cent. graded high. Licenses issued to buyers already total 1,973, an increase of 176 over last year's total.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Five people were seriously injured in an automobile accident, which occurred near Cataraqui, early on Saturday afternoon. The car which figured in the mishap is owned by Felix Benjamin, of Yarker, and he was driving it at the time. He suffered severe injuries, as did also his wife, daughter, Mrs. Connolly and her daughter, who were visiting at their place, from Toronto. Mrs. Benjamin suffered the most, and is under treatment at the general hospital. The others were able to return home. The rim of one of the wheels on the car worked itself out of position, causing the blowing up of the tire, and the car afterwards toppled over. It was travelling at a very fast rate of speed, and the fact that there was no loss of life is nothing less than a miracle.

Mrs. Benjamin suffered a compound fracture of the thigh, near the knee joint, and was severely bruised.

Mr. Benjamin had his thigh and hip badly bruised, and also a bad wound in the side of his face, bruises below the right ear, and bruises on the right arm, caused from coming in contact with the glass in the front of the car.

Miss Benjamin suffered severe bruises about the right arm and thigh, and a general shaking up.

Mrs. Connolly received severe bruises and had her right wrist sprained.

The party were on their way to Kingston when the accident occurred, and had started before. Mr. Benjamin was travelling at a lively clip, the roads being in good condition. When nearing Cataraqui the mishap to the rim of one of the wheels took place, and Mr. Benjamin, who is an experienced and careful driver, had no chance to avoid the accident. The car swerved to one side and was heading in a direct line for a telegraph pole. Mr. Benjamin succeeded in turning a little to the side, but in less time than it takes to tell the story, the big car toppled over, crashing on to the occupants. A farmer, driving a grain wagon, happened along, and he assisted the injured into his vehicle, and drove them to Cataraqui. A hurried call was sent to Dr. Bogart, Kingston, and Dr. Oldham, of Yarker, brother in-law of Mr. Benjamin, and Corbett's ambulance was also telephoned for.

Dr. Bogart went out in his automobile, and made record time. He found all the injuries, and as Mrs. Benjamin's case was the most serious, she was removed to the general hospital in the ambulance, accompanied by her husband, and the latter were driven to Yarker. Dr. Oldham came on to Kingston, and assisted Dr. Bogart in the setting of the broken limb. Mrs. Benjamin spent a good night, and on Sunday was reported to be doing as well as could be expected. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin are well known in Napanee, and the news of the accident was received with sincere regret.

The occupants of the auto had a terrible experience, one which they will have reason to remember for a long time.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

ON THE RIVER CLARE.

Along the verdant valley wind—
Among sweet grasses of varied line,
The gleaming river's calm continues
Like serpent coiling in the grass.

The sun with stately march ascending
Scatt'ring his rays in shade mocks
Each silver glass—sparkling bends
A- gladsome o'er the coming noon.

Resounding over the crystal lake,
Murmurs the throbbing matin bell;
Its solemn toll- the songs take
And them with its thunder-swell!

A rolling mist of dewy smoke
Soars to the sky in wreathing
Straightway the nymphs the haze revoke
And now the purple flour it crowds.

The livent vapour sweeps the pond,
Ablaze with gorgeous tints which change
As if Ciros revolved her wand
Over soils which aerial regions range

Lo! yonder silent heron stark
As sentinel, like river-sprite
From marble wrought in Sunium dark,
Be hand inspired with nervous might

He slowly spreads his pond'rous wings
The eathen's deep expanse to seek—
Doubtless some god within him sings
To urge him through yon snowy peak.

What ecstasy it were to wend
A silent flight through space with him,
And all the mind with nature blend
While cares dissolve in distance dim.

Kidney Disease For Years

This Well Known Gentleman Strongly Recommends "Fruit-a-tives" to all Sufferers.

JAMES DINGWALL, Esq.

"I have much pleasure in testifying to the almost marvellous benefit I have derived from taking "Fruit-a-tives." I was a lifelong sufferer from Chronic Constipation, and the only medicine I ever found to do me any real good was "Fruit-a-tives." This medicine relieved when everything else failed. Last spring I had a severe ATTACK OF BLADDER TROUBLE WITH KIDNEY TROUBLE, and "Fruit-a-tives" cured these complaints at once when the physician attending me had practically given me up. I am now over eighty years of age and I can strongly recommend "Fruit-a-tives" for chronic constipation and bladder and kidney trouble. This medicine is very mild like fruit, is easy to take, but most effective in action."

The Younger Set

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS, Author of "The Fighting Chance," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Robert W. Chambers

Neergard's small, close set eyes were focused on a spot just beyond Selwyn's left shoulder.

"Suppose you sound him," he suggested, "in strictest"—

"Naturally," cut in Selwyn dryly and, turning to his littered desk, opened the first letter his hand encountered. Now that his head was turned, Neergard looked full at the back of his neck for a long minute, then went out silently.

* * * * * * *

That night Selwyn stopped at his sister's house before going to his own rooms and, finding Austin alone in the library, laid the matter before him exactly as Neergard had put it.

"You see," he added, "that I'm a sort of an ass about business methods. This furtive pouncing on a thing and clubbing other people's money out of them with it—this style acquiring land that is necessary to an unsuspecting neighbor and then holding him up—I don't like. There's always something of this sort that prevents my cordial co-operation with Neergard—always something in the schemes which hints of—of squeezing—of something underground."

"Like the water which he's going to squeeze out of the wells?"

Selwyn laughed.

"Phil," said his brother-in-law, "if you think anybody can do a profitable business except at other people's expense you are an ass."

"Am I?" asked Selwyn, still laughing frankly.

"Certainly. The land is there plain enough for anybody to see. It's always been there. It's likely to remain for a few eons, I fancy."

"You along comes Neighbor Julius Neergard, the only man who seems to have brains enough to see the present value of that great tract the Blowitha people. Everybody else had the same chance. Nobody except Neergard knew enough to take it. Why shouldn't he profit by it?"

"Yes, but if he'd be satisfied to cut it up into lots and do what is fair"—

"Cut it up into nothing! Man alive, do you suppose that Slowitha people would let him? They've only a few thousand acres. They've got to control that land. What good is their club without it? Do you imagine they'd let a town grow up on three sides of their precious game preserve? And, besides, I'll bet you that half of their streams and lakes rise on other people's property—and that Neergard knows it—the Dutch fox!"

They discussed Neergard's scheme for a little while longer. Austin,

"Our investments and our loans are of a different character," he explained, "but I have no doubt that Fane, Harmon & Co."—

"Why, both Fane and Harmon are members of the club," laughed Selwyn. "You don't expect Neergard to go to them?"

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

DARE YOU EAT HEARTILY?

Or Is Every Good Meal Followed By Discomfort?

So certain are we that "Little Digesters" will cure Indigestion every time—for every person—for YOU—that we will give you your money back without a word if they fail.

You can enjoy a good, hearty meal of wholesome food three times a day, if you take a tablet after each meal.

Read how "Little Digesters" cured Mr. Thody.

"For two years I suffered with Indigestion, and obtained no relief from anything I took, including several prescriptions from prominent physicians. Every meal was followed by acute pain until I feared to eat, consequently became run down for lack of nourishment. "Little Digesters" were recommended to me by a friend and I tried them with remarkable results, two boxes completely curing me. It is three months since I took any, and I have not suffered a pain, no matter how heartily I eat. I would certainly recommend them to anybody suffering with Indigestion." (Signed) E. THODY.

Gerard's heavy features. Perhaps he thought that Fane and Harmon and Jack Rathven were not above exploiting their own club under certain circumstances; but, whatever his reflection, he said nothing further and, suggesting that Selwyn remain to dine, went off to dress.

A few moments later he returned, breathless and conciliatory.

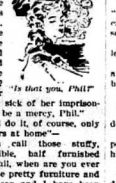
"I forgot Nina and I are dining at the Orchils'. Come up a moment. She wants to speak to you."

So they took the rose tinted rococo elevator. Austin went away to his own quarters, and Selwyn tapped at Nina's boudoir.

"Is that you, Phil? One minute, Watson is finishing my hair. Come in now and kindly keep your distance, my friend. Do you suppose I want Rosamond to know what brand of war paint I use?"

"Rosamund?" he repeated, with a good humored shrug. "It's likely, isn't it?"

"Certainly it's likely. You'd never know you were telling her anything, but she'd extract every detail in ten seconds. I understand she adores you, Phil. Eileen is furious that at being left here all alone. She's practically well, and she's to dine with Drina in the library. Would you be good enough to dine there with them? Eileen, poor child, is heartily sick of her imprisonment. It would be a mercy, Phil."



"Is that you, Phil?"

"Why, yes, I'll do it, of course, only I've some matters at home"—

"Home! You call those stuffy, smoky, impossible, half furnished rooms home! Phil, when are you ever going to get some pretty furniture and art things? Eileen and I have been talking it over, and we've decided to go there and see what you need and then order it, whether you like it or not."

"Thanks," he said, laughing. "It's just what I've tried to avoid. I've got things where I want them now, but I knew it was too comfortable to last. Boots said that some woman would be sure to be good to me with an art nouveau rocking chair."

"A perfect sample of man's gratitude," said Nina, exasperated, "for I've ordered two beautiful art nouveau rocking chairs, one for you and one for Mr. Lansing. Now you can go and humiliate poor little Eileen, who took so much pleasure in planning with me for your comfort. As for your friend Boots, he's unspeakable—with my compliments."

Selwyn stayed until he made peace with his sister, then he mounted to the nursery to "lean over" the younger children and preside at supper. This being accomplished, he descended to the library, where Eileen Erroll in a flimsy, lace draped gown, full of tur quoise tints, reclined with her feet around Drina amid heaps of cushions, watching the waitress prepare a table for two.

He took the fresh, cool hand she extended and sat down on the edge of her couch.

"All O. K. again?" he inquired, retaining Eileen's hand in his.

"Thank you—quite. Are you really going to dine with us? Are you sure you want to? Oh, I know you've given up some very gay dinner somewhere"—

"I was going to dine with Boots when Nina rescued me. Poor Boots! I think I'll telephone"—

"Telephone him to come here!" begged Drina. "Would he come? Oh, please—I'd love to have him."

"I wish you would ask him," said Eileen; "it's been so lonely and stupid to lie in bed with a red nose and flaky eyes and pains in one's back and limbs. Please do let us have a party."

Eileen reclined with her arm around Drina.

So Selwyn went to the telephone and presently returned, saying that Boots was over-beloved and would be present at the festivities, and Drina, enraptured, ordered flowers to be brought from the dining room and a large table set for four, with particular pomp and circumstance.

Mr. Archibald Lansing arrived very promptly, a short, slender, young man of clean and powerful build, with dark, keen eyes always alert and humorous lips ever on the edge of laughter under his dark mustache.

His manner with Drina was always delightful, a mixture of self repressed idolatry and busily naive belief in a thorough understanding between them to exclude Selwyn from their sympathy.

"This Selwyn fellow here!" he exclaimed. "I earnest him over the phone we'd not tolerate him, Drina. I explained to him very carefully that you and I were dining together in strictest privacy."

"He begged so hard," said Eileen. "Will somebody place an extra pillow for Drina?"

They seized the same pillow fiercely, confronting each other; massacre appeared imminent.

"Two pillows," said Drina sweetly, and extermination was averted. The child laughed happily, covering one of Boots' hands with both of hers.

"So you're left the service, Mr. Lansing?" began Eileen, tying back and looking smilingly at Boots.

"Had to, Miss Erroll. Seven millionaires ran into my quarters and chased me out and down Broadway into the offices of the Westchester Air Line company. Then these seven merciless millionaires in buckram bound and gagged me, stuffed my pockets full of salary and forced me to type-write a fourful and secret oath to serve them for five long, weary years. That's a sample of how the wealthy grind the noses of the poor, isn't it, Drina?"

The child slipped her hand from his, smiling uncertainly.

"You don't mean all that, do you?"

"Indeed, I do, sweetheart."

"Are you not a soldier lieutenant any more, then?" she inquired, horribly disappointed.

"Only a private in the workman's battalion, Drina."

"I don't care," retorted the child obstinately. "I like you just as much."

"How tall you're growing, Drina," remarked Selwyn.

"Probably the early spring weather," added Boots. "You're twelve, aren't you?"

"Thirteen," said Drina gravely.

"Almost time to elope with me," nodded Boots.

"I'll do it now," she said—"as soon as my new gowns are made—if you'll take me to Manila. Will you? I believe my Aunt Alice is there"—

She caught Eileen's eye and stopped short. "I forgot," she murmured. "I beg your pardon, Uncle Philip."

Boots was talking very fast and laughing a great deal. Eileen's plans claimed her undivided attention. Selwyn quietly finished his claret. The child looked at them all.

"By the ways," said Boots abruptly, "what's the matter with Gerald? He came in before noon looking very seedy." Selwyn glanced up quietly.

"Wasn't he at the office?" asked Eileen anxiously.

"Oh, yes," replied Selwyn. "He felt a trifle under the weather, so I sent him home."

"Is it the grip?"

"No-no, I believe not."

"Do you think he had better have a doctor? Where is he?"

"He was here," observed Drina commonly, "and father was angry with him."

"What?" exclaimed Eileen. "When?" "This morning before father went downtown."

Both Selwyn and Lansing cut in coolly, dismissing the matter with a careless word or two, and coffee was served, cambric tea in Drina's case.

"Come on," said Boots, slipping a bride rose into Drina's curls. "I'm ready for confidences."

"Confidences" had become an established custom with Drina and Boots. It meant that every time they saw one another they were pledged to tell each other everything that had occurred in their lives since their last meeting.

So Drina, excitedly requesting to be excused, jumped up and, taking Lansing's hand in hers, led him to a sofa in a distant corner, where they immediately installed themselves and began an earnest and whispered exchange of confidences, punctuated by little whirlwinds of laughter from the child.

Chapter 8

EILEEN settled deeper among her pillows as the table was removed, and Selwyn drew his chair forward.

"What is the matter with Gerald?" she asked. "Could you tell me?"

"Nothing serious is the matter, Eileen."

"Is he not ill."

"Not very."

She lay still a moment; then, with the slightest gesture, "Come here."

He seated himself near her. She laid her hand fearlessly on his arm.

"Tell me," she demanded. And as he remained silent, "Once," she said, "I came suddenly into the library. Austin and Gerald were there. Austin seemed to be very angry with my brother. I heard him say something that worried me, and I slipped out before they saw me."

Selwyn remained silent.

"Was that it?"

"I—don't know what you heard."

"Don't you understand me?"

"Not exactly."

"Well, then"—she crimsoned—"has Gerald m-misbehaved again?"

"What did you hear Austin say?" he demanded.

"I heard—something about dissipation. He was very angry with Gerald. It is not the best way, I think, to become angry with either of us—either me or Gerald—because then we are usually inclined to do it again, whatever it is."

They laughed a little. Her fingers, which had tightened on his arm, relaxed, gave her hand full sway, and she straightened up, sitting Turk fashion and smoothed her hair, which contact with the pillows had disarranged so that it threatened to come tumbling over eyes and cheeks.

"Oh, hair, hair," she murmured, "you're Nina's despair and my endless punishment. I'd twist and pin you tight if I dared. Some day I will too. What are you looking at so curiously, Cousin Selwyn—my nose?"

"It's about the most arrestingly beautiful thing I ever saw," he said, still curious.

It was a new note in their cordial intimacy, this innocent introspection of the child. Never had it merely meant the very charming recognition of her maturity—that she was fast becoming a beautiful woman like other women, to be looked at and remembered as an individual and no longer classed vaguely as one among hundreds of the newly emerged whose soft, unstamped personalities all resembled one another.

For some time now she had cherished this tiny grudge in her heart—that he had never seemed to notice anything in particular about her except when he tried to be agreeable concerning some new gown. The contrast had become the sharper, too, since she had awakened to the admiration of other men. And the awakening was one of her convinced happiness mingled with shy surprise that the wise world should really deem her so lovely.

"A red headed girl," she said teasingly. "I thought you had better taste than—than"—

"Than to think you a raving beauty?"

"Oh," she said, "you don't think that?"

As a matter of fact he himself had become aware of it so suddenly that he had no time to think very much about it. It was rather strange, too, that he had not always been aware of it, or was it partly the mellow light from the lamp tinting her till she glowed and shimmered like a young sorceress, sitting so straight there in her turquoise silk and misty lace?

When Drina had gone to bed Boots also took his leave, and Selwyn rose, too, a troubled, careworn expression replacing the careless gayety which had made him seem so young in Miss Erroll's youthful eyes.

"Wait, Boots," he said. "I'm going home with you. Good night to Eileen, almost absently: "Good night. I'm so very glad you are well again."

"Good night," she said, looking up at him. The faintest sense of disappointment came over her—at what she did not know. Was it because in his completely altered face she recognized the instant and easy detachment from herself and what concerned her? Was it because other people, like Mr. Lansing and Miss Forrester, like her which so plainly in his face betrayed his preoccupation—had so easily replaced an intimacy which had seemed to grow newer and more delightful with every meeting?

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Are you sure this milk is free from germs?" inquired the cautious young housekeeper.

"Yes, lady," replied the milkman, unguardedly, "there's every drop of water that goes into it."

SIGNALS OF DANGER.—Have you that tired, dragged out feeling, and yet do not sleep? Have you an appetite, and yet do not relish food? Are you nervous and have dizziness? If so, your stomach is out of order and you need to-day what you do not take medicine. He that prefers health to sickness, comfort and happiness to the circumstances the wise man would prefer Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and speedily get himself in health, and strength and keep there.

So he praised his singing?"

"Yes. And he said it was Heavenly."

"Really?"

"Not something like that. He said it was unearthly."

THE MOST POPULAR PILL.—The Pill is the most popular of all forms of medicine, and of all pills Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, because they do what they are said they will do, and are not put forward in any fictitious claims to excellence. Being compact and portable, they are easily taken, they do not nauseate nor gripe, and they give relief in the most stubborn cases.

Why, Johnny, what are you crying about?"

Got a pencil?"

Well, don't you mind?"

Cruel! That's me. I was licked by the teacher."

In the causes of infant mortality cholera morbus figures frequently, and it may be said that nothing else does. It is one of the great destroyers of child life. If all mothers knew the remedies of no effective a remedy as Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the death rate could be greatly reduced. This Cordial can be given with safety to the youngest child, as there is no injurious substance in it.

So you're starting to school this week, Tommie? And what new studies do you take up?"

Gen'ral Hist'ry."

Gen'ral history, eh? And what is that about?"

I dunno. All about gen'rals, I suppose."

Much distress and sickness in children is caused by worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator gives relief by removing the cause. Give it a trial and be convinced.

Holloway's Corn Cure destroys all kinds of corns and warts, root and branch. Who, then, would endure them with such a cheap and effectual remedy within reach?

"I suppose you expect those stocks you have taken to increase in value very soon?" said the close friend.

"I don't care much about the value," answered Mr. Dumps. "All I want is for them to increase in price."

CHEAPEST OF ALL MEDICINES.—Considering the curative qualities of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil it is the cheapest medicine now offered to the public. One dose required in any ailment is small and a bottle suffices in most cases. If it is not valued at the benefit it confers it could not be purchased at any price. Since the price is so low, consumption has never been introduced and its manufacture.

Abundant Variety of Goods! Accuracy of Service!

THAT'S THE TWO HORSE TEAM THAT IS PULLING THIS BUSINESS AHEAD AS IT NEVER WENT BEFORE, AND YET SO QUIETLY (OWING TO OUR LARGE SELLING SPACE) THAT ONE DOES NOT REALIZE THAT SO MUCH BUSINESS IS GOING ON, UNTIL THE FIGURES WHICH NEVER LIE, PROVE IT.

OUR IDEA OF A STORE IS QUITE DIFFERENT FROM THE GENERAL NOTION:—THE ROBINSON CO. STORE SUPPLIES THE NEEDS OF ITS CLIENTELE EXACTLY; UNDOING ANY TRANSACTION THAT FOR ANY CAUSE WAS DONE WRONG; NOT BOOSTING GOODS BECAUSE WE NEED TO SELL THEM OR ARE OVER-ANXIOUS TO GET RID OF THEM; BUT PRESENTING THE MOST USEFUL AND MOST BEAUTIFUL GOODS FROM THE WORLD'S MARKET TO GRATIFY OUR PUBLIC'S DESIRE FOR REALLY MERITORIOUS THINGS. AND OUR PROFITS ARE NOT FROM BIG ADVANCES ON ANY ITEM WE SELL, BUT ARE RATHER IN THE FORM OF A FAIR COMMISSION FOR THE SERVICE WE RENDER.

ROBINSON'S IS THE STORE OF PEOPLE WHO WOULD AVOID COUNTERFEITS, PRETENSE, OVER-PERSUASION, THE STORE OF PEOPLE WHO REALIZE THAT GOOD GOODS ARE THE CHEAPEST AND THAT YOU FARE BETTER TO BUY ON A REASONABLE BASIS THAN TO RUN AFTER THE ALLEGED GREAT BARGAINS. ROBINSON CO.'S PRICES AVERAGE LOWEST.

Mail Order customers may order any item in this advertisement, with the assurance that we will attend to it just as carefully as if you were here personally.

LADIES' HOME JOURNAL PATTERNS
MONTHLY STYLE BOOK FREE

The problem of "How to Make a Church Sing" is solved by Charles M. Alexander, the noted evangelist and chorus leader, in the October issue of The Ladies' Home Journal. Then there are two new Gospel Hymns that will be used by Mr. Alexander during the fall and winter—"O, Friend Without Jesus" and "Are You Lonely?"

"My Unknown Daughter-in-Law" is the odd title of an unusual contribution, by Edith Ayrton Zangwill. Mrs. Ivy Fletcher Van Tassel Sutphen, daughter of Horace Fletcher, tells how to raise children by "Fletcherism."

"Belts, Buckles and Sashes," "Trinkets and Trifles" and "Odds and Ends"—articles by Mrs. Rallet—are full of ideas and useful hints. You'll want to read "The Girl Who Makes Her Own Clothes," "New and Simple Clothes for Every Occasion," "Fashions for the Young er Girls," and "For the Little People of the Family." The Ladies' Home Journal Patterns tell how to make all the dresses described in these articles. They're all new!

The Journal, itself, is on sale at our magazine counter, each month, at 15 cents per copy.

The musical comedy "A Knight for a Day", at the Brisco Opera House, on Wednesday evening, gave entire satisfaction to the large audience. OBITUARY.

Mr. S. M. Loyst, an old and respected resident of Tamworth, passed peacefully away on Sept. 14th, in his eighty-ninth year, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. N. Carscallen, St. George st., Deseronto. He had been a resident of Tamworth since 1842, and a member of the Methodist church there for nearly seventy years. He was loved by those around him, a kind neighbor and a true friend. His sickness only lasted one week and was borne with Christian fortitude. He died fully trusting in his Saviour. After a short service in Deseronto, his remains were taken to Tamworth for burial service. Many friends came to see him, and pay their last respect to an old neighbor and friend. His remains were placed beside those of his wife who predeceased him nearly two years. He leaves one daughter, Mrs. Carscallen, to mourn the loss of a loving father.

Stomach troubles would soon quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause, rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers. 46

OWES HER LIFE TO

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Vienna, W. Va.— "I feel that I owe the last ten years of my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Eleven years ago I was a walking shadow. I had been under the doctor's care but got no relief. My husband persuaded me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it worked like a charm. It relieved all my pains and misery. I advise all suffering women to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. EMMA WHEATON, Vienna, W. Va.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any similar medicine in the country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every such suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

WHAT every cook should know is, which wheat makes the best flour, and why.

Winter wheat is put into the ground in the fall, but does not ripen until the following July. It matures slowly, is soft and very starchy.

Spring wheat is sown in April or May, and ripens in August. It's a flinty, translucent wheat, rich in gluten and contains nearly twice as much nutriment as winter wheat.

Royal Household Flour

is made entirely from the hard, nutritious spring wheat, carefully selected from all the wheat of this kind grown in Canada.

Royal Household is fine, light and pure—milled by the most improved methods—in a mill as clean as your own kitchen.

Ask your grocer for Ogilvie's Royal Household — just enough to try. You won't mind the slight advance in cost when you see the results in your bread and pastry. 21

HAIR SLAUGHTER.

KILLED BY NEGLIGENCE.

Hair must have nourishment or die. If it does not have proper nourishment it will lose its vitality, grow weak, and become an easy prey to the ravages of the vicious and destructive germs of dandruff.

Parisian Sage is a hair nourisher it is the result of sincere study and experiment by one of the world's leading scientists.

It should be used regularly as a hair dressing by everyone with healthy hair, because it never fails to prevent dandruff, falling hair, and scalp disease.

But Parisian Sage is not only a preventive; it is a certain cure for dandruff; it stops itching of the scalp instantly; it makes hair grow thick and luxuriant. It is especially in demand by ladies, because it makes the hair soft, lustrous and fluffy. T. B. Wallace, the druggist, sells it under a positive guarantee to do all that is claimed for it, or money back, 50 cents for a large bottle.

A MAXIM GONE WRONG.

"A penny saved is a penny earned, may be a good maxim," said the occupant of basement apartment No. 807; "but it doesn't always apply. Economy means bankruptcy sometimes."

"How do you figure that?" asked the occupant of apartment No. 809.

"I tried to save a penny this morning," said 807, "with disastrous and expensive results. I had opened my hall door to pick up my morning paper. As I stooped, a cent dropped from my trousers pocket and began to roll down the hallway. I ignored the paper and made a sprint at the cent, which, however, eluded my grasp. The sudden exertion and strain caused my eyeglasses to fall from my nose, both lenses being broken, of course. Just then a gust of wind from the open windows of my apartment caused the door to close behind me and there I stood in my shirt sleeves in the hall. My penny cost me my glasses, and my new paper into the bargain, for that had in the meantime blown down the hall and out of the window. In addition, my rent and tender buttons were torn off by my sudden lunge for the penny, and incidentals I crushed a half-dollar's worth of cigars in my vest pocket. Altogether I calculate that that cent cost me just $6.00."

"How can we have any fireworks on the Fourth of July with a penny in planning to make it a quiet celebration?"

"Couldn't we use noiseless powder in them?"

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done!

Now you would not willingly pay for food that was worthless—would you?

Then why pay for a medicine except that medicine first proves to you its actual worth?

Positively knowing what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do for the sick, I say to all "don't pay unless health first returns." And I say Dr. Shoop's Restorative with a signed and sealed 30 day "No help, No pay" contract.

I positively pledge to the sick everywhere that "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails". Let others do the same—but you—their originality is needed.

If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, you need Restorative a few days and note the immediate improvement.

When the stomach, Heart or Kidneys are wrong, then let Dr. Shoop's Restorative, Edition three (the stomach and stimulative Heart or Kidneys, for that is wrong. Yours age fractionary that mistaken idea in medicine. He looks below without but tell you how I am succeeding.

The medicine also tells of a fine golden "invisible nerve," no larger than a silken thread. They tell how that nerve, until it fails, actually goes to the Heart its power, its force, its never-ending action or impulse.

These books will open up new and helpful ideas to those who have not well. They tell how the stomach, and Kidneys each take their inside nerve force. That is now the Restorative was especially made to reach and revitalize those nerves. Not the stomach nerves. All of those first will tell. Let me also say: It is free if it fails.

This is why I say "Take no substitute—it matter-ize whose maker does not back it! Just try it by this remarkable offer".

So write me today for the order.

I don't have supposed honest and responsible druggists in your town. Very rarely must be honest. But write me first for the order.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative, but all druggists are not honest. Don't be deceived into buying from a like preparation that may disappoint you. Send for the booklet. Tell me also which book you want.

A postal will do.

Besides, you are free to consult me as you would a neighbor. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 5, Racine, Wis.

Which Book Shall I Send You?

No. 2 On the Heart — No. 5 For Men

What's in a name?

Everything between certainty and doubt if the name be "Dorothy Dodd." In nothing you buy can you be more easily deceived than shoes. Beneath the gloss and veneer, pancake soles may be masquerading as oak leather, sheep skin as kid, and cotton thread as silk. Can you detect it? No, but you can avoid it.

Look for the trade mark name, "Dorothy Dodd" You know what it stands for. You know the makers cannot afford to jeopardize that name by deceiving you or cheapening the shoe. For that would be "killing the goose that laid the golden egg." Buy shoes bearing the signature "Dorothy Dodd." Then you're safe. This store sells them. That makes it doubly safe.

LEG SEVERED BY CORN HARVESTER.

A distressing accident happened last Saturday morning to Lloyd Wagner, of McCabe. His leg, shown his little grandson, R. J. Reynolds, had his leg severed by cutting corn with a corn harvester, and the little fellow was amongst the corn and did not notice until the accident happened. Dr. Clough was called and dressed the limb, which was completely severed below the knee. The little fellow is getting along nicely, and was one of the brightest of children. He is doing nicely and will recover.

McPHERSON—SHARP.

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday evening, Sept. 22d, at Ernestown, at the home of Mr. R. McPherson, when his only daughter, Minnie, was united in marriage to Mr. John B. Sharp, the Rev. G. McConnell officiating. The bride, who was beautifully gowned in green silk, was unattended, and wore the groom's gift, a handsome necklace set in pearls. Miss Kellar, of Bath, played the wedding march and entertained the guests with music while the bridal party had the dainty supper. The happy couple left for a boat trip to Montreal. Their many friends wish Mr. and Mrs. Sharp every happiness.

SHARP—McILWAINE.

A very pleasing event took place in Adolphustown, when Miss Ida McIlwaine, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth McIlwaine, was quietly married to Mr. Edgar Sharp, of Ernestown, on Tuesday evening, at the parsonage, by the Rev. J. Bonner. The bride wore a travelling suit of navy blue with white hat, and was attended by Miss Gladys Trumpour, who wore a navy blue suit with blue hat, while the bridegroom was assisted by Mr. James McIlwaine. On arriving at her home after the ceremony, a pretti wedding supper was enjoyed by all. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold bracelet set with pearls. The choir, in which she had ably assisted, presented her with a sterling silver gravy spoon with gold bowl. All join in wishing them lifelong happiness and prosperity.

WEDDING BELLS.

One of the prettiest weddings that has ever taken place in Sussex, N.B., occurred on Thursday, Sept. 9th, the contracting parties being Mr. Fred. Lorne Leighton, second son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Leighton, Gladstone, Sussex, and Miss Laura Helen Katherine Wasson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Wasson, of Rothsay, Ont. The ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Archibald Stewart, rector of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Rothsay, took place at the residence of the bride's uncle, Mr. E. H. Robinson. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, was charming in a white lace robe, over silk, with bridal veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses and ferns. The ceremony was a very simple, but impressive one, only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties being present. A wedding breakfast was later served at the residence of the bride, after which the happy couple left on the train for the coast cities, where the honeymoon will be spent. The station platform was thronged with friends, who showered their good wishes upon the young couple by showering them with rice. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Leighton will take up their residence in Sussex, of which place the groom is a native son.

"HAVANA" IN KINGSTON.

After a record of 3 years run at the Galety theatre, London, and a similar record at the Empire, New York, Hattan & the George Edwards musical play, will be seen at the Grand Opera House, Kingston, on Saturday, Oct. 23, matinee and night, which will be the first time this successful musical comedy has been seen on the road. The fact that Leslie Stuart, who wrote the music for "Florodora," is the composer of the music of the latest production is a guarantee of the merit. Everybody is already familiar with "Hello People, How Are You?" which is the song hit of the season. The story is that of Samuel Nix, boss boy of the American yacht Mary, which puts into the harbor of Havana. A newsboy is arrested at the time, and the leader of the Red Liberados mistakes the Mary for a Filibuster's vessel. Nix is made one of the insurgents, and before his release is ordered to refuse death as a penalty for planning against the government and his efforts to claim his wife, whom he deserted in the same town seven years before, form much of the amusement. Senor Canape, mayor of Havana, is unaware of the fact that his own sister is the queen of the conspirators and is about to do injury to the whole outfit when the discovery is made. The cast is an unusually large one for a musical comedy. Individual parts are taken by players, singers and dancers of note, the aggregate number of performers being the largest ever seen in musical comedy.

A Clear Concise Outline of the Fashion's Tendencies Marks Our Showing of Tailored Suits for Fall, 1909.

Better than a perusal of the best fashion magazines is this comprehensive display of tailored Suits. Not because we (Madills) have particular style of costume this season is it the only new thing. Not by any means would we claim such, for there are hundreds of styles offered to us, but we only select what we think are the nattiest and newest. These notes are taken from our stock as portrayed in this Section.

Women's exceptionally handsome coat, 52 inches long, in close fitting style, trimmed with stitched self strappings and satin buttons front and back. Collar and cuffs in self. Body and sleeves lined. Shown in black only, in all wool Kersey. All sizes..... $20.00

Long, (mostly 45 inch), semi-fitted coats, the elongated lines with particularly snug hip, long front laps, full length sleeves, etc. The skirts being made pleated to the knee, or hip yoke effects, and the massing of trimmings are the leading fall features, but there are many others.

The cloths are varied, but principally Broadcloths, Twilled Serges and Fancy Worsteds, and in color Catawba, Amethyst, Taupe, Green, (Olive and Hunters), Navy, Brown and a strong tendency to Black and Black and White, outside the novelty shades.

Moire Silk and Buttons are taking a strong stand for first place in trimmings, with military braid in a front place among others. The effects are very striking and will be greeted with favour by those who know for never have our Suits better illustrated our supremacy in the style garments for women than in this fall showing for 1909.

JUST, BUT NOT GENEROUS.

The barefoot boy had carefully hooked his fishing pole across his knee and tossed it into the stream.

"What's the trouble?" asked the passing stranger.

"Been fishin' all afternoon. Didn't get a bite. If I could have brought home a mess of fish I might have squared it for shakin' that boss at ploughin'."

"But why did you break the fishing pole?"

"I'm willing to take what's come to me, mister, but I don't see why I should save dad the trouble of cuttin' his own switch."

DIED IN EARLY MANHOOD.

The news of the sudden death of Mr. G. Frank Grieve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Grieve, was received with regret by our citizens. The death was announced in last week's Beaver, but no authentic particulars were at hand at that date. In a letter received from deceased's employers, Messrs. Foley, Welch and Stewart, Stony Plain, Alta., it is stated that "Frank took sick on the 18th September, and complained on the 19th of feeling miserable. Dr. Stevenson was sent for. On Monday, the 20th, he remarked that he was feeling better, and intended to be up after a day or two. On the following Wednesday he was attended by the line doctor from the west end, Dr. Baker. On Thursday, Sept. 23d, he wished to get up a little before noon, but the doctor would not permit him to do so. About 1 p.m. he had a fainting spell lasting just a few seconds. At 4 p.m. he was conscious, and breathed his last twenty minutes later. At no time did he suffer any severe pain. His work has always been most satisfactory. Everyone is very sorry at his death. He was liked everywhere on the works and had the confidence of his employers. Appendicitis was the cause of death."

Frank, who was 30 years of age, was well and favorably known in Napanee. He was educated at the Model school and Collegiate Institute here, and was one of the star football players of his day. Many a game has he piloted to victory and his presence on the team gave the boys the confidence that very often means success.

After leaving the Collegiate he worked for three years as bookkeeper for The Rathbun Co. here, and in the year 1900 went west, where he held several positions on the C. P. R. About four years ago he took a position with Foley, Welch & Stewart, railroad contractors, having charge of the supplies, which position he has held ever since to the satisfaction of his employers. He was last stationed at Lobstick Lake, Alta., where his death occurred.

The remains arrived in Napanee on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 2d, the funeral being held from the residence of his parents, Centre st., on Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. The funeral was private, Rev. A. H. Foster officiating the last sad rites, after which the remains were placed in the family plot in Riverside cemetery.

Besides a loving father and mother, deceased leaves two brothers and four sisters to mourn his loss—Mrs. Herbert Sanance, and the sisters are Mrs. Edw. Huff, Petersboro; Mrs. J. G. Wensley, Campbellford; Mrs. J. A. G. Robinson, Regina, and Miss Pearl, at home.

The sorrowing family have the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends in their sad bereavement.

The physician found it to be an advertisement in which it was asserted that whiskey was the genuine and reliable specific for malaria.

"But you haven't any malaria, uncle," he assured the old man; "none of it around here at all."

"What, no 'ere?" he cried. "Den wot Mars Jeems?" the other then asked, curiously.

"It's pretty hard down on Cypress river," the physician told him, naming a locality some 20 miles away.

"It's dere dat de physician is fo' passing the old fellow's cabin, and observed him climbing upon a rickety wagon piled with all the household goods.

"Moving, Uncle Ned?" he asked. "Where are you going?"

"Mars Jeems," the old man said, solemnly, "Ah done had a call; de spirit done move to go to work in de Lord's vineyard on de banks on Cypress ribber."

"Deacon Hiram Ludlow, of Brisbin Township, aged 82, passed peacefully away on Thursday last, from single blessedness to matrimonial bliss, after a short but severe attack by Maria Higgins, a blooming widow of 37 summers."

NEWBURGH.

On the afternoon of Thursday of last week, in St. John's Church, Rev. Dr. Gould, a returned missionary from Palestine gave an intensely interesting address on his work in that land. Dr. Gould is a medical missionary and has charge of the work of six hospitals, with headquarters in Jaffa. His description of the great orange groves and fruit lands of the plains of Sharon was very instructive, as was his characterisation of the cosmopolitan population of the country, particularly of the cities where mingle thousands of Bedouin, Fellaheen, Jews and Mohammedans, the latter predominating and lording it over all the other inhabitants. Especially interesting was the description of the plain of the Jordan, the lowest depression in the world, 1300 ft. lower than the level of the Mediterranean Sea. In Jerusalem way he heard no fewer than 42 languages, and religious forms are also very numerous. The Church of the Holy Sepulchre in what was once the Holy City is a striking example at once of the unity and the division of Christendom. Portions of this church are reserved for the Greek Orthodox Church, the Greek Catholic, the Abyssinian, the Armenian, the Syriac, etc. The Mohammedans are the dominant people of the land, claiming absolute equality throughout the country, and enforcing their supremacy by a system of espionage and cruelty without a parallel, perhaps in the world. Terrible conditions have prevailed under the unreformed Turkish Government, the one great crime which any man might be guilty of being the having of any political opinion. Hundreds and thousands of men, some of them the most intelligent in the country, languish in prisons and in dungeons of unspeakable cruelty. Better conditions may result for the movement for freedom throughout the Turkish Empire. In concluding, Dr. Gould briefly described his medical work, which has been of a most useful character.

Mr. Hector Smith has again assumed control of C. H. Finkle's stage route, and has removed his family to Mr. T. Hamilton's house on Main street.

Much sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Fox, in the death of their child, who had been ailing for some months. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon last to the same day two children of Mr. Geo. Schermerhorn were buried in the cemetery here, having died of scarlet fever within twelve hours of each other.

The meeting on Monday night at Wesley school house, in the interests of the rural telephone system was well attended a number from the village being present. Dr. Benson was in the chair. Mr. Forster, of the Northern Electric Co., addressed the meeting, explaining details of the system proposed and probable cost of operation. A committee was appointed to canvass the residents in the community in regard to the using the system if it is established, and their report will be heard at another meeting to be announced later.

Mr. T. D. Seriver was home from Belleville over Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. C. H. Finkle left on the New York excursion last Friday, and will visit friends in the metropolis.

The remains of the late Robert Madden, of Strathcona, were laid to rest in the Newburgh cemetery on Wednesday afternoon of this week. Mr. Madden was one of the oldest and most highly respected residents of this district, and formerly lived in this village.

The programme of the Lennox and Addington Sunday School convention to be held in the Methodist Church here on October 22d, has been prepared, and a most profitable meeting is assured.

The anniversary services of the Methodist church have been set for Oct. 23rd and 24th, and Rev. Mr. Hall of Picton, will be the preacher. A Sunday school meeting will be held on Monday, when Rev. Mr. Hall, who is ill, will be unable to forego for a short time his studies at Osgoode Hall, returning home this week. He expects to return in a couple of weeks.

Mr. Jas. Stubbs' stereopticon entertainment in the Methodist church on Wednesday night, greatly pleased a large sized audience.

The pulpit of the Presbyterian church was occupied on Sunday by Mr. Hilts.

The Presbyterians of Camden East came to Newburgh on Monday evening and took possession of the manse, in order to show their hearty good wishes to their late pastor and wife on arriving here nineteen years ago, and to constant kindness received all through those nineteen years, and to the great, esteem in which they held in their work. The remembrance of this happy evening will linger long in the minds of all present.

OLD PEOPLE SUFFER TORTURES with their BACKS

Here is a Case in Point.

Of course you know a dull ache or sharp pains in the back come from sick Kidneys. Old age exacts its penalty. The kidneys become weak or strained through the hard work of a lifetime. Plasters, ointments and liniments only ease the pain—they can't reach the Kidneys. As soon as the effects of such remedies wear off the pain returns worse than ever because the Kidneys are worse.

West Fort William, Nov. 7th, 1908.

"I have been troubled with a Lame Back for the past twenty years and have used plasters and ointment without effect. At last I tried Gin Pills, which proved just the thing, and I would highly recommend them to anyone who has Strained or Lame Back."

Gin Pills, you see, act directly on the Kidneys—relieving the pain—giving them new strength—and increasing Uric Acid, which is generally formed when there is Kidney Trouble.

FLOATING POSTOFFICES.

They Consist of a Raft, a Tin Box, a Flag and a Pen.

Vessels at sea have their own way of posting letters in old Neptune's care. A description of one of these floating postoffices is given in the Strand by the chief officer of the steamship Otaki as follows:

"A watertight tin contains the bag of letters all stamped with English stamps, and sealed up. The tin is then attached a note with a donation for the finder. The tin is secured to a raft and dropped overboard, care being taken to drop the raft flat on the water so as to keep the flag flying in order to attract attention.

"I have posted letters in this way several times when passing Santa Cruz, Tenerife, and have met with success each time. They were ninety letters posted to various parts of the world in our last floating postoffice."

FLIES STOP FAST TRAIN.

A few days ago the Grand Trunk flyer going east was in hard luck. At Napanee the steam pipe on the big engine got over worked, or something, and refused to confine the hot vapors. The fireman stood a lively train helped. The cars were shunted to a siding and the livelier engine brought into commission on the express. Sailing is not so far as Brockville, when another large engine was secured.

Now comes the peculiar part of the troubles to that train. When about twenty miles east of Cornwall it ran into a sea of peculiar flies. There were millions of them perhaps billions, but the train was going so fast it was impossible to count them. The cars became quite dark as the flies plowed through the mass of insects, and then the train came to another sudden stop. The engine was full of flies. The little things were jammed into a mass in the driving rod. They were in everything on the engine.

The train had been plowing through the flies at a mile a minute for several miles. The track was covered with crushed insects and the engine when hauled at, quite round on it. After a little persuasion and a lot of scrubbing the train went on its way again. On arrival at Montreal the passengers presented a truly curious aretude. The cars of the non-stather were filled first to with flies. On the front of the engine they were several inches thick.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing the work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

COW TESTING ASSOCIATIONS.

THINKING AND KICKING.

A recent issue of the "Creamery Journal" states that the farmers of Iowa are taking a special interest in cow testing. It has a vigorous editorial "An intellectual tomb for deceased farmers is thinking. Hard-headed are kicking themselves for having so much cheap advice and effort and so little money chasing the dual-purpose nonsense theorists. Many of the dairy records are simply swamped with business. Reports in the Iowa records report individual cases of scales and Babcock testers.

Farmers of Galloway, you are going to let farmers of adjoining states get you in mid-harvest dairy thought given to cow testing, and in resultant business-like action? The local concern of testing individual cows to ascertain what difference there is between the profit or profit of one cow and another is most some. If our poorest cows were known they would quickly be weeded out, and there can be no object in retaining them. It is claimed that the average cow in Iowa often the poor ones are believed to be good? There will be detected, and the records are kept. A more careful study of feeding, and assorted lots of feeding from good pure bred sires will work wonders in improving cows on Canadian farms. Cow testing associations should start be the hopeless, and in such quarters several of them were never more needed than at present. Who starts the first in your county?

The Younger Set

Copyright, 1907, by Robert W. Chambers

What was it, then, that he found more interesting, more important, than their friendship, their companionship? Was she never to grow old enough or wise enough or experienced enough to exact—without exacting—his paramount consideration and interest? Was there no common level of mental equality where they could meet—where termination of interviews might be mutual, might be fairer to her?

Now he went away, utterly detached from her and what concerned her, to seek other interests of which she knew nothing; absorbed in them to her utter exclusion, leaving her here with the long evening before her and nothing to do, because her eyes were not yet strong enough to use for reading.

Lansing was saying, "I'll drive as far as the club with you, and then you can drop me and come back later."

"Right, my son. I'll finish a letter and then come back."

"Can't you write it at the club?"

"Not that letter," he replied in a low voice and, turning to Eileen, smiled his absent, detached smile, offering his hand.

But she lay back, looking straight up at him.

"Are you going?"

"Yes. I have several"—

"Stay with me," she said in a low voice.

For a moment the words meant nothing; then blank surprise silenced him, followed by curiosity.

"Is there something you wished to tell me?" he asked.

"N-no."

His perplexity and surprise grew. "Wait a second, Boots," he said. And Mr. Lansing, being a fairly intelligent young man, went out and down the stairway.

"Now," he said too kindly, too soothingly, "what is it, Eileen?"

"Nothing. I thought—but I don't care. Please go, Captain Selwyn."

"No, I shall not until you tell me what troubles you."

"I can't."

"Try, Eileen."

"Why, it is nothing, truly it is nothing. Only I was—it is so early—only a quarter past 8."

He stared there looking down at her, striving to understand.

"That is all," she said, flushing a trifle. "I can't read, and I can't sew, and there's nobody here. I don't mean to bother you"—

"Child," he exclaimed, "do you want me to stay?"

"Yes," she said. "Will you?"

He walked swiftly to the landing outside and looked down.

"Boots," he called in a low voice, "I'm not going home yet. Don't wait for me at the Lenox."

"All right," returned Mr. Lansing cheerfully. A moment later the front door closed below. Then Selwyn came back into the library.

For an hour he sat there telling her the gayest stories and talking the most delightful nonsense, alternating with interesting incitations into serious subjects which it enchanted her to dissect under his confident guidance.

Alert, intelligent, all aquiver between laughter and absorption, she had sat up among her silken pillows, resting her weight on one rounded arm, her splendid young eyes fixed on him to detect and follow and interpret every change in his expression perusal to the subject and to her share in it.

His old self again! What could be more welcome? Not one shadow in his pleasant eyes, not a trace of pallor, of care, of that gray aloofness. How jolly, how young, he was after all!

They discussed or laughed at or mended and dismissed with a gesture a thousand matters of common interest in that swift hour—incredibly swift unless the hall clock's fourhoured chimes were mocking time itself with mischievous effrontery.

She heard them, the enchantment still in her eyes. He nodded, listening, meeting her gaze with his smile undisturbed. When the last chime had sounded she lay back among her cushions.

"Thank you for staying," she said quite happily. "Do you think me interesting to real men, like you and Boots?" she asked.

"Yes," he said deliberately, "I do. I don't know how interesting, because I never quite realized how—how you had matured. That was my stupidity."

"Captain Selwyn," in confused triumph, "you never gave me a chance—I mean, you always were nice in—in the same way you are to Drina. I liked it—don't, please, misunderstand—only I knew there was something else to me—something more nearly your own age. It was jolly to know you were really fond of me, but youthful sisters grow faster than you imagine. And now, when you come, I shall venture to believe it is not wholly to do me a kindness—but—a little—to do yourself one too. Is that not the basis of friendship?"

"Yes."

"Community and equality of interests, isn't it?"

"Yes."

And—in which the—the charity of superior experience and the inattention of intellectual preoccupation and the amused concession to ignorance must steadily, if gradually, disappear! Is that it too?"

Astonishment and chagrin at his misconception of her gave place to outright laughter at his own expense.

"Where on earth did you—I mean that I am quite overwhelmed under your cutting indictment of me. Old duffers of my age"—

"Don't say that," she said. "That is pleading guilty to the indictment and reverting to my footing. I shall not permit you to go back."

"I don't want to, Eileen."

"I am 'knowledging,'" she said airily, "about that 'Eileen.' I'm not sure but that easy and fluent 'Eileen' is part of the indictment. What do you call Gladys Orcbil, for example?"

"What do I care what I call anybody?" he retorted, laughing.

Their light hearted laughter mingled delightfully—fresh, free, uncontrolled, peal after peal. She sat huddled up like a schoolgirl, lovely head thrown back, her white hands clasping her knees; he, both feet squarely on the floor, leaned forward, his laughter echoing hers.

"What nonsense! What blessed nonsense you and I are talking!" she said, "but it has made me quite happy. Now you may go to your club."

"I don't want to."

"Oh, but you must"—she was now dismissing him—"because, although I am convalescent, I am a little tired, and Nina's maid is waiting to tuck me in."

"So you send me away?"

"I send you"— She hesitated, delightfully confused in the reversal of roles—not quite convinced of this new power which of itself had seemed to invest her with authority over man. "Yes," she said, "I must send you away." And her heart beat a little faster in her uncertainty as to his obedience, then leaped in triumph as he rose with a reluctance perfectly visible.

"Tomorrow," she said, "I am to drive for the first time. In the evening I may be permitted to go to the Grays' mid-Lent dance, but not to dance much. Will you be there? Didn't they phone you when I'm to be at home—or wherever I'm going to be. But it won't be anywhere in particular because it's Lent, of course. Good night, Captain Selwyn. You've been very sweet to me, and I've enjoyed every single instant."

When he had gone she rose, a trifle excited in the glow of abstract happiness, and walked erratically about, smiling to herself, touching and rearranging objects that caught her attention. Then an innocent instinct led her to the mirror, where she stood a moment looking back into the lovely reflected face with its disordered hair.

"After all," she said, "I'm not as aged as I pretended. I wonder if he is laughing at me now. But he was very, very nice to me."

* * * * * * *

Selwyn was playing the fixing contents of a siphon upon the iced ingredients of a tall, thin glass which stood on a table in the Lenox club.

The governor's room being deserted except by himself and Mr. Lansing, he continued the animated explanation of his delay in arriving.

"So I stayed," he said to Boots, with an enthusiasm quite boyish, "and I had a perfectly bully time. She's just as clever as she can be, startling at moments. I never half appreciated her. She formerly appealed to me in a different way, a young girl knocking at the door of the world and no mother or father to open for her and show her the gimcracks and the freaks and the sideshows. Do you know, Boots, that some day that girl is going to marry somebody, and it worries me, knowing men as I do, unless you should think of it."

"Great James," faltered Mr. Lansing, "are you turning into a schutzschen? Are you planning to waddle through the world making matches for your friends? If you are I'm quitting you right here."

"It's only because you are the decentest man I happen to know," said Selwyn resentfully. "Probably she'd turn you down anyway. But"—and he brightened up—"I dare say she'll choose the best to be had. It's a pity, though."

"What's a pity?"

"That a charming, intellectual, sensitive, innocent girl like that should be turned over to a plain lump of a man."

"When you've finished your eulogy on our sex," said Lansing, "I'll walk home with you."

As the two men entered their own door and started to ascend the stairs a door on the parlor floor opened, and their landlady, appeared, enveloped in a soiled crimson kimono and a false front which had slipped sideways.

"There's the sultana," whispered Lansing, "and she's making sign language at you. Wigwag her, Phil. Oh, good evening, Mrs. Greeve! Did you wish to speak to me? Oh—to Captain Selwyn—of course."

"If you please," said Mrs. Greeve ominously, so Lansing continued upward; Selwyn descended. Mrs. Greeve waved him into the lcy parlor, where he presently found her straightening her "front" with worn worn fingers.

"Captain Selwyn, I deemed it my duty to set up in order to inform you of certain specials doin's," she said haughtily.

"What 'doings?'" he inquired.

"Mr. Erroll's, sir. Last night he evidentially found difficulty with the stairs, and I seen him asleep on the parlor sofa when I come down to answer the milkman a-smokin' a cigar that wasn't lit, with his feet on the settee.

"I'm very, very sorry, Mrs. Greeve," he said, "and so is Mr. Erroll. He and I had a little talk today, and I am sure that he will be more careful hereafter."

"There is cigar holes burned into the carpet," insisted Mrs. Greeve, "and a mercy we wasn't all-insinuated in our beds, one window pane broken and the gas a blue an' whistlin' streak with the curtains blowin' into it an a strange cat on to that satin dorydo, the proof being the repugnant per fume."

"All of which," said Selwyn, "Mr Erroll will make every possible amends for. He is very young, Mrs Greeve and very much ashamed. I am sure. So please don't make it too hard for him."

She stood, little slippered feet planted sturdily in the first position in dancing, fat, bare arms protruding from the kimono, her work stained fingers linked together in front of her. With a soiled thumb she turned a ring on her third finger.

"I ain't a-goin' to be mean to nobody," she said. "My gentlemen is always refined, even if they do sometimes forget theirselves when young and sporty. Mr. Erroll is now abed, sir, and asleep like a cherub, for havin' been served three times with towels extra. Would you be good enough to mention the bill to him in the mornin', the grocer bein' smilly? And she handed the wadded and inky memorandum of damages to Selwyn, who pocketed it with a nod of assurance.

"There was," she added, following him to the door, "a lady here to see you twice, leavin' no name or intentions otherwise than business affairs of a pressin' nature."

"A—lady?" he repeated, halting short on the stairs.

"Young and refined, allowin' for a automobile veil."

"She—she asked for me?" he repeated, astonished.

"Yes, sir. She wanted to see your rooms. But havin' no orders, Captain Selwyn, although I must say she was that polite and ladylike and"—added Mrs. Greeve irrevertantly, "a arl fucker come for you, too, and another for Mr Lansing, which I placed in your respective sitty rooms."

"Oh," said Selwyn, laughing in relief, "it's all right, Mrs. Greeve. The lady who came is my sister, Mrs. Gerard, and whomever she comes you are to admit her, whether or not I am here."

"She said she might come again," nodded Mrs. Greeve as he mounted the stairs. "Am I to show her up any time she comes?"

"Certainly. Thank you," he called back. "And Mr. Gerard, too, if he calls."

He looked into Boots' room as he passed. That gentleman, in bedroom costume of peculiar exotic gorgeousness, sat gluffing a pipe with slag and poring over a mass of papers pertaining to the Westchester Air Line's property and prospective developments.

"Come in, Phil," he called out, "and look at the thing that somebody sent me." But Selwyn shook his head.

"Come into my rooms when you're ready," he said and closed the door again, smiling and turning away toward his own quarters. As he lighted his pipe there came a hesitating knock at the door. He jerked his head sharply. The knock was repeated.

Chapter 9

SELWYN walked swiftly to the door. Bang it open full width—and stood stock still.

And Mrs. Ruthven entered the room, partly closing the door behind her gloved hand still resting on the knob.

For a moment they confronted one another, he tall, rigid, astounded; she pale, supple, relaxing a trifle against the half closed door behind her, which yielded and closed with a low click.

At the sound of the closing door he found his voice. It did not resemble his own voice either to himself or to her, but she answered his bewildered question:

"I don't know why I came. Is it so very dreadful? Have I offended you? I did not suppose that men cared about conventions."

THEY ARE CAREFULLY PREPARED. Pills which assist the digestive functions of the stomach cannot be expected to have much effect upon the intestines, and to awaken restlessness the medicine administered must influence the secretions of those organs. Dodd's Dyspepsia Pills are so made, under the supervision of two chemists, that the strength of them intended to operate on the intestines is retained after the pills have passed through the stomach to the bowels.

A SMALL PILL, BUT POWERFUL.—They that judge of the powers of a pill by its size, would wonder Parmelee's Vegetable Pills to be lasting. It is a little wonder among them. Their bulk is less in size it makes up in potency. The remedies which it contains put up in these small doses, become they are so powerful that only small doses are required. The full strength of the extracts is secured in this form and for that reason they are valuable.

"What period have you selected for this historical novel?" asked the publisher.

"I shall not use period," answered the author; "nothing but exclamation points."

TRIAL PROVES ITS EXCELLENCE.—The best testimonial one can have of the virtues of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is the treatment of bodily pains, coughs, colds and allied troubles of respiratory organs. Make a trial of it. If not found the sovereign remedy claimed to be, then it may be rejected as useless, and all that has been said in its favor denounced as untruthful.

They Help Your Stomach Out

And Save You a World of Wretchedness

A stomach that cannot digest a good meal is certainly a sore trial. It has been responsible for almost everything in the way of human misery, up to suicide.

The trouble in most cases is that the stomach and other digestive organs lack vigor. Not enough of the juices necessary to digestion are secreted, nor does the stomach work up the food properly.

The worst of it is that there is not sufficient nourishment taken out of the food to restore the system's vigor, and the trouble goes from bad to worse. The stomach needs help.

"Little Digesters" meet the need exactly. One "Little Digester" after each meal will ensure perfect digestion, provided, of course, that the food is good and wholesome.

"Little Digesters" are guaranteed to cure Indigestion, and Dyspepsia, or your money will be refunded.

Great Discovery after 2000 years

Two thousand years ago the usual method of healing skin injuries and diseases was to apply certain essences and juices obtained direct from various healing herbs and roots. The gladiators of ancient Rome and the athletes of Greece adopted this means of healing their injuries, and with wonderful effect. A gladiator would emerge from the ring having sustained terrible cuts and bruises, yet on the application of his favourite herbal balm, within a few days he would again be ready for combat.

As centuries rolled by, the secret of making these herbal extracts was lost, and ointments and salves made up of animal fats took place of the pure herbal balm.

Zam-Buk, the great balm which during the past few years has revolutionised the system of skin-healing, was produced by returning to the idea of the ancients, that man's best medicaments must be found in herbal extracts.

In the investigation which followed, the necessity was seen for entirely excluding the rancid fats and coarse minerals from which most modern ointments are compounded, and sticking closely to nature.

Scientific inquiry eventually centred round the peculiar properties of certain vegetable saps and juices. These extracts from rare herbs had, it was found, a curious power that enabled them when spread on the broken skin, to knit the edges of tissues together—in short, the power of healing injuries in a marvellously natural way, and of annihilating any germs of disease harboured by wound or pore.

The choice of the right herbal juices and their relevant compounds was the next step, after which came the more difficult problem of finding just the exact proportion of the different ingredients which would give the best healing results. Early disappointment and costly experiments are often the forerunner of famous discoveries, but at length, when success arrived, the investigators found themselves in the possession of a substance of fine consistency, of slight yet agreeable odour, and unique for its marvellous healing, soothing and antiseptic value. The original medicinal power of the respective ingredients was found to have been multiplied many times by reason of the scientific and novel manner of their combination as they exert in Zam-Buk.

Careful tests established the exceptional value of the new balm, its constant reliability, and its unvarying success even in certain obstinate cases of eczema and ulceration.

From the first Zam-Buk has born out in practice what its discoverers expected of it from a practical standpoint. In four continents it has now become the favourite household balm. Cheap substitutes made up to look like Zam-Buk, and sold at so-called "cheap" rates, are constantly being produced, but the careful housewife, the mother, bearing the responsibility and the welfare of her ailing children, or the bread-winner to whose wastes money on them never repeats the experiment. There is no "cheapness" in nature. If one wants her treasure her price must be paid, and now people don't waste money on "cheap" imitations.

Zam-Buk, so pure yet so powerful, is good for young and old. The delicate skin of babes benefits from its application and it is widely used by nursing mothers for the rashes and chafings of very young children. Men of experience and great attainments in varied walks of life have tested it, and speak of it in the highest terms.

Dr. Andrew Wilson, whose name as a scientist is familiar all the world over, is one of his recent medical works ("Homely Talks on First Aid") says: "Wherever a box of Zam-Buk is handy for the repair skill—Beauty Specialist.

For skin eruptions, scalp sores, ulcers, abscesses, poisoning, cold sores, chapped places, frost bite, blistering, chafing, ringworm, etc., Zam-Buk is without equal. For piles it is the best remedy yet discovered. It relieves the burning, stabbing, throbbing pains, and gives ease. Almost all druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at fifty cents per box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

JOHN PAISLEY

Amherst Island Fair

Tuesday, Sept. 28th, was a gala day at Stella, occasioned by the annual fair. At an early hour all roads leading to the village were wending their way to the fair grounds, and teams and autos were parked in every available corner by the hotter, cattle and horse sheds, while the sidewalks were a busy scene considering his particular animal the best.

The judging commenced shortly after the arrival of the Aletha, which landed a number of visitors picked up on her way from the different ports she touched at, but her downward trip.

On fair day the schools and cheese factories are closed, so as to give all an opportunity of a day's outing. The Presbyterian congregation prepared a dinner and had ample for all. On the whole everything during the day passed off most successfully.

In the department for agricultural produce there was a fine display of all kinds of roots and other vegetables. Mr. Fowler exhibited a squash weighing over 90 lbs, and a sunflower 11 inches across. Mr. Ireland had a nice showing of fancy work, and also a number of named grains and seed potatoes, but wonderful to relate the show butter from Amherst Dairy was let out 34 prizes.

The classes 1 and 2 in the Horse show the entries were well filled and some fine stock shown.

Mr. Nichols, of Kingston, introduced a new feature and offered a prize for the dozen eggs, and caused a number to "come-to-the-scratch." Other Kingstonians kindly gave special prizes, viz., Lemons & Son, Abernethy, Corbett, Mitchell and Lockett, the latter who offered a prize for the best loaf of homemade bread. This appeared on the ground and got the prize bread presented to him.

MANGLED BY AN ELK.

Terrible Struggle Between Man and Beast.

With his head, legs, and arms cut and torn in a dozen places, and his whole body more or less bruised and scratched, Bartholomew Bowler, a machinist, living at 116 Spruce avenue, Toronto, is lying in his home under a physician's care as a result of a terrible, long-drawn-out fight with a maddened elk in Riverdale Park in the early hours of Sunday morning. Bowler saved himself from a horrible death by locking his arms and arms in the beast's antlers and clinging there, bleeding and but half sensible, until the elk became exhausted. Then he dragged himself to safety.

Bowler went to Riverdale Park about 5 o'clock to gather mushrooms and his search took him to a rich stretch of pasture in the elk's paddock, where the mushrooms were temptingly thick. Disregarding caution he climbed the fence and started to work. The elk came towards him, but at first showed no sign of hostility, and Bowler, reassured, paid little attention to it. A few minutes later, however, the animal suddenly lowered its antlers and charged. Bowler was taken by surprise and almost before he was aware of the animal's intention it was upon him. He was knocked to the ground with one crashing blow and before he could get to his feet the brute attacked him again, its antlers beating and tearing his body in a fearful manner. With the blood streaming down his face and almost unconscious, Bowler finally managed to grip one of the antlers with both arms and twined his legs around the other. There he clung for an awful quarter of an hour, desperately resisting the animal's attempts to shake him off. Just before help arrived the elk became exhausted in the struggle, and Bowler, dragging himself free, staggered to the fence and got over. The elk made no attempt to follow him.

Meanwhile, a night watchman, who had seen Bowler's struggle in the park, ran to the nearest phone and telephoned the police that a man had been killed by the elk. P. C. McCrae was sent down from Wilton avenue station and practically carried the injured man to his home. Dr. W. H. Alexander, of Carlton street, attended Bowler and found his body a mass of bruises and scratches. One of his legs were three deep tears between five and six inches long, while his left arm bore a gash nearly three inches long. In addition he was scratched and bruised in a dozen places.

"Monarch Peninsular"

Is The Only Range Made With "A Reversible Reservoir"

The illustration shows a "Monarch Peninsular" Steel Range with the reservoir or hot water tank on the left. If, for any reason, it is desired to have the Hot Water Tank on the right, the change can be made without tools or trouble by lifting the Reservoir from one side and placing it in the sockets provided for the purpose on the other side.

"Monarch Peninsular" is the only range having this convenience, and the only one which fits in any kitchen and economizes space.

The Hot Water Tank, or Reservoir, is made of copper, coated with tin, to insure water being always clear.

Our booklet describes and illustrates many other exclusive "Monarch Peninsular" features which every prospective stove buyer should know. Write for free copy.

We are also makers of the famous "Hecla" Furnace. 86

MOUNT PLEASANT.

This vicinity was visited by a fine rain on Thursday, which was appreciated by everyone, and farmers are busy gathering in their fall crops. Henderson and Archie Turnbull are spending a few months in the west.—Mrs. Wm. Hawley is visiting her sister in Bellville, who is ill.—Messrs. O. E. Davis, M. Oliver and J. DORLAND.

On Monday last a very pleasant afternoon was spent at the home of Mrs. Bethune. As she is about to leave soon she gave her pupils a picnic. When all were seated in the dining room an address was read by Florence Gallagher, and her pupils gave a silver sugar bowl. Lunch was served in the dining room to about thirty-five and all enjoyed a pleasant afternoon. Following is the address:

Dear Teacher.—We have learned with deep regret that you are to sever the tie existing between us as pupils and teacher, and cannot let the occasion pass without some tangible means of showing our love and appreciation of your patient efforts on our behalf during the past years. We ask you to accept the accompanying gift as a slight reminder of our love and respect, and sincerely wish you every blessing and happiness in your new sphere.

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Shoop, discovered his Rheumatic Remedy—and with scientific accuracy assures the public, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep. It is constitutional, external. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one sufferer to another, where treated patients gladly spread results. It is an act of kindness to tell a sick one of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by all druggists. adv.

TISDALE, SASK.

Threshing is in full swing, and grain is turning out well. It is a good quality. The weather has been fine for harvesting, the rain so badly needed at present. There are a great many fires in this locality. None have had the misfortune to lose part of their grain. Mr. Frank Williams had a barn raising and chopping after supper Saturday. The fire caught from the engine. Messrs. Pickering and Forrester have had their crop on the Ready farm, as the fire is very dry. The wind is blowing a gale to-day. They are afraid they may not be able to save it.—Mrs. Ready's mother-in-law has been on Sept. 10th. The school was not running owing to harvest operations. The different classes were well filled, and some good work was accomplished. Vegetable classes sell for special notice, the beautiful pumpkins and squashes shew what can be done in this valley.—Mr. Hunt lost two horses and a colt, and Mrs. Mr. Jas Salsbury lost a horse a short time ago. A REMARKABLE MAP.

Down at Ottawa they are publishing a map on which in due course will be shown every house, school, church, mill, blacksmith shop, etc., in the Dominion. This tremendous map will be made up of sheets, each of which will take in about 625 square miles. Already some 15,000 square miles have been mapped out along the frontier. A description of the way in which this unique map is being made is to be found in the Busy Man's Magazine for October. All sorts of things will be recorded on it. For instance, all roads, streams and bridges are classified and by contours with a vertical interval of twenty-five feet, the height and shape of every hill is given. Woods and orchards are marked and the density of the trees approximately indicated. Concessions and lots are numbered and a great amount of other valuable information supplied. It is the only map produced in Canada on which the correct names of all places are shown—all doubtful ones having been submitted to the Geographic Board for decision.

ROWEN-HARRIGAN.

Detroit Free Press, September 29th:—The cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul was transformed into a bower of autumn foliage and white flowers Wednesday morning, when at 8 o'clock Miss Mary Gladys Rowen was united in marriage to William F. Harrigan, by Rev. Fr. Thomas Carey. Miss Rowen was attired in a gown of bridal satin, trimmed with real lace, and carried white roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Florence Rowen, as maid of honor, who wore embroidered mousseline de soie over pink silk, and carried pink roses. The Misses Margaret Harrigan and Viola Rowen acted as bridesmaids and were attired in mousseline de soie over pink silk, and carried pink roses. Percy Sharpe acted as best man, while Norman Sullivan and Peter Rowen performed the duties of ushers. The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. Rowen Hunt, who wore entirely black broadcloth, of clothe over 1776 fashion, and a large black lace hat. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, 622 Woodward avenue, to about 150, among whom were many of Miss Rowen's schoolmates at St. Mary's Academy, Monroe, from which she graduated a year ago. The house decorations were in autumn foliage and white tulle. The table of the bridal party was spread with white and pink roses and the valley, while the others were decorated with asters, ferns and foliage. Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Harrigan left on an auto wedding trip, on their return from which they will be at home in the Wardell apartments, Trumbull avenue. The bride is a niece of the late John F. Hunt, formerly of Napanee.

PEILLATT—BOWERMAN.

At Northport Methodist Church, on Monday, Oct. 4th, 1909, at 11.30 a.m., by the Rev. E. B. Cook, Miss Lucy Bowerman, daughter of Mr. J. Bowerman, was married to Mr. Milo Pellatt, of Toronto. The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine over white silk, large white felt hat with white plume, and carried lillies of the valley and roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Chipman, wore pale blue suit and hat of white felt with white plume, and carried pink roses. The groom was attended by Mr. Herman Lynch, of Toronto. The church was very prettily decorated by the many Northport friends, and the wedding march was played by Mrs. E. B. Cook. After the ceremony, Mr. Freddie Blakley, soloist in H. Peters' Church, Toronto, sang a very beautiful solo. After a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's father, the happy couple left for a honeymoon in Toronto and New York, and on their return they will reside in Toronto. The groom's gifts were, to the bride a gold bracelet, cameo and diamonds; to the bridesmaid, a pearl star necklet and five dollar gold piece; to Mrs. Cook, pearl brooch; to the groomsman scarf pin and five dollar gold piece; to the choir boy, five dollar gold piece.

CAMDEN EAST.

We must congratulate Mr. R. W. Saul for the excellent work performed on the tower of the Camden East Methodist church. To say the least he has done some fine work. The Committee in charge deserve credit for engaging such a good mechanic. We have placed in the tower a magnificent bell, which weighs with mountings 1200 lbs. No excuse for not coming to church on time. The bell was placed in position last Friday, and Messrs. Wm. and Hugh Saul had the pleasure of ringing the bell for the first time. These two men built our church about fifty years ago, and have always been a help, not only to the church, but have been a great help to the entire community. May they never grow weary in well doing. The ladies have the inside of the church to look after, and they are going to have the walls and ceiling kalsomined, and the seats and woodwork painted. Then look out for a re-opening.—Rumor says a fine concert will be given on the evening of the dedication by the ladies of the Methodist church, Camden East.

Annual Report of the Curling Club.

Napanee, Ont., Oct. 7th, 1909.

To the Officers and Members of the Napanee Curling Club, Napanee, Ontario.

Dear Sirs,—In presenting my annual report to you for the season 1908-9, I desire to thank you for the loyalty you have shown to the noble sport of curling and to the Club affairs this past season. Our membership for the past year numbered 150, which means an increase of about ten over the previous year. While there is still room for improvement in the manner of financing the club still I believe the finances are in a healthy state as the Treasurer's report will show.

It is with deep regret that I refer to the death of our old friend and veteran Curler, George E. Mayhew, whose demise came so unexpectedly in the City of Montreal, in the midst of the curling season. The members of the Club recognizing his worth and his genuine love of manly sport in all its forms sent to his home in token of their loving sympathy a wreath of Galax leaves and orchids, beautifull rich and simple. I am sure he will be missed in curling circles and that the family have the loving sympathy of every member of the Club.

The past season has been one which I think we can well claim to have been successful, whether you think of the increase in membership, the improvement of the Curling Rink, finances of the Club, its showing in the league competitions and in the bonspiels in which the members took part, or the enthusiasm displayed in the interrink matches for the Smith and Chinneck medals. The inter-rink matches proved of great interest and evoked a great deal of enthusiasm.

The Chinneck medal was won by our respected Secretary, Mr. R. G. H. Travers, with the marvellous record of thirteen wins and no loses.

I understand his hardest game was his fight with Skip Edwards who also led from Ham by the hardest kind of hard luck.

The Smith Bonspiel was won by Skip J. L. Boyes through a consistent curling on the Skip's part, ably assisted by his Vice-skip W. A. Daly, and the members of his rink.

The Colts gave a good account of themselves in Kingston in a friendly contest during the latter part of the season, and it is regrettable that there were no out side matches for the Colts, and that the Junior League failed in its organization for the season. This fact should lead us to link our fortunes with Kingston which has a more permanent organization and which rests on a more solid foundation than the Junior League in Eastern Ontario has here-tofore had. Incidentally, I may say that the younger Skips proved valiant foes and gave the older chaps hard hard fought games.

The Eastern League matches were interesting, and the schedule played so far as weather conditions permitted. I regret Napanee did not win the coveted trophy.

When Greek meets Greek then comes the tug-of-war, and in the Peterboro' Bonspiel our curlers had a chance to knock up against some of the best of them. Skip Ham is to be congratulated on the creditable showing of and the successes won by his team at that Bonspiel early in January. The team consisted of Mr. H. Daly, Mr. R. G. H. Travers, Mr. C. I. Maybee and Mr. J. S. Ham Skip, the members playing on the Rink in the order their names here indicate.

After winning three games in the primary series, the Rink was beaten by Mr. John D. Flavelle's Rink, the score being 14-10. Ham's Rink having to led to the 11th end. Then in the consolation series in the same bonspiel Skip Ham's Rink had an unbroken record of successes, and the Rink won first prize in this series, defeating among others Dr. Cornell's strong Peterboro' Rink. The Doctor was the winner of the Primary competition in 1906. Skip Ham's Rink also won at this Bonspiel against L. V. O'Connor's strong Lindsay Rink in the finals in the consolation series, and this victory is considered no mean achievement.

The Peterboro' Curling Club entertained the visiting Curlers right royally and when you remember there were sixty or seventy rinks competing in the bonspiel this speaks volumes for the curling enthusiasm in Peterboro'. The Napanee Curlers shared in the encomiums showered on the Peterboro' Club.

The Curling Club sent three rinks to the Kingston Bonspiel, but the "stones" were hot; though the boys report having had a splendid time.

In closing my report I believe I am justified in stating from our past experience the year was a progressive one in curling annals in Napanee, and as a result of the year's success I predict this year will see more enthusiasm than ever before, and I fervently hope that the prediction will prove true.

I expect that during this annual meeting you will earnestly consider propositions which are suggested with a view to the development and prosperity of the Club one of which will deal with the programme or a part of the programme for the year 1910, and another dealing with the question of the proper means to employ to provide funds from the beginning of the season.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

U. M. WILSON, President.

Something went wrong with the halyards, and one of them went aloft to adjust the difficulty. His weight proved too much for the craft, and it capsized and filled. They managed to hold on to the boat, which was just able to keep them above water enough to allow them to work their distress signals, which they did with good effect. They were heard by Capt. Lynch, who secured a boat and rescued them from their perilous and uncomfortable position, as the water around there at that time was kind of cold.

NEWBURGH.

Mr. Thomas Beck, a sufferer for some months, from a complicated disease, passed away on Thursday last. Mr. Beck had been a resident of Newburgh for many years, and was engaged as a papermaker in Mr. W. J. Finlay's mill at Strathcona until about six months ago, when he had to abandon his position. He was sinee seen a very patient sufferer, but his disease quite baffled medical skill. The funeral service was conducted at St. John's Church, on Saturday afternoon, by Rev. Mr. Spencer, the church being crowded with friends. The remains were placed in the vault here. Mr. Finlay closed the papermill at Strathcona for the afternoon, and with his employees, attended the funeral. Mr. Beck leaves a wife and six children.

The first literary meeting of the term at the High School was a most successful inauguration of the year's series. The new President, Odel Yeomans, was in the chair, and made an admirable opening address, emphasizing the benefits to be derived from the Society by all the pupils. The programme was given entirely by the new officers of the Society and the Glee Club, the latter appearing 36 strong at this initial meeting, and rendering two fine choruses under the leadership of Miss Grose. A vocal solo was given by Miss Warde Finkle, instrumental solos by Miss Hope Aylesworth on the piano, and Herbert Eckardt, on the mandolin, accompanied by Miss Winnie Eckardt. readings by Miss Vera York, Claude Brethen and Edgar Sexsmith, and an instrumental duet by Misses Lizzie Winter and Cicely Kennedy. Miss Nellie Lockridge acted as critic of the afternoon's entertainment in exceptionally good style. An interesting part of the proceedings was the presentation to Miss Aleta Scriver of a handsome volume of Beethoven's sonators, and a year's subscription to the Etude, in recognition of her efficient services as pianiste for the last three years. The presentation was made by the Vice-President, Miss Lizzie Winter, on behalf of the Society. Rev. Mr. Sexsmith closed the programme with appreciative remarks.

Mr. John Beck, of Watertown, was here on Saturday, to attend his brother's funeral.

Miss Neelon returned home on Friday, after spending the last three months in the dental office of his brother, Dr. H. A. Neelon, in Lindsay.

The High School football team was defeated on Thursday afternoon of last week in a game at Moscow by the home team. The High School team are obliged to leave players from the town this year, owing to a scarcity of pupils for a team.

Prof. V. F. and Mrs. Dupins, of Queen's University, and Miss Murray in their automobile were here Dr. M. I. Beeman's, on Sunday after tea.

The death of Mr. Wm. Paul, of Wesley, on Sunday last, came as a great shock to this village, where the deceased gentleman has long been so well known and highly respected. For many years one of Camden's stalwart men, a man of absolute integrity and probity, and a very useful and progressive citizen. He was deeply interested in and lent hearty support to anything that made for the moral of the state or the church. A cheerful disposition was in him the index of a very kindly nature that had made him many warm friends. Mr. Paul will be greatly missed in the community, and in the Methodist church, of which he was an honored and active official member. His place can never be filled.

Mr. Sager, of Tyendinaga, spent a few days this week at his son's, Mr. S. E. Sager.

Rev. Mr. McInnes, of Harrowsmith, moderator in the at present vacant Presbyterian church, administered to the different congregations on Sunday last, preaching here in the evening.

Has anybody heard of the Fire Brigade lately? Last spring with enthusiasm that was fairly bubbling over, a brigade was formed and offered to fight anything from a bon-fire to a holocaust. Of flame. Shortly after an afternoon's test was made and imaginary fires on all the skyscrapers in town were promptly extinguished. Evidently that was the sum total of the glory sought by the fire laddies. It is dollars to doughnuts that since that memorable exhibition most of the brave brigade have forgotten that we own such a thing as a fire engine. Come boys, get moving. We want a force that is disciplined and practised and ready for any emergency. There should be a weekly or bi-weekly exercise of this fire apparatus, with every man at his post ready for business. Verbum sap.

Rev. and Mrs. J. Gandier and Miss Lillith left on Tuesday morning on a visit to friends in Western Ontario, intending to visit friends in Western Canada and at the Canadian Coast before going south to spend the winter in California. They are followed by the good wishes of a host of friends for a pleasant voyage, and safe return in the spring. On Sunday afternoon, at Sabbath School, Miss Gandier was made the recipient of a well filled purse, in recognition of her faithful service as a teacher and as organist of service as a member of years.

Dr. M. I. Beeman starts on Friday night of this week for Toronto, where he will join the other members of the Provincial Board of Health and leave with them for Richmond, Va., where they will attend a meeting of the American Public Health Association, on the 19th to 23d. He expects to return via Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, and will be away from home nine or ten days.

The annual meeting of the Newburgh branch of the Canadian Bible Society, auxiliary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, was held in the Presbyterian church on Wednesday night, with a very good attendance, representative of all denominations. In the absence of the president, Rev. M. E. Sexsmith, in Toronto, Mr. D. A. Noxon, the vice president, occupied the chair, and made an introductory address. Rev. Mr. Duncan also assisted in the opening services. Mr. T. A. Dunwoody presented the secretary's, and Mr. J. W. Courtney the treasurer's report. The address of the evening was made by Rev. Mr. Pocock, agent of the Society, and Anglican minister, of Pencion Falls. Mr. Pocock spoke in a most interesting way of the origin and work of the Bible Society, particularly of its inestimable value to the different missionary societies, and concluded with a study of the conditions in Canada in regard to immigration which made it imperative for Protestants to support generously the agency that was giving the Bible without note and comment to the thousands of foreigners coming to us. He was followed by Rev. Mr. Spencer, of St. John's church, who made an admirable brief address in hearty support of the object of the meeting. The officers of last year were re-elected with additional representatives on the executive committee from the outlying churches: Mr. R. Brethen from Switzerville, Mr. Reginald Price from Wesley, Mr. Wm. Wilson, Camden V., Presbyterian, and Mr. James Wilson, of Strathcona. The collection for the year, Mrs. Haines and Miss Yeomans, who did such good work in canvassing, were re-appointed.

STRATHCONA.

Our village has been besieged with scarlet fever for some weeks. No families were visited by the monster, in which some quarters cases were recorded. And not until death did its work, and did the health officer come to instruct the nature of the disease. No family was quarantined, nor a house placarded, but the village authorities did their utmost to prevent the germs from spreading. Both churches and the school were closed. The family of Mr. Wm. Sherborn suffered most, two children, one son and the other three, lay dead at once with three others sick and the mother in bed with sheer exhaustion. It was truly a pitiable situation, but the turning tides are getting on quite well now. Mr. Sherborn is to be commended for the pains he has taken to try and prevent the spreading of the fever during the funeral time.—Mr. Peter Lawson, of Richmbia, is visiting his children who are being brought up by their grandmother, Mrs. Asa Ackerman.—Mrs. H. Jackson, of Ottawa, is visiting friends here.—The oldest and one of the most respected citizens passed away last week in the person of Robert Madden. At his life with the exception of a few years spent in the west, was spent in this vicinity. Rev. Mr. Saxsmith, of Newburgh, preached the funeral sermon. At the residence, and his remains were placed in the family plot in Newburgh cemetery. Robert Madden was a good man in the full sense of the word, and lived a life of usefulness. He was proud to say "he fought the good fight, he finished his course, he kept the faith."

SAVED FROM SUFFERING IN HIS OLD AGE.

Gin Pills cured him.

Annapolis, N.S., May 14, 1909.

I am over 80 years of age and have been suffering from Kidney and Bladder trouble for fifteen years. I took doctor's medicine but got no help. I take pleasure to thank you for sending me the sample box of Gin Pills, which helped me.

I have taken six boxes of Gin Pills altogether but got relief before I had taken near that amount. I had to get up some nights every fifteen minutes and had to use an instrument before I could urinate. Now, I can lie in bed four or five hours without getting up. I can say that Gin Pills have nearly cured me and shall always keep a box in the house.

Thanking you for your timely help, I am your sincere friend and well-wisher,

H. PIERCE.

And all as a result of sending for a free sample box of Gin Pills.

Do you suffer with your Kidneys or Bladder? Send to the Gin Pill Canadian Chemical Co. of Canada (Dept. A), Toronto, and get a sample free by return mail. Regular size, at all stores, 50c a box—or 6 for $2.50.

Doctors Said Only Zam-Buk Could Cure Her Eczema.

In view of the numerous cures which Zam-Buk has worked when all else has failed, there is little wonder that in the end the doctor attending Mrs. J. P. St. Denis, of 305, Thompson Street, Winnipeg, should tell her there was nothing but Zam-Buk could cure her. The result showed the far-seeing wisdom of this practitioner, and having been completely cured by Zam-Buk, Mrs. St. Denis gives her experience for the benefit of other sufferers.

She says: "Eczema started on one side of my face and nose. At first my nose felt sore, similar to what one feels when having a bad cold. I did no attention to this, thinking it would pass away in a day or so, but to my surprise it got worse. The nose then became swollen and hard, and turned a purplish red, as well as part of the cheek on that side of my face.

"As the disease developed pimples and ulcers broke out; then the skin cracked in places and peeled off in flakes, leaving my face and nose raw and sore. This condition reacted on my general health, and I became very ill. I could get no sleep at night because of the irritation and the pain, and my face was in such a shocking condition that for two months I did not go out of the house. I applied remedies which were supposed to be good for skin diseases, but in vain.

"My doctor also treated me, but without effect, until one day he said that the only thing which would now be likely to cure me was Zam-Buk.

"Acting on his advice, I procured a supply and found that even the first few applications had a soothing effect on the sores. I left off every thing else in favor of this balm, and applied it liberally every day to the affected parts. In a remarkably short time, considering the obstinate nature of my disease, we saw traces of improvement, which encouraged us to persevere with the Zam-Buk treatment. Zam-Buk reduced the discoloration, then the hard swelling began to show traces of leaving, the sores seemed less angry, and in about three weeks' time most of the sores were healing nicely. To cut a long story short, I continued with the Zam-Buk treatment until my face was cleared completely of all traces of the trouble-some and painful eczema."

Such was the experience of Mrs. St. Denis, and scores of other sufferers could tell of similar experience. Zam-Buk is Nature's own healer, being composed of pure herbal healing essences, and free from all trace of harmful animal fat or mineral poison. It is a sure cure for cuts, lacerations, burns, eczema, ringworm, poisoned wound, festering sores, bad legs, and all skin injuries and diseases. Zam-Buk is also a cure for piles. Druggists and stores everywhere sell at 50c a box, or post free from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, on receipt of price. You are warned against cheap and harmful imitations sometimes represented as "just as good."

Napanee Collegiate ! Rah ! Rah ! Rah !

On Saturday last the Picton C. I. football teams came to Napanee to try conclusion with the Napanee school. Napanee being victorious in both junior and senior games.

At 10.30 a.m. the Junior game was scheduled to start, but it was somewhat later that the Napanee boys, in their new sweaters, filled the field. Picton later came on in their red and white. The line up for the N. C. I. was:

Goal, G. Scott; Backs, Gordon Battle, D. Doller (Capt.); Halfbacks, W. Card, P. Vrooman, Z. Joyce; Forwards, J. Sober, A. Anderson, Bob. Stark, C. Fitzpatrick, R. Sills.

For a while a Napanee centre forward was wanting, but at last Bobby Stark "the little star" stepped forward and volunteered to play. In a few minutes he had proved that he was a ball player, by scoring two goals. The game progressed very favorably for Napanee, the final score being 2-0 in favor of that school.

In the afternoon the Napanee seniors lined in and lined up in the following order:

Goal, B. Jemmett; Backs, W. McLaughlin, W. Vanleven; Half-backs, B. Conway, N. Hudman, C. Stevenson; Forwards, Wartman (Capt.), A. Conklin, Mr. Miller, G. Fraser, C. Knight. They repeated the brilliant score of the Juniors, 2-0, in favor of the N. C. I.

To-morrow (Saturday), an excursion to Picton will leave the Reindeer dock at 7 a.m. sharp, and returning will leave Picton at 4.30 p.m. Return fare, 50c. Per Str. Reindeer. Come and help the boys out.

SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Rockwell celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage on Sunday last. They are both in good health and spirits and their friends wish them many more happy returns. Mr. and Mrs. Rockwell were married in Ernestown township sixty years ago by Rev. George Seymour, Methodist minister, on the Wilton circuit. Mrs. Rockwell's maiden name was Louisa Johnston, and both are descendants of Rev. E. L. Steck. They lived forty-eight years on their farm at Violet, and for the past twelve years have lived in Napanee. Mr. Rockwell led the choir in the Methodist church, Violet, for thirty-five years, and people yet enjoy hearing his voice in sacred music. They have three children, W. A. Rockwell, Wellington; Mrs. J. M. Lapum, Scranton, Pa., and O. N. Rockwell, Napanee. They entertained as many of their children and grandchildren as could be present. W. A. Rockwell and grandson, Gordon, Mr. O. N. Rockwell and daughter, Laura. Letters of remembrance were received from Mrs. Lapum and Eugene Rockwell, as well as other friends, and presents from many friends mostly in gold, testified to the esteem in which the venerable people are held. They thoroughly enjoyed their anniversary day. They are both in the best of health and say they never had a serious illness in all their long life.

OBITUARY.

Another of Napanee's old landmarks has passed away in the person of Jehiel Aylsworth. Forty-seven years ago he commenced business in our town as a grocer, and soon won his way to the hearts of his customers, by his fair dealing and his bright and cheerful manner. Several years later he embarked in the wholesale trade, which he continued under his personal superintendence until stricken down by his last illness.

For several years Mr. Aylsworth sat at the Council Board, and in 1891 was chosen as Chief Magistrate of the town, a position which he filled with great credit to himself and with general satisfaction to the whole community. He was both a progressive and aggressive man. He looked far ahead and endeavoured in all his public acts to build well for the future, and when he once outlined a plan of action he had the courage of his convictions and hesitated not to express his views regardless of the favour they might find with his audience. He was satisfied to wait until time demonstrated the correctness of those views. During the last few months of his life he suffered intense agony, but bore it with a patience and fortitude so characteristic of his whole life, until death came to his relief on the 7th inst. The funeral took place from his late residence to St. Mary Magdalene church on Sunday afternoon, when the service was conducted by the Rev. T. T. Dibb. The Masonic Order testified to the high esteem in which he was held by turning out in large numbers to pay their last tribute of respect to his memory. At the request of the deceased his brethren of Union Lodge performed their beautiful funeral ceremony over his grave. In the removal of Jehiel Aylsworth, Napanee loses one of the few remaining citizens of the old school who have done much to mould the destinies of our town.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Fifteen Years of Agony

"Fruit-a-tives" Promptly Cured Him After Doctors Had Failed To Give Relief.

CHARLES BARRETT, Esq.

Harbor au Bouche,
Antigonish Co., N.S., March 24, 1909.

I wish to express my sincere appreciation of the great benefit I received from using "Fruit-a-tives." I suffered from Indigestion and Dyspepsia for fifteen years and I consulted physicians and took many kinds of ordinary medicine, but got no relief. I was in miserable health all the time and nothing did me any good. I read the testimonial of Archibald McKechnie, of Ottawa, and decided to try "Fruit-a-tives." I have taken a number of boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" but before I had taken one box I felt better and now am entirely well.

I am thankful to be well after fifteen years suffering, and I am willing to have this statement published for the sake of other sufferers, and to them I strongly recommend "Fruit-a-tives."

(Signed) CHARLES BARRETT.

The Younger Set

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS.
Author of "The Fighting Chance," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Robert W. Chambers

"But why on earth did you come?" he repeated. "Are you in trouble?"

"I seem to be now," she said, with a tremulous laugh. "You are frightening me to death, Captain Selwyn."

Still dazed, he found the first chair at hand and dragged it toward her.

She hesitated at the offer; then "Thank you," she said, passing before him. She laid her hand on the chair, looked a moment at him and sank into it.

Resting there, her pale cheek against her muff, she smiled at him, and every nerve in him quivered with pity.

"World without end, amen," she said. "Let the judgment of man pass."

"The judgment of this man passes very gently," he said, looking down at her. "What brings you here, Mrs. Ruthven.

"Will you believe me?"

"Yes."

"Then it is simply the desire of the friendless for a friend, nothing else, nothing more subtle, nothing of effrontery, nothing worse. Do you believe me?"

"I don't understand."

"Try to."

"Do you mean that you have differed with"—

"Him?" She laughed. "Oh, no. I was talking of real people, not of myths. And real people are not very friendly to me always, not that they are disagreeable, you understand, only a trifle overcordial, and my most intimate friend kisses me a little too frequently. By the way, she has quite succumbed to you, I hear."

"Who do you mean?"

"Why, Rosamond."

He said something under his breath and looked at her impatiently.

"Didn't you know it?" she asked, smiling.

"Know what?"

"That Rosamond is quite crazy about you. There's no use scowling and squaring your chin, Oh, I ought to know what that indicates. I've watched you do it often enough, but the fact is that the handsomest and smartest woman in town is forever dinning your perfections into my ears."

He drew up a chair, seated himself very deliberately and spoke, his unlighted pipe in his left hand:

"The girl I left—the girl who left me—was a modest, clean thinking, clean minded girl, who also had a brain to use and employed it. Whatever conclusion that girl arrived at concerning the importance of marriage vows is no longer my business. But the moment she confronts me again, offering friendship, then I may use a friend's privilege, as I do. And so I tell you that loosely fashionable badinage bores me. And another matter—privileged by the friendship you acknowledge—forces me to ask you a question, and I ask it, point blank. Why have you again permitted Gerald to play cards for stakes at your house after promising you would not do so?"

The color receded from her face, and her gloved fingers tightened on the arms of her chair.

"That is one reason I came," she said, "to explain."

"You could have written."

"I say it was one reason. The other I have already given you—because I—I felt that you were friendly."

"I am. Go on. Please explain about Gerald."

"Are you sure," raising her dark eyes, "that you mean to be kind?"

"Yes, sure," he said harshly. "Go on."

"You are a little rough with me, a-almost insolent."

"I—I have to be. Good God, Alice! Do you think this is nothing to me, this wretched mess we have made of life? Do you think my roughness and abruptness come from anything but pity—pity for us both, I tell you? Do you think I can remain unmoved looking on the atrocious punishment you have inflicted on yourself—believed to—to that—for life—the poison of the contact showing in your altered voice and manner, in the things you laugh at, in the things you live for, in the twisted, misshapen ideals that your friends set up on a heap of nonsense for you to worship? Even if we've passed through the sea of mire, can't we at least clear the filth from our eyes and see straight and steer straight to the anchorage?"

She had covered her pallid face with her muff. He bent forward, his hand on the arm of her chair.

Her gloved hand, moving at random, encountered his and closed on it convulsively.

"Do you understand?" he repeated.

"Y-es, Phil."

Head still sinking, face covered with the silvery fur, the tremors from her body set her hand quivering on his.

Heartsick, he forbore to ask for the explanation. He knew the real answer anyway, whatever she might say, and he understood that any game in that house was Ruthven's game and the guests his guests and that Gerald was only one of the younger men who had been wrung dry in that house.

No doubt at all that Ruthven needed the money. He had been picked up for a big, hard eyed woman who had almost forgotten how to laugh until she found him furtively muzzling her diamond laden fingers. But when she discovered that he could sit up and beg and roll over at a nod she let him follow her, and since then he had become indispensable and had curled up on many a soft and silken knee and had sought and fetched and carried for many a pretty woman what she herself did not care to touch even with white gloved fingers.

What had she expected when she married him? Only innocent ignorance of the set he ornamented could account for the horror of her disillusion. What splendors had she dreamed of from the outside? What flashing and infernal signal had beckoned her to enter? What mute eyes had promised? What silent smile invited? All skulls seem to grin, but the world has yet to hear them laugh.

* * * * * * *

"Phil?"

"Yes, Alice."

"I did my best, w-without offending Gerald. Can you believe me?"

"I know you did. Don't mind what I said."

"N-no, not now. You do believe me, don't you?"

"Yes, I do."

Thank you. And, Phil, I will try to s-steer straight—because you say so."

"You must."

"I will. It is good to be here. I must not come again, must I?"

"Not unless I say so."

"On your account?"

"On your own. What do I care?"

"I didn't know. They say"—

"What?" he asked sharply.

"A rumor—I heard it—others speak of it—perhaps to be disagreeable to me."

"What have you heard?"

"That—that you might marry again."

"Well, you can tell that lie" to suit yourself."

"Then it is not true?"

"True! Do you think I'd take that chance again, even if I felt free to do it?"

"Free!" she faltered. "But you are free, Phil!"

"I am not," he said fiercely. "No man is free to marry twice under such conditions. It's a just act deserving a slap in the face of civilization! I'm done for—finished. I had my chance and I failed. Do you think I consider myself free to try again, with the chance of further bespattering my family?"

"Wait until you really love," she said tremulously.

He laughed incredulously.

"I am glad that it is not true. I am glad," she said, "Oh, Phil, Phil, for all single one of the chances we had again and again and again! And we did not know—we did not know! And yet—there were moments"—

Dry lipped, he looked at her, and dry of eye and lip she raised her head and stared at him, through him, far beyond at the twin ghosts floating under the triple stars locked fast in their first embrace.

Then she rose, blindly, covering her face with her hands, and he stumbled to his feet, shrinking back from her—because dead fires were flickering again, and the ashes of dead roses stirred above the scented embers—and the magic of all the east was descending like a veil upon them, and the phantom of the past drew nearer, smiling, wide armed, crowned with living blossoms.

The tide rose, swaying here where she stood. Her hands fell from her face. Between them the grave they had dug seemed almost filled with flowers now, was filling fast, and across it they looked at one another as though stunned. Then his face paled, and he stepped back, staring at her from stern eyes.

"Phil," she faltered, bewildered by the mirage, "is it only a bad dream, after all?" And as the false magic glowed into blinding splendor to engulf them, "Oh, boy, boy, is it hell or heaven where we've fallen?"

There came a loud rapping at the door.

For He Keeps a "Little Digester" Handy

Mr. Glassco, of Toronto, wrote us on May 13th last:

THE COLEMAN MEDICINE CO.,
509 Church St., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—

I wish you would send me another box of your "Little Digesters". All the members of my family have been using them and have obtained the most satisfactory results.

I congratulate you on your success in putting up a tablet for the cure of Indigestion. I suffered for years and tried everything that was recommended to me. Nothing gave me relief, until I was persuaded to try "Little Digesters". Now I never suffer from Indigestion. I enjoy my meals and am not afraid to eat, because I know a "Little Digester" after each meal will digest my food.

I recommend them to all my friends who suffer from Indigestion and would further say that you may publish the above if you wish, I know there are thousands of people suffering from Indigestion who will be glad to know there is a safe and sure cure for them.

Yours very truly,

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Mrs. H.—Why are you so fond of Oriental rugs, dear?

Mrs. M.—I'll tell you a secret. The dirtier they get, the more genuine they look, and we've no idea how much sweeping that saves.

NOT A NAUSEATING PILL. The excipient of a pill is the substance which enfolds the ingredients and makes them pill mass. That of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills is so compounded as to preserve their moisture, and they can be carried into any latitude without impairing their strength. Many pills in order to keep them from softening, are made in a manner which prove unpleasing to the taste. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are so prepared that they are agreeable to the most delicate.

"I understand the Newells are having trouble," remarked the spinster. "Some people will be married, and some others side with him."

"And, I suppose," growled the bachelor, "you have a few nervous people who mind their own business."

HOW TO CLEANSE THE SYSTEM.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are the result of scientific study of the effects of extracts of certain roots and herbs upon the digestive organs. Their use has demonstrated in many instances that they regulate the action of the liver and the kidneys, purify the blood, carry off all morbid accumulations from the system. They are easy to take, and their action is mild and beneficial.

"What will be the slogan of the next administration?"

"I should say the square meal."

Used according to directions, Dr. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial will afford relief in the most acute form of summer complaint. Whenever a disease attacks itself no time should be lost in seeking the aid of a remedy. It will act immediately on the stomach and intestines and allay the irritation. Try a trial of it, and convince anyone of the truth of these assertions.

"Johnny—The camel can go eight days without water.

Freddy—So could I if mk would let me.

A MEDICINE FOR THE MINER'S PACK.—Prospectors and others going into the mining regions where doctors are few and drug stores are far between, should provide themselves with a supply of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It will check the effects of exposure, relieve sprains, and when taken internally will prevent and cure colic, cramps, sour stomach, and as a lubricant will keep the system in good condition.

Small Fred—Papa, are we going to have a girlvanized iron roof on our new house?

Papa—Girlvanized? You mean galvanized, don't you?

Small Fred—Yes; but teacher said we should say "girl" instead of "gal."

If your children moan and are restless during sleep, coupled, when awake, with a loss of appetite, pale countenance, pitting of the nose, etc., you may depend upon it that the primary cause of the trouble is worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator effectually removes these pests, at once relieving the little sufferers.

"Did you hear about the red, white and blue wedding this morning?"

"No—what about it?"

"The bride was red, the bridegroom thought he had left the ring at home and turned white, and the bride's father paid for all the bills to pay, looked exceedingly blue."

Nothing looks more ugly than to see a person whose hands are covered over with sores. Our Carbolic Ointment will heal your person when a sore remedy of all other remedies fails. Sold by Hollister's Corn Cure.

The absent-minded professor returned home one evening, and after ringing his front doorbell for some time to no effect, heard the maid's voice from the second-story window: "The professor is not in."

"All right," quietly answered the professor. "I'll call again." And he bobbled down the stone steps.

A pain description is selected from each box of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Ask for Ask your Druggist or Druggist in the locality for a free book containing these descriptions. Then you will know what to expect when you use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. For sale by all dealers.

CALLAGHAN—MURPHY.

At St. Mary's church, Marysville, on Monday, Oct. 11th, the marriage took place of Johanna, only daughter of the late Dennis Callaghan, and Mrs. Callaghan, to John Murphy, both of Tyendinaga. The Rev. Fr. Meagher officiated. A large number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties were present. Miss Loretta McKenny, of Deseronto, a cousin of the bride, was the bridesmaid, and James Murphy, Bellville, brother of the groom, performed the mony the party drove to the residence of the bride's mother, where, after partaking of a sumptuous wedding dinner, a very pleasant afternoon and evening was spent by all those present.

Thomas Doyle, aged 82, got up at midnight at Perth and walked to Lanark, 12 miles away, in a somnambulistic state. Rain drizzled all the way. He only had on his trousers, night shirt and light cashmere sox. All these he wore in bed. He did not have glasses or cane, which he uses in day time. The road was stony, and he was footsore on reaching Lanark. In view of his age, weather and roads, his feat stands out as remarkable for a somnambulist.
